MASSING FORCES

Yemen Reported Getting Set For Arabia Invasion

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Revolutionary Republic of Yemen announced on Sana radio Friday night its land and sea forces are massing along the frontiers in readiness to invade the neighboring kingdom of Saudi Arabia when ordered.

The broadcast said the Yemeni air force — presumably augmented by Soviet warplanes from the United Arab Republic — was ordered at the ready.

DEPLOY FORCES

The broadcast from the revolutionary capital reported Baydany said Yemen's republican regime was "compelled to take this drastic action in self-defense" following alleged attempts to invade northern Yemen by "5,000 Saudi and Jordani regular troops."

"We have ordered our striking armed forced to march north and also ordered our naval units to move northward and stand prepared to enter Saudi Arabian territory when ordered," Baydany said, according to Sana radio.

Baydany said armed forces have been deployed on Yemen's northern frontier and the navy has sailed northward in the Red Sea from the Soviet-built port of Hodeida. The relatively modern port was built for the royal government dethroned by the revolutionaries in a September coup.

President Nasser of the United Arab Republic has been reported pouring arms, paratroopers and naval units into republican Yemen while the Saudi Arabia and Jordan kingdoms are backing the dethroned Imam (king) Mohammad Al-Badr in his bid to win back his throne. He was toppled—and for a time reported dead—by Yemen's strongman and new president, Brig. Abdulla Al Sallal.

Baydany charged Saudi Arabia and Jordan had attempted "outright invasion" of Yemen from the north during the last two days, Sana radio said.

State Board To Consider Grants Hike

Increase In Old Age Assistance To Be Discussed

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Welfare Commissioner Mary Evelyn Parker said Friday a proposed $4 monthly increase in old age assistance would be discussed at the Nov. 15 Welfare Board meeting.

She cautioned that under a 1962 state law, any increase in the maximum old age grants requiring state money must have approval of the legislature, either in session or through mail ballots handled by the Board of Liquidation of State Dept.

RAISES ISSUE

In Leesville, Rep. Bert Adams of Vernon Parish brought the issue up when he said Louisiana old age recipients were due the extra $4 as of Oct. 1 because of new federal legislation.

While no extra state money would be involved this fiscal year, welfare officials said, the major question would be whether legislative approval would be required to raise old age payments $4 monthly with the federal money made available.

Welfare officials added the board probably would have to examine whether it was legislative intent to require approval by lawmakers of any welfare raise—even if extra state fund were not required.

However, the increased payments could mean extra state expense next year above welfare spending for the current fiscal year, but such an increase would be small, officials said.

Adams asserted the new federal law, adopted in July 1962, provided extra federal funds to support the increase without additional cost to a state. It would increase federal participation from a $66 maximum to $70.

Stock Market Closes Hectic Session Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market faltered temporarily, then resumed its upward course Friday to close higher in a hectic session.

It climaxed one of the strongest weekly rises of the year. After word that the Soviet Union would back Cuban demands regarding missile sites, the market reeled during the afternoon and momentarily wiped out many of the day's gains. Then came a new report that missiles are in fact being dismantled in Cuba, and the market climbed back quickly.

The later buying leaned heavily, however, on defense issues.

The market closed up 7.45 at 604.58 on the Dow Jones industrial average. This was the first time the market closed above the 600 level since Sept. 20.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.20 at 222.5 with industrials up 3.8, rails up 1.1 and utilities up .7.

On the basis of this average an estimated $3.2 billion was added to the paper value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

There were 799 advances and 2?9 declines among the 1,277 issues traded, with 9 new highs for the year and 7 new lows.

A total of 5.47 million shares were traded, against Thursday's 3.4 million.

Among gainers for the day, U.S. Steel was up 63 cents at $42.63, Chrysler rose $1.63 at $63.25, General Electric was up $1.25 at $69.50 and International Business Machines advanced $5.25 at $357.25. American Telephone fell 12 cents to $109.12.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

Office Move Ruled Illegal

By HOWARD PAGE
World Staff Writer

A project involving purchase of a site and the proposed construction of a new Ouachita Parish School Board Office building in West Monroe has been ruled illegal by the State Attorney General's office, the Morning World learned Friday night.

The World learned from a reliable source that a ruling on the matter has been mailed to District Attorney Albin P. Lassiter.

NOT AUTHORIZED

Lassiter was out of town Friday and unavailable for comment. He is scheduled to return to his office Monday.

Carroll Buck, first assistant in the office of the State Attorney General, confirmed Friday night that the ruling had been mailed to Lassiter. Buck was reached at his home in Amite City.

The ruling, it was learned, states that "it is our opinion that the school board is not authorized to use proceeds from the sale of bonds to purchase a site and construct an office building."

The ruling further states that such action would be in "violation of revised statutes 39:5??" of the state laws.

In a meeting Oct. 2 when the controversial issue first came up, the board voted 10-? to purchase 9.?? acres of land in West Monroe for construction of the new office building. The land, owned by T. A. Sanders, is located near the intersection of Thomas Road and the new I-20 Highway. Purchase price approved for the land was $21,500.

AGAINST BUDGET GROUP

Education Board Threatens Fight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education, in a dramatic move Friday, threatened the legislative Budget Committee with a legal fight unless it keeps out of school affairs.

Earlier this week an opinion by Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion held that the budget group had no power to regulate monthly spending of such state units as the education board.

Specifically, the board adopted a resolution authorizing the attorney general to take whatever steps necessary to protect the board, if the budget committee fail by Nov. 1? to agree voluntarily with the ruling.

STIRS ACTION

The action was urged by Dr. Boyd Woodard, Lake Charles board member, who declared angrily the members of the constitutional board were elected to safeguard the future of Louisiana children, and "we're not figure heads or puppets."

The budget committee, headed by Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley and appointed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, returns Nov. 9 for its next session.

Dr. Woodard, who had requested the opinion by the attorney general, said:

"The legislative committee has usurped the powers and responsibilities of the local school boards as well as the powers [illegible] body [illegible] book for [illegible] approve [illegible] want to [illegible] approve [illegible] academic [illegible] state [illegible] approval."

House To Probe U.S. Controls On Information

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., of a House subcommittee on government information, Friday criticized new information policies imposed by the Defense and State departments as "extremely disturbing developments."

He promised an investigation of charges that the two departments are trying to control news and information. The departments said they were trying to protect the national security and keep a record of their relations with the press.

Moss' statement came after disclosure that the State Department had reinstituted a policy of requiring officials to report on meetings with newsmen. This followed a similar Defense Department regulation announced earlier in the week.

Also involved is a controversial statement by Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester. He said earlier this week that the timing and content of news releases were part of the government's "weapons" available to President Kennedy in time of crisis.

Moss said that this statement [illegible] manipulation.

NEW DUKE PRESIDENT

One-Time Waiter Heads University

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Douglas Maitland Knight, 41, a schoolteacher's son who once worked as waiter in a prep school, was named president of Duke University on Friday.

Dr. Knight, a native of Cambridge, Mass., educated at Yale and considered an outstanding scholar of English literature, will come to Duke from Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., where he has been president for nine years.

At Lawrence, he was named the school's 11th and youngest president at 32. He will be the fifth and youngest president in Duke history.

At Duke, Dr. Knight will succeed the interim president, Dr. Deryl Hart, who was chairman of the Duke University department of surgery for 30 years before he succeeded Dr. Hollis Edens who retired in 1960.

Dr. Knight is expected to take office sometime during the 1964-65 school year.

In 1935, Dr. Knight enrolled at Phillips Exeter Academy and worked as a waiter to defray his expenses. He was graduated at 16 with honors, but because of his age, he waited a year before entering Yale, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1942, his master's in 1944 and his doctorate in 1946.

Duke was founded in 1924 by the endowment of the late James Buchanan Duke, tobacco and utilities tycoon, and was opened in 1930.

JFK Reports Missiles Are Being Crated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy told the American people Friday night the Soviet rocket bases in Cuba are being dismantled, the missiles are being crated and "progress is now being made towards the restoration of peace in the Caribbean."

BRIEF NOTICE

The President appeared on radio and television, after little more than an hour's advance notice, with a brief progress report on settlement of the crisis that a week ago had the world teetering on the brink of nuclear war.

He said:

"My fellow citizens: I want to take this opportunity to report on the conclusions which this government has reached on the basis of yesterday's aerial photographs which will be made available tomorrow, as well as other indications, namely, that the Soviet missile bases in Cuba are being dismantled, their missiles and related equipment are being crated, and the fixed installations at these sites are being destroyed.

"The United States intends to follow closely the completion of this work through a variety of means, including aerial surveillance, until such time as an equally satisfactory international means of verification is effected.

"While the quarantine remains in effect, we are hopeful that adequate procedures can be developed for international inspection of Cuba-bound cargoes. The International Committee of the Red Cross, in our view, would be an appropriate agent in this matter.

"The continuation of these measures in air and sea, until the threat to peace posed by these offensive weapons is gone, is in keeping without pledge to secure their withdrawal or elimination from this hemisphere. It is in keeping with the resolution of the Organization of American States, and it is in keeping with the exchange of letters with Chairman Khrushchev of Oct. 27th and 28th.

"Progress is now being made toward the restoration of peace in the Caribbean, and it is our firm hope and purpose that this progress shall go forward. We will continue to keep the American people informed on this vital matter.

"Thank you."

The proposal that the International Red Cross be asked to play a role in verifying removal of the missile bases was advanced by the Soviet Union.

Chile President May Break Off Cuba Relations

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Jorge Alessandri's government has virtually decided to break diplomatic relations with Cuba, well-informed sources reported Friday.

The informants said Alessandri has come under increasing pressure for such a move from members of his coalition, made up of Radicals, Liberals and Conservatives.

We are too eager to pin labels on everybody. Just because a man is critical of the indiscriminate use of chemical pesticides doesn't necessarily mean he is pro-bug.

The man at the next desk is often told his opinions are uncalled for. But he says that he'd have them on his hands indefinitely if he waited for somebody to call for them.

Some day a secretary of agriculture is going to be honest in his autobiography and say that instead of being appointed he was fingered for the job.

IN MOUNTAIN CAVES

Exile Says Cuba Hiding Missiles

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro is hiding the mobile, medium range Soviet missiles in mountain caves and excavations, an exiled Cuban government official said Friday.

The exile said Castro is openly dismantling intermediate range missile bases while stalling for time to get the shorter range missiles hidden from piercing eyes of American reconnaissance planes.

He is Rafael Garcia Novarro, Cuban delegate to the United Nations and Cuban economic counselor to the U.N. from 1955 to 1958.

GETS INFORMATION

"If President Kennedy believes Castro and Nikita Khrushchev when they say the missiles have been removed from Cuba, he will be making a great mistake," Garcia Novarro said.

"They will withdraw only the larger missiles and a token number of the medium range missiles. But a larger number of the smaller missiles will be left in Cuba."

Garcia Novarro said, "We have been trying to get as much information as possible on the missile installations in Pinar del Rio province and elsewhere."

He said associates in Miami talked Friday morning to friends in Cuba. "We have a code system that changes every month. Through code words we learned today that Castro is apparently hiding the missiles.

"Those inside Cuba say he is not transporting the missiles down the central highway to ocean ports where they could be returned to Russia. Instead, they are going further inland to excavations in the mountain region," Garcia Novarro stated.

Anna Satellite To Flash Lights For First Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Defense Department reported Friday that the newly launched "Firefly" geodetic satellite is functioning perfectly and its flashing lights will be triggered for the first time at 8:01 a.m. Eastern Standard Time on Sunday.

An announcement said the satellite, whose official name is Anna, [illegible] States on Sunday. The command presumably will be sent as the satellite passes over the main tracking station in Howard County, Md.

Project officials said the flashes will not be visible to the eye.

COOLER

Just about the same — that's the weather story in the Twin Cities for today, according to the forecast. Partly cloudy skies and cool temperatures will prevail today, tonight and Sunday.

Today's high is expected to be somewhere between 64 and 68 degrees. The low tonight should range from 42 to 46.

Friday's high was 67 with the low posted at 43. There was a trace of rain measured by Federal Aviation at Selman Field.

DEVISED BY POLICE

Seattle Motorists Do 'Traffic Twist'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Several thousand motorists did the traffic twist on Seattle streets Thursday, negotiating obstacle courses devised by police in a safety campaign. Reaction Friday ranged from amusement to annoyance.

The test, announced in advance as a check on tipsy drivers and faulty equipment, began as police set up traffic cones and detour signs on seven arterials.

Some of the 100-foot-long courses had a simple zig-zag; others a double dose of each. They quickly separated the dud drivers from the nimble.

"Some of them just don't catch on very quick," said a police officer.

Mrs. Robert Rohwedder got through, gracefully.

"I like to twist anyway," she said, "and I'm glad somebody told me my stoplight was out."

Scores were warned about burned-out stoplights. One man was charged with drunken driving. Police said he knocked over four cones.

Traffic Inspector J. D. Porter said motorists here will be doing the twist two or three days a week this winter and a week straight just before Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day.

"We hope people who are out on a party realize they may run into a traffic twist and refrain from driving," he said.

"You can't twist when you're stiff."

U.S., Soviet Near Accord On Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union were reported near agreement Friday night on a plan to permit the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound Soviet ships.

The Red Cross itself still has not consented to assume the role, but is sending a representative to New York for discussion with Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant this weekend.

HOPES RISE

The move, if approved, is intended to open a way for the United States to lift its naval arms quarantine set up to prevent arms shipments to Cuba.

In his broadcast to the nation late Friday, President Kennedy said the Red Cross would be an appropriate agency for this task. Under the proposed plan, informed quarters said, the inspectors would be stationed on a ship or ships chartered by the Red Cross or the United Nations.

This and other developments gave rise to expressions of optimism here that the crisis with Cuba involving the United States and the Soviet Union would be resolved.

A U.N. spokesman said Thant had been informing diplomats that he is trying to arrange the ship inspection plan with the Red Cross.

He said it is the secretary-general's understanding that it will be about 10 days before Soviet ships will be able to pick up the

New Highlights In Cuban Crisis Given At Glance

By The Associated Press

President Kennedy, in a radio-television broadcast that lasted less than two minutes, told the nation the Soviet rocket bases in Cuba are being dismantled, the missiles are being crated.

He said it is "our firm hope and purpose" that progress now being made toward restoration of peace in the Caribbean will continue and that the United States will keep close watch on removal of the missiles until there is international verification that they are gone.

Kennedy said a proposal, advanced by the Soviet Union, that the International Committee of the Red Cross help by inspecting Cuba-bound cargoes is an appropriate action.

The United States and the Soviet Union were reported at the United Nations near agreement on the plan to permit the Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound ships so that the U.S. naval arms quarantine can be lifted.

—Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, before flying from New York to Havana, said the Soviet Union stands behind Castro's terms for settling the crisis. But the Soviet official made no mention to newsmen of the Soviet missile sites.

MASSING FORCES

Yemen Reported Getting Set For Arabia Invasion

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Revolutionary Republic of Yemen announced on Sana radio Friday night its land and sea forces are massing along the frontiers in readiness to invade the neighboring kingdom of Saudi Arabia when ordered.

The broadcast said the Yemeni air force — presumably augmented by Soviet warplanes from the United Arab Republic — was ordered at the ready.

DEPLOY FORCES

The broadcast from the revolutionary capital reported Baydany said Yemen's republican regime was "compelled to take this drastic action in self-defense" following alleged attempts to invade northern Yemen by "5,000 Saudi and Jordani regular troops."

"We have ordered our striking armed forced to march north and also ordered our naval units to move northward and stand prepared to enter Saudi Arabian territory when ordered," Baydany said, according to Sana radio.

Baydany said armed forces have been deployed on Yemen's northern frontier and the navy has sailed northward in the Red Sea from the Soviet-built port of Hodeida. The relatively modern port was built for the royal government dethroned by the revolutionaries in a September coup.

State Board To Consider Grants Hike

Increase In Old Age Assistance To Be Discussed

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Welfare Commissioner Mary Evelyn Parker said Friday a proposed $4 monthly increase in old age assistance would be discussed at the Nov. 15 Welfare Board meeting.

She cautioned that under a 1962 state law, any increase in the maximum old age grants requiring state money must have approval of the legislature, either in session or through mail ballots handled by the Board of Liquidation of State Dept.

RAISES ISSUE

In Leesville, Rep. Bert Adams of Vernon Parish brought the issue up when he said Louisiana old age recipients were due the extra $4 as of Oct. 1 because of new federal legislation.

While no extra state money would be involved this fiscal year, welfare officials said, the major question would be whether legislative approval would be required to raise old age payments $4 monthly with the federal money made available.

Welfare officials added the board probably would have to examine whether it was legislative intent to require approval by lawmakers of any welfare raise—even if extra state fund were not required.

However, the increased payments could mean extra state expense next year above welfare spending for the current fiscal year, but such an increase would be small, officials said.

Adams asserted the new federal law, adopted in July 1962, provided extra federal funds to support the increase without additional cost to a state. It would increase federal participation from a $66 maximum to $70.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told the American people Friday night the Soviet rocket bases in Cuba are being dismantled, the missiles are being crated and "progress is now being made towards the restoration of peace in the Caribbean."

BRIEF NOTICE

The President appeared on radio and television, after little more than an hour's advance notice, with a brief progress report on settlement of the crisis that a week ago had the world teetering on the brink of nuclear war.

He said:

"My fellow citizens: I want to take this opportunity to report on the conclusions which this government has reached on the basis of yesterday's aerial photographs which will be made available tomorrow, as well as other indications, namely, that the Soviet missile bases in Cuba are being dismantled, their missiles and related equipment are being crated, and the fixed installations at these sites are being destroyed.

"The United States intends to follow closely the completion of this work through a variety of means, including aerial surveillance, until such time as an equally satisfactory international means of verification is effected.

"While the quarantine remains in effect, we are hopeful that adequate procedures can be developed for international inspection of Cuba-bound cargoes. The International Committee of the Red Cross, in our view, would be an appropriate agent in this matter.

"The continuation of these measures in air and sea, until the threat to peace posed by these offensive weapons is gone, is in keeping without pledge to secure their withdrawal or elimination from this hemisphere. It is in keeping with the resolution of the Organization of American States, and it is in keeping with the exchange of letters with Chairman Khrushchev of Oct. 27th and 28th.

"Progress is now being made towards the restoration of peace in the Caribbean, and it is our firm hope and purpose that this progress shall go forward. We will continue to keep the American people informed on this vital matter.

"Thank you."

The proposal that the International Red Cross be asked to play a role in verifying removal of the missile bases was advanced by the Soviet Union.

Chile President May Break Off Cuba Relations

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Jorge Alessandri's government has virtually decided to break diplomatic relations with Cuba, well-informed sources reported Friday.

The informants said Alessandri has come under increasing pressure for such a move from members of his coalition, made up of Radicals, Liberals and Conservatives.

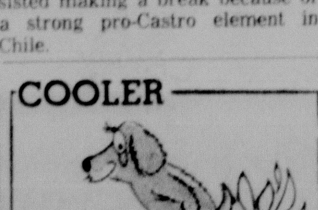
COOLER



Just about the same — that's the weather story in the Twin Cities for today, according to the forecast. Partly cloudy skies and cool temperatures will prevail today, tonight and Sunday.

Today's high is expected to be somewhere between 64 and 68 degrees. The low tonight should range from 42 to 46.

Friday's high was 67 with the low posted at 43. There was a trace of rain measured by Federal Aviation at Selman Field.

TWO MEMBERS of the International Committee of the International Red Cross discuss the possibility of the Red Cross going into Cuba to verify the removal of Soviet missiles from the island. Exile Says Cuba Hiding Missiles

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro is hiding the mobile, medium range Soviet missiles in mountain caves and excavations, an exiled Cuban government official said Friday.

The exile said Castro is openly dismantling intermediate range missile bases while stalling for time to get the shorter range missiles hidden from piercing eyes of American reconnaissance planes.

He is Rafael Garcia-Novarro, Cuban delegate to the United Nations and Cuban economic counselor to the U.N. from 1955 to 1958.

GETS INFORMATION

"If President Kennedy believes Castro and Nikita Khrushchev when they say the missiles have been removed from Cuba, he will be making a great mistake," Garcia-Novarro said.

"They will withdraw only the larger missiles and a token number of the medium range missiles. But a larger number of the smaller missiles will be left in Cuba."

Garcia-Novarro said, "We have been trying to get as much information as possible on the missile installations in Pinar del Rio province and elsewhere."

He said associates in Miami talked Friday morning to friends in Cuba. "We have a code system that changes every month. Through code words we learned today that Castro is apparently hidding the missiles.

"Those inside Cuba say he is not transporting the missiles down the central highway to ocean ports where they could be returned to Russia. Instead, they are going further inland to excavations in the mountain region," Garcia-Novarro stated.

Anna Satellite To Flash Lights For First Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Defense Department reported Friday that the newly launched "Firefly" geodetic satellite is functioning perfectly and its flashing lights will be triggered for the first time at 8:03 a.m. Eastern Standard Time on Sunday.

An announcement said the satellite, whose official name is Anna, "is rapidly achieving ideal status for carrying out tasks assigned to its instrument systems." It reported radio tracking and positioning equipment were operating well.

The statement said two of Anna's four flashing lights will be commanded to make a series of five quick winks over the Atlantic Ocean off the eastern coast of the United States on Sunday. The command presumably will be sent as the satellite passes over the main tracking station in Howard County, Md.

Project officials said the flashes will not be visible to the eye.

Seattle Motorists Do 'Traffic Twist'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Several thousand motorists did the traffic twist on Seattle streets Thursday negotiating obstacle courses devised by police in a safety campaign. Reaction Friday ranged from amusement to annoyance.

The test, announced in advance as a check on tipsy drivers and faulty equipment, began as police set up traffic cones and detour signs on seven arterials.

Some of the 100-foot-long courses had a simple zig-zag; others a double dose of each. They quickly separated the dud drivers from the nimble.

"Some of them just don't catch on very quick," said a police officer.

Mrs. Robert Rohwedder got through gracefully.

"I like to twist anyway," she said, "and I'm glad somebody told me my stoplight was out."

Scores were warned about burned-out stoplights. One man was charged with drunken driving. Police said he knocked over four cones.

Traffic Inspector J. D. Porter said motorists here will be doing the twist two or three days a week this winter and a week straight just before Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day.

"We hope people who are out on a party realize they may run into a traffic twist and refrain from driving," he said.

"You can't twist when you're stiff."

U.S., Soviet Near Accord On Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union were reported near agreement Friday night on a plan to permit the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound Soviet ships.

The Red Cross itself still has not consented to assume the role, but is sending a representative to New York for discussion with Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant this weekend.

HOPES RISE

The move, if approved, is intended to open a way for the United States to lift its naval arms quarantine set up to prevent arms shipments to Cuba.

In his broadcast to the nation late Friday, President Kennedy said the Red Cross would be an appropriate agency for this task. Under the proposed plan, informed quarters said, the inspectors would be stationed on a ship or ships chartered by the Red Cross or the United Nations.

This and other developments gave rise to expressions of optimism here that the crisis with Cuba involving the United States and the Soviet Union would be resolved.

A U.N. spokesman said Thant had been informing diplomats that he is trying to arrange the ship inspection plan with the Red Cross.

He said it is the secretary-general's understanding that it will be about 10 days before Soviet ships will be able to pick up the

New Highlights In Cuban Crisis Given At Glance

By The Associated Press

—President Kennedy, in a radio-television broadcast that lasted less than two minutes, told the nation the Soviet rocket bases in Cuba are being dismantled, the missiles are being crated.

He said it is "our firm hope and purpose" that progress now being made toward restoration of peace in the Caribbean will continue and that the United States will keep close watch on removal of the missiles until there is international verification that they are gone.

Kennedy said a proposal, advanced by the Soviet Union, that the International Committee of the Red Cross help by inspecting Cuba-bound cargoes is an appropriate action.

—The United States and the Soviet Union were reported at the United Nations near agreement on the plan to permit the Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound ships so that the U.S. naval arms quarantine can be lifted.

—Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, before flying from New York to Havana, said the Soviet Union stands behind Castro's terms for settling the crisis. But the Soviet official made no mention to newsmen of the Soviet missile sites.

ANSWER QUESTIONS

Education Board Candidates Meet In Debate Here

Fifth District candidates for the State Board of Education — Democrat W. E. Whetstone and Republican George Snellings Jr. — met face to face in a friendly debate here Friday and agreed that the state superintendent of education should be appointed.

While Snellings said the question should not pertain to Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, Whetstone differed, explaining, "I can't agree with George on that. Mr. Jackson has been around my neck ever since I got in the race."

"The election of the superintendent is nonsense," Snellings said.

"I believe that any man handling public funds should have a boss," Whetstone said.

Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe sponsored a unsuccessful bill in the past session to make the superintendent's position appointive by the state board rather than elective by the people.

The two candidates, who will meet in the Nov. 6 general election, appeared before the Monroe Optimist Club, answering questions ranging from teachers' salaries to school finances.

THEIR ANSWERS

What do you think about the Legislature taking over the direct appropriation of school funds away from the State Board of Education?

Snellings — "I think that it is too new for any of us to know how it will work. Personally, I think it's a bad idea."

Whetstone — "The state board was set up for that purpose. Maybe at the time the Legislature did this it was all right, but I don't think it should be done in the future."

What is your position on the State Board of Education meeting in executive session?

Whetstone — "I have never been in favor of executive sessions. It's the public's business."

Snellings — "I wouldn't go that far. There are times when matters should be discussed in meetings where some members would feel freer to express their opinions. I do not go for executive sessions unless under unusual circumstances."

What is your position on the feud between Supt. Jackson and the president of the State Board of Education, William J. Dodd?

Whetstone — "I hate to see any fight among public officials."

Snellings — "I share the same opinion. I do not know either Mr. Jackson or Mr. Dodd."

What is your opinion on teachers' salaries?

Snellings — "The present salaries are in good shape compared to what they once were. To get them forward to a higher level, it will take a comprehensive study. If elected, I plan to make a detailed study of all financial matters pertaining to the state system. Budget insecurity has got to be solved."

Whetstone — "In some cases the salaries have certainly been improved on. But I think we have ample funds in our school today to pay our teachers. I contend that if we cut out the waste, we could improve that."

What do you think the State Board of Education can do to maintain school segregation?

Snellings — "The answer is not an easy one. I think it will take several years for the question to be settled."

Whetstone — "I can only say that we five fellows on the City School Board have pledged to go to jail if necessary."

What do you think are the answers to the schools' financial troubles?

Whetstone — "We have gotten so far away from the basic principles of the Three R's that it's high time we made a complete study of what we're doing."

Snellings — "Neither of us could answer that question because we are on the outside looking in. Again I say that if elected I will make a complete study of school finances once I am in a position to do so."

Do you, Mr. Snellings, believe that your being a Republican would damage your services on the board?

Snellings — "If I thought it my party would hinder my services, I wouldn't be running."

Whetstone — "I contend that 11 Democrats can get along better than 10 Democrats and one Republican."

Do you believe that the state should emphasize the development of the present college or should it expand by developing more colleges?

Whetstone — "I believe that we should develop the colleges that we have. For instance, I would be a shame not to go forward with a college like Tech."

Snellings — "College education should be spread out. The area schools must be developed."

Solons View Lift Of Chlorine Tank

By HAROLD CASE
Correspondent

VIDALIA — With Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe viewing operations from aboard the U. S. Engineers motor patrol boat Lipscomb, successful lifting of the third of four tanks of deadly chlorine gas from a sunken barge was completed on the Mississippi River 7½ miles south of here Friday.

The recovery was as smooth as two previous lifts of tanks from the barge Wednesday and Friday of last week.

Following the loading of the third tank on a U. S. Engineer barge which was to carry it down the Mississippi River to the Geismar plant of the Wyandotte Chemical Co. for storage along with the first two cylinders, Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer of the U. S. Corps of Engineers Vicksburg District in charge of the operations, said the fourth and final tank would be raised "Sunday or Monday."

He added that he was pleased with the [illegible] lifts and he anticipated no problem with the final lift.

Friday's [illegible] lift was completed in 29 minutes [illegible]. The lift started at 8:58 a.m. [illegible] the tank [illegible] above water at 9:27 a.m.

Raising of the third tank was delayed [illegible] hard packed and [illegible] around the last two cylinders on the sunken barge which [illegible] been cleaned [illegible] will have more room to operate [illegible] the final tank [illegible].

Cleaned off and all valves checked for possible leaks as soon as it was in good condition and he added that even the paint was not bad as was the condition of the first two cylinders raised.

Tank number three was hoisted at a rate of a foot and a half per minute from about 45 feet of water at the bottom of the river. This tank, officials said, was at a greater angle but there was not a hitch during the lifting.

Sen. Long and Congressman Passman said the lift was "very interesting" and added "We are pleased with the operation and with the safety precautions which were taken by all in charge of the tricky lifting. Everyone should be commended for a job well done and we believe number four will be no problem."

Officials had hoped to raise the third tank last Wednesday but the large amount of sand, silt and driftwood beneath the tank necessitated considerably longer time to remove than anticipated.

The barge was one of 16 being towed by the towboat Eastern of the Union Barge Lines upbound on the Mississippi River

Soviets Halt U.S. Convoy Near Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — Soviet border guards delayed for one hour and 30 minutes Friday a U.S. Army convoy demonstrating Allied rights of free travel to and from West Berlin. It was the first Communist harassment of Allied military traffic since the Cuban crisis.

The Russians held up the westbound convoy of six trucks, four trailers and a dozen soldiers at the highway checkpoint outside Berlin on grounds the Army had not notified the Soviets in advance of movement. After clearance the convoy traveled 110 miles to Western Germany without incident. A second west-bound convoy was passed quickly.

Western officials considered the Soviet action an isolated incident and said no protest would be filed. They doubted the delay was in retaliation for the American blockade of Cuba.

However, they carefully studied dispatches from Moscow for any clue to whether Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and East German Communist Leader Walter Ulbricht might be forging a new post-Cuba Berlin policy.

In London, visiting West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said he believes the West's determination to maintain its position will be viewed much more seriously by Khrushchev following the Cuban crisis. He told a news conference that a "genuine fear of war" existed among populations of the Communist bloc countries during the crisis.

The mayor said it is "conceivable" that a new phase of East-West negotiations may begin shortly and urged the West to prepare for it by closing the "few gaps" still existing in the Western front.

CIVIL RIGHTS CASE

Plaquemines Vote Registrar Enjoined

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — [illegible] Dist. Judge Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. Friday enjoined Plaquemines Parish voter registrar Mary Ethel Fox from discriminating against prospective Negro voters.

But Judge Ainsworth refused to order the immediate registration of Negroes who have applied since January, 1961. He ruled that 31 of the 41 the Justice Department sought registered immediately had failed to comply with the state's law on application and a constitutional test. The other four have since registered.

Judge Ainsworth ordered Mrs. Fox to provide the 37 Negroes with another chance to register.

"Much greater and more substantial evidence is needed," the judge [illegible] opinion to justify a finding of a pattern or a practice of discrimination and the evidence is insufficient to permit such a finding.

"Nevertheless, there is sufficient evidence to justify our enjoining defendant by preliminary injunction from discriminating against any citizen of Plaquemines Parish by reason of race or color in the administration of the registration procedures, in the registrar's office."

Mrs. Fox and her deputy, Lionel [illegible], were instructed to file monthly reports with the court on each person who applies to vote, giving name, address, race, disposition of case and reason for disposition.

The Justice Department filed the suit Oct. 12, 1961, under the Civil Rights Acts of 1957 and 1960.

D. A. Declares Franklin Road Legal Procedure

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dist. Atty. Sargent Pitcher said Friday construction of a dead-end state highway to the front door of Rep. Lantz Womack of Franklin Parish was legal.

Pitcher said State 867 was made a state highway by act 10 of 1956 and he couldn't find "any expenditures of public funds for private purposes in violation of law in this instance."

Pitcher gave his views in a letter to Douglas Manship, president of WBRZ-TV here. The station had asked the district attorney's office to investigate the road project.

The letter said the road was placed in the state highway system before Womack was a member of the legislature and "construction was authorized during the past administration, and followed the normal course of highway improvements to its completion during the present administration."

Powers Leaves Post With CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers has resigned from the Central Intelligence Agency, it was learned Friday.

Powers quit the CIA on Oct. [illegible] coincidentally just eight days short of another U-2 flight that subsequently made history—in the Oct. 14 overflight of Cuba which produced the first hard evidence of Soviet missile bases there.

Powers was a CIA employe when he made his ill-fated reconnaissance mission over the Soviet Union on May 1, 1960. His capture when the U-2 was downed led to the collapse of the summit conference in Paris that month.

Last February, Powers was set free from a 10-year Soviet prison sentence in exchange for Russian master spy Rudolph Abel.

MARY'S GARDEN

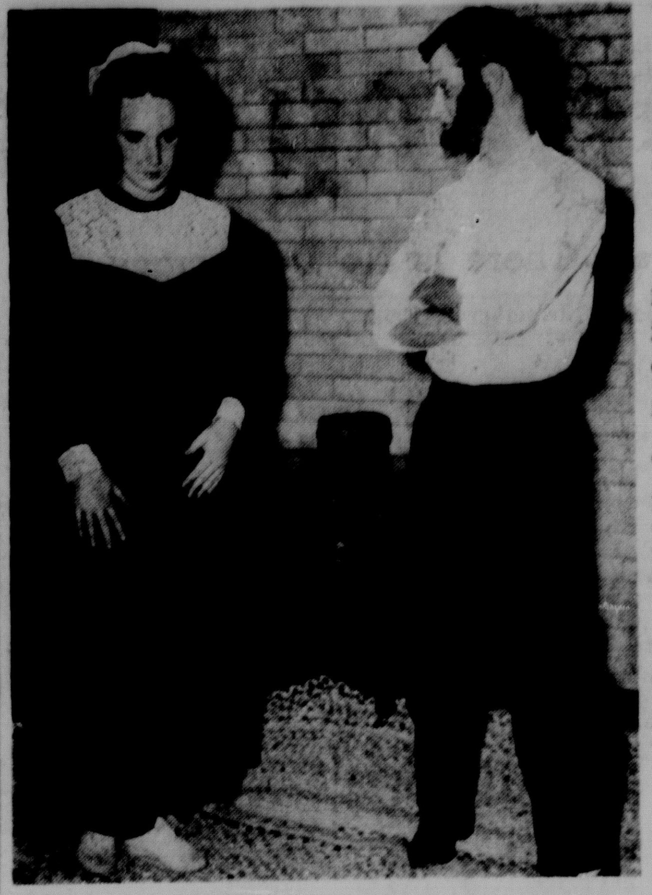
CHICAGO (UPI) —Mary, Mary, quite contrary, would find it takes more than silver bells and cockle shells to master today's scientific growing techniques.

One of the newest wrinkles in green house gardening is "atmospherid fertilization" with carbon dioxide, says Cardox Division of Chemetron Corp. Boosting the CO_2 concentration found naturally in the air produces bigger, healthier, faster-maturing plants, the firm says.



MAMA AND PAPA, or Northeast State students Murray Burfford and Mike Parkerson, both of Monroe, rehearse a scene from "Papa Is All," a Broadway play about a Pennsylvania Dutch family's revolt against a tyrannical father. The play will be presented by drama students in the Fine Arts Division of Northeast on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 12-13, at 8 p.m. in Biedenbarn Auditorium. Claude Fuller, assistant professor of speech, is director.

CIVIL RIGHTS CASE

Plaquemines Vote Registrar Enjoined

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. Friday enjoined Plaquemines Parish voter registrar Mary Ethel Fox from discriminating against prospective Negro voters.

But Judge Ainsworth refused to order the immediate registration of Negroes who have applied since January, 1953. He ruled that 37 of the 41 the Justice Department sought registered immediately has failed to comply with the state's law on applications and a constitutional test. The other four have since registered.

Judge Ainsworth ordered Miss Fox to provide the 37 Negroes with another chance to register.

"Much greater and more sufficient evidence is necessary," he wrote, "however, in our opinion to justify a finding of a pattern or a practice of discrimination and the evidence is insufficient to permit such a holding.

"Nevertheless there is sufficient evidence to justify our enjoining defendants by preliminary injunction from discriminating against any citizens of Plaquemines Parish by reason of race or color in the administration of the registration procedures in the registrar's office."

Miss Fox and her deputy, Lionel Lassus, were instructed to file monthly reports with the court on each person who applies to vote, giving name, address, race, disposition of case, and reason for disposition.

The Justice Department filed the suit Oct. 16, 1961, under the Civil Rights Acts of 1957 and 1960.

D. A. Declares Franklin Road Legal Procedure

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dist. Atty. Sargent Pitcher said Friday construction of a deadend state highway to the front door of Rep. Lantz Womack of Franklin Parish was legal.

Pitcher said State 862 was made a state highway by act 40 of 1955 and he couldn't find "any expenditures of public funds for private purposes in violation of law in this instance."

Pitcher gave his views in a letter to Douglas Manship, president of WBRZ-TV here. The station had asked the district attorney's office to investigate the road project.

The letter said the road was placed in the state highway system before Womack was a member of the legislature and "construction was authorized during the past administration, and followed the normal course of highway improvements to its completion during the present administration."

Powers Leaves Post With CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers has resigned from the Central Intelligence Agency, it was learned Friday.

One source said he left the agency because "his work was finished."

Powers quit the CIA on Oct. 6, coincidentally just eight days short of another U2 flight that subsequently made history—in the Oct. 14 overlight of Cuba which produced the first hard evidence of Soviet missile bases there.

Powers was a CIA employe when he made his ill-fated surveillance mission over the Soviet Union on May 1, 1960. His capture when the U2 was downed led to the collapse of the summit conference in Paris that month.

Last February, Powers was set free from a 10-year Soviet prison sentence in exchange for Russian master spy Rudolph Abel.

Solons View Lift Of Chlorine Tank

By HAROLD CASE
Correspondent

VIDALIA — With Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe viewing operations from aboard the U. S. Engineers motor patrol boat Lipscomb, successful lifting of the third of four tanks of deadly chlorine gas from a sunken barge was completed on the Mississippi River 7½ miles south of here Friday.

The recovery was as smooth as two previous lifts of tanks from the barge Wednesday and Friday of last week.

Following the loading of the third tank on a U. S. Engineers barge which was to carry it down the Mississippi River to the Geismer plant of the Wyandotte Chemical Co. for storage along with the first two cylinders, Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer of the U.S. Corps of Engineers Vicksburg District in charge of the operations, said the fourth and final tank would be raised "Sunday or Monday."

He added that he was pleased with the first three lifts and he anticipated no problem with the final lift.

Friday morning's lift was completed in 29 minutes and 30 seconds. The lift started at 8:38 a.m. The tank was above water at 9:07 a.m.

Raising of the third tank was delayed because of hard - packed sand and mud around the last two cylinders in the sunken barge which has now been cleaned away. Divers will have more room to operate for the final tank raising.

Also viewing the lifting Friday morning were Mayors John J. Nosser of Natchez, Miss., and Sidney A. Murray Jr. of Vidalia, and other officials in the party with Sen. Long and Rep. Passman.

All praised the smoothness of the operation and commended Col. Everett and others in charge of operations, including the contractors Brown and Root Inc., of Houston, Texas, and the Triple C Boats Inc. of Morgan City, La., who have the joint-venture contract for raising the tanks.

The third tanks dome was cleaned off and all valves checked for possible leaks as soon as it was in good condition, and he added that even the paint was intact as was the condition of the first two cylinders raised.

Tank number three was raised at a rate of a foot and a half per minute from about 65 feet of water at the bottom of the river. This tank, officials said, was at a greater angle but there was not a hitch during the lifting.

Sen. Long and Congressman Passman said the lift was very interesting and added "We are pleased with the operation and with the safety precautions which were taken by all in charge of this tricky lifting. Everyone should be commended for a job well done and we believe number four will be no problem."

Officials had hoped to raise the third tank last Wednesday, but the large amount of sand, silt and driftwood beneath the tanks necessitated considerably longer time to remove than anticipated.

Wife Charged In Slaying

WINTHROP, N.Y. (AP) — A cancer-stricken mother of four was arraigned Friday on a murder charge in the shooting of her husband, who, she told police, had threatened to kill her because he had spent all his money on her treatments.

Myrtle Harvey, 43, was ordered to undergo a mental examination Monday. She entered no plea to the first-degree murder charge.

Dist. Atty. Charles Bowers said Mrs. Harvey had admitted killing her husband, Harold, 40, as he worked in their garage workshop Thursday night in this St. Lawrence County community.

Recommendations On Amendments

Next Sunday, November 4th, The World and News-Star will publish recommendations to the voters on the 48 constitutional amendments up for ratification or rejection in Tuesday's election. Our recommendations will appear on the page opposite Sunday's editorial page.

Each amendment will be dealt with separately under both the number by which it is identified on the ballot and by the title which identifies it on the Legislature's resolution submitting it to the people.

At the same time, and also on Monday and Tuesday morning, we will publish an amendments "Box Score." This will list the 48 amendments by number only, with a mark for each showing whether we recommend voting "Yes" or "No." Voters in the past have found these "Box Scores" handy to clip and take into the voting booth with them. Where a voter disagrees with our recommendations on any amendment, it will be easy to mark the change with a pencil.

Tips From Moscow

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, described by one Washington report as "a one-man hoof-in-mouth epidemic," is just back from an educational jaunt across the Soviet Union.

He led a group of administration junketeers to study Soviet power installations. Included in that group were Joseph Swidler, new chairman of the federal power commission, and Howard Morgan, an Oregon Democrat, both of whose appointments to the FPC last year drew heavy fire from senate Republicans.

Ostensibly, these men were to study "Soviet technological advances in power production and particularly transmission of large blocs of power over great distances."

As pointed out by Representative John Saylor of Pennsylvania, Udall and the other members of the administration on this junket have been actively advocating a federally-controlled power system ever since they came to office. It is not difficult to fathom the reason for Udall's trip, along with his cohorts, in the business of trying to take the nation's electric systems out of the hands of private concerns and trying to nationalize them.

Representative Saylor, for 13 years a member of the house interior and insular affairs committee and for some time an interested student of the interior secretary and his public power policies, called the Udall trip needless. Saylor said:

"There is no reason to study a system that generates less than 1,400 kilowatts per capita. Mr. Udall should study the private power companies right here in this country. He might discover the reason they produce more than 5,000 kilowat hours per capita per hour.

"Mr. Udall might do well to study the figures of his own power commission. They show the most efficient power plants in the U. S. are not government, but private operations."

Saylor then cited an FPC list of 10 private power companies in the United States and stated that these companies, while paying full taxes to federal, state and local governments, still manage to out-produce every government backed plant in the country.

"I think it would be safe to say," Saylor declared, "that the secretary of the interior probably has not visited and studied a single one of those plants."

Secretary Udall is now pressing hard for a national system of public power. It has been clearly shown that in the loss of taxes recieved from the private power companies, the increase in taxes that would be required from the ordinary taxpayers and the poorer services rendered by the federally backed plants, such a system would work a distinct hardship on the people, not to mention the fact that such a move would be a big jump toward total socialization of this country.

One Pennsylvania Republican said:

"A person would have to be both blind and deaf not to recognize what all of this is leading to. If the move is not stopped or reversed immediately we are going to end up with a nationalized electric industry before we know it. The irony of the whole thing is that if ever there was an industry financed by private investors that needed no prodding, that needed no financial help, it is the electric utilities industry. Our existing electric companies are ready, willing and able to take care of all our future power requirements, furnishing ample amounts of low-cost electricity to all consumers.

"With our unbalanced budget, with our overwhelming national debt, our near-confiscatory taxes on both individuals and businessmen, I ask you, in the name of common sense and justice, why does congress permit our federal bureaucrats to go along spending hundreds of millions of dollars each year. The answer will be found in ideology—not in economics."

Reuters, British news agency, quoted Interior Secretary Udall, as he left his plane in Moscow, as saying:

"We are here to learn as much as we can and see as much as we can. We have much to learn from your Soviet specialists in this field."

Yet we know Udall, Swidler and Morgan could have learned far more about power production and distribution, at far less cost, if they had visited private power companies in the United States.

This country's biggest electrical union has officially recognized that nationalization of the electric power system would be virtually a death blow to electrical worker unionism.

If Udall succeeds in his drive to wipe out private industry in the electric field, he and the other two men making up the trio can sing:

Trademarks In Russia

In a new and revolutionary development, it has decided that trademarks on goods must be made a part of the communist economy.

Until recently, communist bosses regarded trademarks much as the devil regards holy water. Inasmuch as the government owned all the factories, they reasoned, it was only necessary to supply a standardized product and let it go at that.

But, human nature being what it is, even under the hammer and sickle, it was found that factories and entire industrial groups were producing shoddy wares. So now government firms are being given names and trademarks are becoming the vogue.

Actually, the trademark has been known throughout recorded history as a stamp of identification and an incentive to quality.

3 Big Speeches On Monday

That Of Kennedy On Cuba Situation Compared To Those Of Woodrow Wilson And Franklin D. Roosevelt

Depending in large measure on an aftermath of events, as yet far from concluded, the speech made recently by President Kennedy to an audience of millions of his countrymen may take rank as one of the nation's great State papers.

It is, of course, the landmark speech of Kennedy's Presidency to date. Not only was it heard by the largest audience ever addressed by an American public figure, it has been read and re-read all over the world more carefully than any Kennedy utterance.

Some have compared it with the messages of President Woodrow Wilson, asking a declaration of war in what became known as World War I, and by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, asking for such a declaration in what was to become known as World War II.

Wilson and Roosevelt spoke when there was no recourse other than war, Kennedy while the masters of the Kremlin still had it within their power to prevent a nuclear catastrophe to mankind. But Kennedy's address can be bracketed with those of Wilson and Roosevelt in part because in this era of atomic weapons no President of the United States will ever have time to deliberately address Congress as Wilson and Roosevelt did.

This reporter viewed and heard the Wilson and Roosevelt addresses in the chamber of the House of Representatives, where the packed-in audience amounted to only a few hundred persons and listened to the Kennedy speech from no better vantage point than millions of other Americans.

All three speeches were made on Monday and they were undoubtedly the three most momentous Mondays of Washington history in this century. Wilson's was on April 2, 1917, Roosevelt's on December 8, 1941.

Wilson's address was undoubtedly the literary masterpiece of the three, and it was the best delivered. It abounded in phrases that live in our nation's great literature for Wilson was the greatest phrase maker of any of our Presidents in the time of any person now living.

It seemed to me as I read the Wilson speech for high lights before its delivery, that its best line was in the seventh paragraph:

"There is one choice we cannot make, we are incapable of making: we will not choose the path of submission and suffer the most sacred rights of our Nation and our people to be ignored or violated. The wrongs against which we now array ourselves are no common wrongs; they cut to the very roots of human life."

There had been no applause in the House Chamber after Wilson began his address until he uttered the words "We will not choose the path of submission." Chief Justice Edward White jumped to his feet in applause and instantly every person on the floor or in the gallery was standing in the deafening cheers."

But the phrase best remembered in that speech is: "The world must be made safe for democracy." Wilson never even paused at the end of that single-sentence paragraph. Only Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi seemed to realize its import and he began the delayed applause. (This is among my notes on audience reaction to Wilson's speech made at the time.)

Naturally those of us who covered the White House in those days made it our business to learn as much as we could about the preparation of the speech. Wilson worked on it four days, beginning Friday, March 30. He worked alone on it. He made the first draft in shorthand — in which he was skilled — made some corrections in long hand then copied it on the ancient Hammond typewriter which he used.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech before a Joint Session of Congress asking a war declaration was not one of Roosevelt's best writing efforts nor was the speech particularly well delivered. He seemed to me a very tired man as he spoke. The great naval disaster in the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor had occurred the day before (Sunday), the bleakest day in American military history.

Roosevelt dictated the speech to Grace Tully, his personal secretary, late Sunday afternoon. He made only one change in it, adding a sentence suggested by Harry Hopkins, the next to the last sentence in the text. The whole speech was less than 500 words long and took six minutes to deliver.

The first four words of Roosevelt's address were: "Yesterday, December 7, 1941," then he inserted a dash, "a date that will live in infamy." That "a date that will live in infamy" was in that speech the flourish that Roosevelt always got into a speech.

The full story of how the Kennedy address — which because of the critical hour in the nation's history it came, is being compared with the Wilson and Roosevelt addresses — was written will have to wait for a calmer time in the future.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Trouble In Back

Periodically Gets Catch In Neck And Her Arms Also Ache

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have had a tired feeling in my back between the shoulders for two years. Periodically I get a catch in my neck also. My arms also ache. The doctor has given me two kinds of pills for my arthritis. The first gave me hives, and the second relieved me. But even then I would have bad days. Now I am getting relaxing medicine for muscle spasm.

But this isn't what I'm really writing about. What I can't understand is that while I was on vacation my back didn't ache at all. But as soon as I returned home, I got up the next morning with backache. Can you explain? — Mrs. M.

Comment: Some doctors even go so far as to say that arthritis is often caused by emotions like resentment, hatred, envy, etc. Others won't agree, but will say that they believe that such emotions can worsen an arthritic condition if already present.

Your experience on vacation, Mrs. M., is not at all uncommon. I am sure many readers have found less discomfort in illness when their minds were occupied with other matters, especially if they were interesting and absorbing. Vacations come under this heading. I've known ulcer patients, those with heart disease, asthma and other conditions, which were more bearable when the patients were on vacation. It's the old, old story of mind over matter. A nagging toothache hurts less after one suffers a sudden, painful kick in the shins.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a woman of 55 and have just completed an extensive physical examination. My doctor says I have hiatus hernia. He did not prescribe any kind of treatment or a diet. Is this usual?

He wants me to make notes as to what I am doing when the pain comes on and how long the pain lasts. He doesn't care to see me again until three weeks have passed. What causes hiatus hernia and what advice would you give a patient who had one? — Mrs. B.

Comment: Let's skip around in answering your questions. Hiatus hernia is a weakness in the diaphragm where the oesophagus (tube leading from mouth into stomach) comes through. Because of this weakness, a part of the stomach can slide up into the chest.

Some people may have this weakness for years without any symptoms. They require no treatment. In many, diet is important. Frequent small meals and getting out of the habit of eating directly before retiring help. Another aid is to sleep on three pillows. When you are flat it's easier for the stomach to slide up into the chest. Only in exceptional cases is operation necessary for the treatment of hiatus hernia.

It's revealing that I receive so many letters from readers about hiatus hernia. For it wasn't too long ago that this diagnosis was rarely made because it was overlooked in the X-ray techniques used. Now, most doctors are on their diagnostic toes when confronted by any patient whose symptoms don't seem to fit into a common, recognizable cubbyhole. They make sure to rule out hiatus hernia when the search for trouble in the gall bladder, or ulcer, or coronary disease reveals no evidence of illness.

Dear Mr. L.: Call it what you will, but you'll agree that it's about time that a doctor took a look at the "lump" on your nose.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How to Overcome Tension and Fatigue," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

THE ALMANAC

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, Nov. 3, the 307th day of 1962 with 58 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1917, Americans learned of the first deaths of United States soldiers in combat at Nancy, France, during World War I.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to a second term. The Republicans carried only Maine and Vermont.

In 1961, U Thant, Burmese ambassador to the United Nations, was elected acting secretary-general of the UN to fill the vacancy created by the death of Dag Hammarskjold.

Carey Makes Bid

Demands Of Electrical Workers' President Reach For Moon

Caught between factional disputes and the growing dissatisfaction in the ranks of his union, IUE President James Carey is now attempting to hit the comeback trail. At the recent convention of the International Union of Electrical Workers, Mr. Carey came up with a list of "demands" on the industry which reaches for the moon. This, presumably, will make the membership overlook his temperamental outbursts and erratic leadership.

Those demands, to be negotiated next summer, call for a 35-hour week, higher pensions and and longer vacations, guaranteed employment for 52 weeks of the year during the life of the contract, compulsory union membership, higher wages — and a revolutionary clause giving the IUE the right to participate and have a say in management affairs.

Whether the membership, and a dissident faction within the leadership, will be wooed back by these demands for pie-in-the-sky remains to be seen. Mr. Carey has a penchant for making enemies at a far greater rate than he wins friends. He has been at war with most of his colleagues in the AFL-CIO. And Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who used to run interference for Mr. Carey, now lacks some of his old bounce.

Mr. Carey's intra-union difficulties are his own. His contract demands affect not only the electrical industry but the economy as a whole. And they raise questions as to the validity of collective bargaining as it is now practiced. The theory on which labor-management negotiations are conducted presupposes that both sides bargain in good faith. The practice has been somewhat different.

Labor presents demands which are obviously exorbitant. As negotiations proceed, it "compromises" by ceding those points which it never expected to win in the first place, thereby claiming sweet reasonableness. But management cannot horsetrade in this fashion. If it enters negotiations with a firm offer of what it believes it can give labor without serious damage to itself — and then refuses to "compromise"—it can be charged and has been on a number of occasions, with not bargaining in good faith.

If it offers little or nothing, rejecting all of labor's demands out of hand, management has a better bargaining position. But it then becomes subject to attack in the press and by union leaders for taking a "tough" or "heartless" position. From a public relations standpoint, attempts by management at horsetrading also turn rank-and-file union membership against it.

In short, when dealing with unions like Mr. Carey's IUE, it's a case of heads-I-lose-tails-you-win for the electrical industry. From time to time, management will dig in its heels. At this point, labor calls a strike — which in many cases hurts both management and the union membership. Two years ago, the IUE struck General Electric, forcing thousands of employees out of work. It is a moot point whether or not the dues-payer came out ahead, though the IUE leadership suffered no casualties or strain on the pocketbook nerve.

If collective bargaining is to continue to work equitably then the "good faith" clause in the National Labor Relations Act must be reinterpreted by the NLRB and the Labor Department. The test of that good faith should not be whether management or labor is willing to make "concessions" by dropping excessive demands during negotiations. Good faith should be predicated on the basis for the demands and the counter-offers.

As a practice, labor throws everything, including the kitchen sink, into its package. But certainly, the condition of the industry concerned, its ability to pay, and its competitive position in the world market should be factors governing what a union should ask for in good faith. By the same token, management which must live with the contract it negotiates — not choke on it — should be allowed to enter negotiations with at least a semi-final set of offers. Negotiation should not consist of a war in which muscle, rather than economic sense, triumphs.

If collective bargaining is to survive as a free process, then the attitude of the unions and their allies in the government should also be modified. There is no law in the books — at least not yet — which says that wages and the widening fringe of benefits must be raised in every new contract. If we are to believe Kennedy Administration spokesmen, the cost of living has "ceilinged out." The only other excuse for wage and fringe-benefit increases is the rise in labor's productivity — and here again the Administration insists that this has not risen fast enough.

Rules Are Stricter On Reporting Dividends And Interest

Although Congress turned down President Kennedy's appeal for a withholding tax on dividends and interest, it did vote a much stricter set of rules in the 1962 Revenue Act for reporting information about interest and dividend payments beginning in 1963.

Chiseling on reporting the proper amounds of dividends and interest will become riskier and riskier as the Treasury starts to use its new information returns for a closer check-up, and it will be particularly risky when the information is ultimately handled by the Treasury's new automatic computer equipment.

If you have money on deposit in banks or savings associations, you'll be the most affected by the new requirements.

Until now the Treasury has asked for information returns only on interest payment totaling $600 or more in a year to a depositor. At a 4 per cent rate, it would require a $15,000 account to produce even this minimum figure; so there has been practically no reporting of interest paid to anyone.

But starting in 1963, if a bank or savings association pays or credits you with $10 or more of interest in a year, it will have to file an information return with the Treasury, giving your name and address and how much was paid or credited to you.

The bank or association also will have to send you a statement telling you that it reported to the Treasury the amount it paid or credited to you.

As for dividends, corporations already are required to report payments of $10 or more a year to any one person, but many have failed to do so because the penalty for not reporting has been so small. But from 1963 on, a corporation which pays $10 or more a year in dividends to you will have to file the same kind of information return with the Treasury and also send you, the stockholder, the same kind of statement that banks and associations must send to depositors. And every failure to file either an information return or a statement will be penalized $10 apiece to the corporation, bank, etc.

There still will be some areas in which interest reporting will not be required — for instance, interest paid by individuals who aren't in the business of borrowing money or of accepting deposits. Thus, if you borrow to buy your car or have a mortgage on your house, you will not have to report your interest payments to the bank or finance company although the interests runs over $10 per year.

Reporting of interest payments will be required from:

Corporations paying interest on bonds, notes, etc., issued in registered form. While the law doesn't now require it, the Treasury has been given power to require corporations to report interest on other obligations of type offered to the public.

Banks paying interest on deposits.

Mutual savings banks, savings & loan associations, cooperative banks, credit unions, similar organizations, making payments to the public, whether or not the payments are called interest.

Insurance companies paying interest on amounts held under an agreement to pay interest, which will include interest on policy dividends held for you by the company and interest on policy proceeds held under the company's agreement to pay interest.

Brokers and securities dealers paying interest on deposits.

No interest reporting will be required for U. S. savings bonds and other government bonds, state and local obligations or private borrowings.

The tougher reporting rules and penalties are designed to force those who receive interest to reveal this income, but they also will compel many small, closely held corporations to be much more careful about reporting their interest and dividend payments to their stockholders.

As of 1963, heavy penalties will be slapped on closely held corporations which don't file information returns or statements on dividends or interest they pay to their stockholders. The penalty can be waived if the failure is shown due to a reasonable cause and not willful neglect, but few taxpayers will want to be compelled to defend themselves.

Recommendations On Amendments

Next Sunday, November 4th, The World and News-Star will publish recommendations to the voters on the 48 constitutional amendments up for ratification or rejection in Tuesday's election. Our recommendations will appear on the page opposite Sunday's editorial page.

Each amendment will be dealt with separately under both the number by which it is identified on the ballot and by the title which identifies it on the Legislature's resolution submitting it to the people.

At the same time, and also on Monday and Tuesday morning, we will publish an amendments "Box Score." This will list the 48 amendments by number only, with a mark for each showing whether we recommend voting "Yes" or "No." Voters in the past have found these "Box Scores" handy to clip and take into the voting booth with them. Where a voter disagrees with our recommendations on any amendment, it will be easy to mark the change with a pencil.

Tips From Moscow

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, described by one Washington report as "a one-man hoof-in-mouth epidemic," is just back from an educational jaunt across the Soviet Union.

He led a group of administration junketeers to study Soviet power installations. Included in that group were Joseph Swidler, new chairman of the federal power commission, and Howard Morgan, an Oregon Democrat, both of whose appointments to the FPC last year drew heavy fire from senate Republicans.

Ostensibly, these men were to study "Soviet technological advances in power production and particularly transmission of large blocs of power over great distances."

As pointed out by Representative John Saylor of Pennsylvania, Udall and the other members of the administration on this junket have been actively advocating a federally - controlled power system ever since they came to office. It is not difficult to fathom the reason for Udall's trip, along with his cohorts, in the business of trying to take the nation's electric systems out of the hands of private concerns and trying to nationalize them.

Representative Saylor, for 13 years a member of the house interior and insular affairs committee and for some time an interested student of the interior secretary and his public power policies, called the Udall trip needless. Saylor said:

"There is no reason to study a system that generates less than 1,400 kilowatts per capita. Mr. Udall should study the private power companies right here in this country. He might discover the reason they produce more than 5,000 kilowat hours per capita per hour.

"Mr. Udall might do well to study the figures of his own power commission. They show the most efficient power plants in the U. S. are not government, but private operations."

Saylor then cited an FPC list of 10 private power companies in the United States and stated that these companies, while paying full taxes to federal, state and local governments, still manage to out-produce every government backed plant in the country.

"I think it would be safe to say," Saylor declared, "that the secretary of the interior probably has not visited and studied a single one of those plants."

Secretary Udall is now pressing hard for a national system of public power. It has been clearly shown that in the loss of taxes received from the private power companies, the increase in taxes that would be required from the ordinary taxpayers and the poorer services rendered by the federally backed plants, such a system would work a distinct hardship on the people, not to mention the fact that such a move would be a big jump toward total socialization of this country.

One Pennsylvania Republican said:

"A person would have to be both blind and deaf not to recognize what all of this is leading to. If the move is not stopped or reversed immediately we are going to end up with a nationalized electric industry before we know it. The irony of the whole thing is that if ever there was an industry financed by private investors that needed no prodding, that needed no financial help, it is the electric utilities industry. Our existing electric companies are ready, willing and able to take care of all our future power requirements, furnishing ample amounts of low-cost electricity to all consumers.

"With our unbalanced budget, with our overwhelming national debt, our near-confiscatory taxes on both individuals and businessmen, I ask you, in the name of common sense and justice, why does congress permit our federal bureaucrats to go along spending hundreds of millions of dollars each year. The answer will be found in ideology—not in economics."

Reuters, British news agency, quoted Interior Secretary Udall, as he left his plane in Moscow, as saying:

"We are here to learn as much as we can and see as much as we can. We have much to learn from your Soviet specialists in this field."

Yet we know Udall, Swidler and Morgan could have learned far more about power production and distribution, at far less cost, if they had visited private power companies in the United States.

This country's biggest electrical union has officially recognized that nationalization of the electric power system would be virtually a death blow to electrical worker unionism.

If Udall succeeds in his drive to wipe out private industry in the electric field, he and the other two men making up the trio can sing:

Trademarks In Russia

In a new and revolutionary development, it has decided that trademarks on goods must be made a part of the communist economy.

Until recently, communist bosses regarded trademarks much as the devil regards holy water. Inasmuch as the government owned all the factories, they reasoned, it was only necessary to supply a standardized product and let it go at that.

But, human nature being what it is, even under the hammer and sickle, it was found that factories and entire industrial groups were producing shoddy wares. So now government firms are being given names and trademarks are becoming the vogue.

Actually, the trademark has been known throughout recorded history as a stamp of identification and an incentive to quality.

3 Big Speeches On Monday

That Of Kennedy On Cuba Situation Compared To Those Of Woodrow Wilson And Franklin D. Roosevelt

Depending in large measure on an aftermath of events, as yet far from concluded, the speech made recently by President Kennedy to an audience of millions of his countrymen may take rank as one of the nation's great State papers.

It is, of course, the landmark speech of Kennedy's Presidency to date. Not only was it heard by the largest audience ever addressed by an American public figure, it has been read and re-read all over the world more carefully than any Kennedy utterance.

Some have compared it with the messages of President Woodrow Wilson, asking a declaration of war in what became known as World War I, and by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, asking for such a declaration in what was to become known as World War II.

Wilson and Roosevelt spoke when there was no recourse other than war, Kennedy while the masters of the Kremlin still had it within their power to prevent a nuclear catastrophe to mankind. But Kennedy's address can be bracketed with those of Wilson and Roosevelt in part because in this era of atomic weapons no President of the United States will ever have time to deliberately address Congress as Wilson and Roosevelt did.

This reporter viewed and heard the Wilson and Roosevelt addresses in the chamber of the House of Representatives, where the packed - in audience amounted to only a few hundred persons and listened to the Kennedy speech from no better vantage point than millions of other Americans.

All three speeches were made on Monday and they were undoubtedly the three most momentous Mondays of Washington history in this century. Wilson's was on April 2, 1917; Roosevelt's on December 8, 1941.

Wilson's address was undoubtedly the literary masterpiece of the three, and it was the best delivered. It abounded in phrases that live in our nation's great literature for Wilson was the greatest phrase maker of any of our Presidents in the time of any person now living.

It seemed to me as I read the Wilson speech for high lights before its delivery, that its best line was in the seventh paragraph: "There is one choice we cannot make, we are incapable of making; we will not choose the path of submission and suffer the most sacred rights of our Nation and our people to be ignored or violated. The wrongs against which we now array ourselves or no common wrongs; they cut to the very roots of human life."

There had been no applause in the House Chamber after Wilson began his address until he uttered the words: "We will not choose the path of submission." Chief Justice Edward White jumped to his feet in applause and instantly every person on the floor or in the gallery was standing in the deafening cheers."

But the phrase best remembered in that speech is: "The world must be made safe for democracy." Wilson never even paused at the end of that single - sentence paragraph. Only Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi seemed to realize its import, and he began the delayed applause. (This is among my notes on audience reaction to Wilson's speech made at the time.)

Naturally those of us who covered the White House in those days made it our business to learn as much as we could about the preparation of the speech. Wilson worked on it four days, beginning Friday, March 30. He worked alone on it. He made the first draft in shorthand — in which he was skilled — made some corrections in long hand then copied it on the ancient Hammond typewriter which he used.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech before a Joint Session of Congress asking a war declaration was not one of Roosevelt's best writing efforts nor was the speech particularly well delivered. He seemed to me a very tired man as he spoke. The great naval disaster in the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor had occurred the day before (Sunday), the bleakest day in American military history.

Roosevelt dictated the speech to Grace Tully, his personal secretary, late Sunday afternoon. He made only one change in it, adding a sentence suggested by Harry Hopkins, the next to the last sentence in the text. The whole speech was less than 500 words long and took six minutes to deliver.

The first four words of Roosevelt's address were: "Yesterday, December 7, 1941," then he inserted a dash, "a date that will live in infamy." That "a date that will live in infamy" was in that speech the flourish that Roosevelt always got into a speech.

The full story of how the Kennedy address — which because of the critical hour in the nation's history it came, is being compared with the Wilson and Roosevelt addresses — was written will have to wait for a calmer time in the future.

Trouble In Back

Periodically Gets Catch In Neck And Her Arms Also Ache

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have had a tired feeling in my back between the shoulders for two years. Periodically I get a catch in my neck also. My arms also ache. The doctor has given me two kinds of pills for my arthritis. The first gave me hives, and the second relieved me. But even then I would have bad days. Now I am getting relaxing medicine for muscle spasm.

But this isn't what I'm really writing about. What I can't understand is that while I was on vacation my back didn't ache at all. But as soon as I returned home, I got up the next morning with backache. Can you explain? — Mrs. M.

Comment: Some doctors even go so far as to say that arthritis is often caused by emotions like resentment, hatred, envy, etc. Others won't agree, but will say that they believe that such emotions can worsen an arthritic condition if already present.

Your experience on vacation, Mrs. M., is not at all uncommon. I am sure many readers have found less discomfort in illness when their minds were occupied with other matters, especially if they were interesting and absorbing. Vacations come under this heading. I've known ulcer patients, those with heart disease, asthma and other conditions, which were more bearable when the patients were on vacation. It's the old, old story of mind over matter. A nagging toothache hurts less after one suffers a sudden, painful kick in the shins.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a woman of 55 and have just completed an extensive physical examination. My doctor says I have hiatus hernia. He did not prescribe any kind of treatment or a diet. Is this usual?

He wants me to make notes as to what I am doing when the pain comes on and how long the pain lasts. He doesn't care to see me again until three weeks have passed. What causes hiatus hernia and what advice would you give a patient who had one? — Mrs. B.

Comment: Let's skip around in asnwering your questions. Hiatus hernia is a weakness in the diaphragm where the oesophagus (tube leading from mouth into stomach) comes through. Because of this weakness, a part of the stomach can slide up into the chest.

Some people may have this weakness for years without any symptoms. They require no treatment. In many, diet is important. Frequent small meals and getting out of the habit of eating directly before retiring help. Another aid is to sleep on three pillows. When you are flat it's easier for the stomach to slide up into the chest. Only in exceptional cases is operation necessary for the treatment of hiatus hernia.

It's revealing that I receive so many letters from readers about hiatus hernia. For it wasn't too long ago that this diagnosis was rarely made because it was overlooked in the X-ray techniques used. Now, most doctors are on their diagnostic toes when confronted by any patient whose symptoms don't seem to fit into a common, recognizable cubbyhole. They make sure to rule out hiatus hernia when the search for trouble in the gall bladder, or ulcer, or coronary disease reveals no evidence of illness.

Dear Mr. L.: Call it what you will, but you'll agree that it's about time that a doctor took a look at the "lump" on your nose.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How to Overcome Tension and Fatigue," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self - addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Rules Are Stricter On Reporting Dividends And Interest

Although Congress turned down President Kennedy's appeal for a withholding tax on dividends and interest, it did vote a much stricter set of rules in the 1962 Revenue Act for reporting information about interest and dividend payments beginning in 1963.

Insurance companies paying interest on amounts held under an agreement to pay interest — which will include interest on policy dividends held for you by the company and interest on policy proceeds held under the company's agreement to pay interest.

Brokers and securities dealers paying interest on deposits.

No interest reporting will be required for U. S. savings bonds and other government bonds, state and local obligations or for private borrowings.

The tougher reporting rules and penalties are designed to force those who receive interest to reveal this income, but they also will compel many smaller, closely held corporations to be much more careful about reporting their interest and dividend payments to their stockholders.

Passage Urged Of Amendment

ST. JOSEPH, La. (AP) — President Thompson Clarke of the Louisiana Association of District Attorneys urged Friday passage of amendment No. 3 on voter registration.

The proposal is among 48 constitutional amendments to be decided Tuesday by the voters.

The attorney for the 6th Judicial District said the proposal, already state law, provides for a "simple and reasonable test of applicants for voter registration on basic citizenship—knowledge already required by the state constitution."

He said passage of the proposal would give Louisiana registration procedure "long-needed uniformity and objectivity, and will help keep our elections in the hands of Louisiana people."

Pocket Computers May Aid Shoppers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pocket size computers may eliminate the housewife's weekly shopping list and the chore of filling it by hand. Electronic communication would tell the store in advance what she needs. She'd simply pick up the bundles.

This is envisioned bp Dr. John W. Mauchly, inventor of some of the original room-size computers. He already has developed one the size of a suitcase and now is working on a pocket variety.

Mauchly, here to address a meeting of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, said Friday in a decade or so everyone will be walking around with his own personalized computer, with exchangeable wafer-thin data storage files to provide inexhaustible memories and answer most problems.

"Taking her computer from her handbag, she enters a vacant delivery alcove and connects the computer into a receptacle provided.

"Within less than a minute, her package of groceries, and other supplies such as use-once-and-throw away clothes, come down a chute. They are assembled in advance because she had a home data booth through which her computer, which kept her domestic inventory for her, had been able to relay in her order.

"All the computer had to do when she arrived was to identify itself, make the proper accounting entries in its own record, and authorize the charge against her universal checking account."

Mauchly also forecasts the day a headwaiter can fairly accurately forecast the exact type cocktail you want, merely by matching your characteristics against the stored-away preferences contained in his own pocket computer.

The inventor's original computers weighed nearly 30 tons and occupied 15,000 feet of floor space. His latest is a 50-pound suitcase type.

The present emphasis on miniaturizing components of missiles and spacecraft will inevitably result, he said, in developing small, inexpensive computers within reach of almost everyone.

It's pretty generally going to be a football weekend for West Monroe City Clark Harold Hill.

He was in Newellton Friday night, where he rushed soon after work, to call a high school ball game, and tonight he'll be one of 68,000 fans in Tiger Stadium at Baton Rouge for another historic clash between L.S.U. and Ole' Miss.

We wonder which event Harold will enjoy more. He's been in officiating for years and gets such a boot out of it it would be a toss-up.

Plans To Speed Civil Defense Program Bared

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Men from five states heard an outline Friday for an expedited civil defense program.

Representatives of the governors of Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico were told the Defense Department has authorized the use of standby military reservists on a voluntary basis provided civil defense authorities ask such service.

Stewart Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for civil defense, outlined the program. The main points were these:

Shelter Marking: Procedures have been developed to accelerate sharply the marking of shelter space and to nearly double the amount of immediately available space by lowering the standards of shielding from radiation.

Shelter stocking: Production of shelter supplies is being accelerated for public shelters and about 30,000 box car loads of supplies can be installed over the country in the next six months.

Rural shelters: Intensified efforts to provide technical civil defense help in rural areas, particularly on inexpensive shelters for people and methods for protecting livestock and crops against fallout.

Training: Three and four hour workshops will be established throughout the nation to train architects, engineers and contractors in locating shielding in buildings and in improvising shelters.

Funds: Requests for federal surplus property for use in state and will receive priority treatment.

U.S., Soviet Near Accord On Proposal

dismantled missiles for the return trip to the Soviet Union. The vessels will have to be sent from Soviet ports for this purpose.

The United States also had considered a possible Red Cross role in checking Soviet ships bound out of Cuba to verify missile removal, but this idea apparently has been dropped.

The situation was complicated by refusal of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to accept any kind of U.N. inspection, or even inspection by the Red Cross on Cuban territory.

The United States says it is still insisting upon international inspection to verify removal of offensive arms. This would seem to require on-the-scene inspection, since there is no other way of obtaining definite proof that all offensive arms have been removed.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson contributed to the optimism being voiced at the United Nations by telling reporters that the United States is making progress in the negotiations with the Soviet Union to resolve the crisis.

He gave that report after he and John J. McCloy, head of President Kennedy's crisis coordinating committee, conferred again with Acting Secretary-General U Thant.

Stevenson did not go into detail, but the word being circulated by spokesmen for the U.S. mission was that, "Things seem to be moving along pretty well."

Latin-American diplomats who conferred privately with Thant also said afterward there was reason for optimism that an amiable solution will be reached.

Much of the optimism was based on the report that the International Red Cross might offer a way out of the difficulty over inspection, as well as word from Washington that aerial photos showed that the Soviet missile bases were being dismantled.

Diplomats said they were encouraged by the fact that the photos were taken by low flying planes which apparently encountered no resistance.

onded by Charles Anding, also of ward five. At the time, Wall explained that the money for the land and office building would come from the $7 - million bond issue which was approved in November, 1961.

Officials estimated that the project, including purchase of land and construction of the building, would exceed $200,000.

Part of Wall's motion also was that bids on the new office building would be opened at a meeting Dec. 4. The board also voted to sell $2 - million in bonds at the same meeting.

The new office building project was revived again at a meeting Oct. 16 when J. H. Trousdale Jr. offered a motion to "rescind and annual action by the board at the Oct. 2 meeting ... and to refer the matter to the district attorney." The motion which was seconded by Everett Zeagler, was defeated by a 10-8 vote.

Another spilt vote on the controversial issue resulted Tuesday night this week when the board, by a 9-7 margin, approved preliminary plans for the building and instructed the architect firm of Johns & Neel to proceed with final plans in preparation for taking bids.

Meanwhile, the ruling by the Attorney General's office on the office building project came almost simultaneously with another ruling that the parish school board had violated the law by spending an additional $57,500 on the new Riser Junior High and Elementary School in West Monroe without calling for bids.

In a letter, Lassiter advised President C. G. Drennan that the matter should have been handled by the board "as any other contract."

At a special meeting Tuesday night, the board approved a change order which included $28,000 for additional fill dirt and $29,500 to raise the elevation of the new school building by 12 inches.

Action came following a recommendation by Architect Benford Jacka. Request that the school board finance the additional fill dirt had been made by Jesse F. Heard & Sons, contractors on the Riser project.

"It is apparent that the board has directly violated provisions of Title 38, Section 2211 entitled advertising and letting to the lowest responsible bidder," Lassiter said in his letter.

Lassiter also added that "we sincerely hope that you will take the necessary action to correct the above action of the board."

After receiving the letter, Drennan said that he hopes to arrange a meeting with Lassiter Monday to discuss the matter.

U.S. Helicopter Crews Get New Type Of Arms

In the north, the 163rd Marine Corps Helicopter Squadron at Da Nang is arming its HU1A troop carriers with 7.62 millimeter NATO machine guns. Crew chiefs have started carrying the new M14 automatic rifle.

The machine guns are in the door of the helicopter on swivel mounts. They can be swung aside when troops disembark.

The Marines use half-inch armor plate to protect fuel and oil lines. The weight means the big machines can carry only 9 soldiers instead of 10, but crews consider the investment worth it.

Armor for the pilots' cockpit has been installed on H21's flying for the U.S. Army 57th Helicopter Company in Saigon. Heavy plates are built around and under the seats.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The commander of the Army of the Potomac sat alone in his tent near Warrenton, Va., the night of Nov. 7, 1862, writing a letter to his wife.

The time was near midnight. Outside an early snowstorm blew through the camps of his Union army.

"Suddenly some one knocked on the tentpole, and, upon my invitation to enter, there appeared Burnside and Buckingham, both looking very solemn," Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan wrote years later.

"I received them kindly and commenced conversation upon general subjects in the most unconcerned manner possible.

"After a few moments Buckingham said to Burnside: 'Well, general, I think we had better tell General McClellan the object of our visit.'

"I very pleasantly said that I should be glad to learn it. Whereupon Buckingham handed me the two orders of which he was the bearer."

One order removed McClellan from command of the Army of the Potomac. The other appointed Burnside in his place.

"I saw them both — especially Buckingham — were watching me most intently while I opened and read the orders. I read the orders with a smile, immediately turned to Burnside, and said:

'Well, Burnside, I turn the command over to you.'"

With no more formality than that McClellan, one of the most controversial men of his time, was removed, never to serve in the Union army again.

When Maj. Gen. Ambrose Everett Burnside and Brig. Gen. Catharinus Putnam Buckingham, a special duty officer in the War Department, went back out in the snowstorm, McClellan alone again turned to finish the letter to his wife.

"They have made a great mistake," he wrote.

"Alas for my poor country."

The published War Department directive removing McClellan and directing him to go to Trenton, N. J., to await "further orders" which never came, contained only 33 words, but behind it lay a massive controversy among his friends and enemies, with President Lincoln squarely in the middle.

Actually, McClellan had run out [illegible] and Lincoln [illegible] to remove [illegible].

He had spent more than seven months reorganizing the Army of the Potomac after the first battle of Bull Run. Manassas without moving against the enemy hardly more than a long cannon shot away. He had vacillated before Yorktown, Va., at the start of the Peninsula campaign. He had missed the opportunity of capturing Richmond before the Confederate army was assembled. He had lost the Seven Days' battles but saved his army. He had dragged his feet sending troops to Maj. Gen. John Pope at the second battle of Bull Run. He had missed a chance few generals ever get to crush Gen. Robert E. Lee's army at Antietam by not throwing in his fresh troops on the second day and not pursuing Lee promptly. He had dabbled in politics. He made no bones about being a Democrat and pointedly told Lincoln how to run the war.

With almost infinite patience Lincoln had prodded McClellan to action and hardly ever succeeded. Now patience gave way. In action McClellan's army had moved south so belatedly that Lee had interposed his forces between the Army of the Potomac and Richmond.

Men differed then as now as to the merit of McClellan's removal, with the majority on Lincoln's side.

Allan Nevins, one of the foremost Civil War historians, has written of McClellan:

"Behind the mask of seeming serenity and self-confidence, however, lay a great deal of self-distrust; behind the apparent energy, dynamism and boldness, lay caution and timidity."

Kenneth P. Williams, author of the five-volume "Lincoln Finds A General," said:

"McClellan was not a real general. McClellan was not even a disciplined, truthful soldier. McClellan was merely an attractive but vain and unstable man, with considerable military knowledge, who sat on a horse well and wanted to be president."

Gen. Jacob D. Cox, who served under McClellan in West Virginia, said of him during that campaign:

"There was the same overestimate of the enemy, the same tendency to interpret unfavorably the sights and sounds in front, the same hesitancy to throw in his whole force."

Confederate General Lee: "He is an able general but a very cautious one."

On Nov. 10 McClellan bade an impressive farewell to his army.

A private in the 118th Pennsylvania Volunteers wrote of the last review:

"... As General McClellan passed ... whole regiments broke and flocked around him, and with tears and entreaties besought him not to leave them ... Indeed, it was thought at one time there would be a mutiny but by a word he calmed the tumult ... Thomas F. Meagher's Irish brigade ... cast their colors in the dust for him to ride over, but, of course, he made them take them up again."

Of that scene McClellan wrote to his wife:

"I never before had to exercise so much self control."

McClellan went to New Jersey by way of Washington, leaving the capital without fanfare.

Almost exactly a year before, he had bade goodby to Lt. Gen. Winfield Scott when the old general retired. McClellan had written to his wife that night:

"... It may be that at some distant day, I, too, shall totter away from Washington, a worn out soldier ... Should I ever become vainglorious and ambitious, remind me of that spectacle ..."

Harper's weekly described Burnside, the new commander, as "a very handsome man. Tall and stout, with a flashing eye and a sonorous voice, he looks the very beau ideal of a soldier."

Burnside was 39 at the time. Born in a log cabin in Liberty, Ind., he learned to be a tailor early in life but his father managed an appointment to West Point for him where he studied with McClellan and Stonewall Jackson, among other Civil War figures.

When war broke out he headed a Rhode Island regiment and was among the first troops to arrive in Washington when the capital was cut off soon after Sumter.

He had led a successful expedition against Roanoke Island early in the war. By the time of Antietam he was a corps commander but McClellan blamed him for being slow to attack that day and their close friendship was strained thereafter.

Burnside, a distinctive man, has come down in history largely because of his magnificent mutton chop whiskers, still called burnsides.

Lincoln expected him to act where McClellan had delayed. Burnside would — disastrously.

Counterfeiters of Confederate money flourished during the Civil War on both sides of the Mason-Dixon line, contributing to the inflation which undermined the economy of the South.

The Light Brigade of the British army lost 36.7 per cent of its strength in its storied charge. At least 63 Federal regiments lost more than 50 per cent in single battles.

The Union blockade was biting into the Confederacy's economic fabric as 1862 came to an end. These prices reported from Charleston, S. C., in December tell part of the story: Flour, $36 a barrel; corn, $2.50 a bushel; potatoes $4 a bushel; coffee, $2.75 a pound; calico, $2 a yard; shoes, $16 a pair; butter, $1.50 a pound; salt, $17 a bushel; wood, $25 a cord.

United States Communists are currently under microscopic surveillance by the FBI. The government is taking no chances. Every move of the Reds is being detailed, and the Feds are prepared to move in swiftly in case Russia gets tough.

Our boys are especially concerned with our defense plants, because they expect sabotage would be attempted first off.

Shubert Alley hears the Katharine Dunham dance revue is in big trouble ... Vince "Ben Casey" Edwards is expected to issue an engagement flash very soon, with Sherry Nelson sharing equal billing in the happy announcement.

Edith Piaf's current "comeback" appearance at the Olympia Music Hall in Paris — her first engagement in almost two illness-plagued years — has set a new attendance mark for the huge theatre. Of course there's great curiosity about her bridegroom, Theo Sarapo, who is on the same bill.

Soraya, the gorgeous former empress of Iran, didn't hesitate for a split second in turning down a film offer from Roger Vadim. In fact, friends who were present at the Paris dinner when Roger asked the princess if she'd like to play a role in his new picture "Vice and Virtue," report Soraya just about laughed in his face.

It's a boy for the John Dalys (Virginia Warren) and the usually urbane John is so excited that's about all the news he can give. Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren came up from Washington to be on hand for the exciting event ... The two excellent stars of a new play don't seem to care who knows their happy secret, the way they're carrying on their romance in public. France Nuyen is becoming a problem again. Ever since she was told she was good in "A Girl Named Tamiko," she's been behaving like Greta Garbo. No one can find her — not even her agent who has five picture contracts in his pocket ...

Publisher Howard Richmond has one of the hottest new songs in town and nobody can say it isn't sufficiently morbid. Titled "23 Minutes To Go," it's a delightful little ditty about a man being hanged ... Peggy Lee at Basin Street has among the instrument backing her up a very rare bass flute made in England and not obtainable in the United States. She's been hunting for this instrument for over three years ... finally found it. Her explanation of the flute:

"It has a special magic tone. If I ever heard the Pied Piper playing, I think this is what he would probably sound like."

Jane Russell is flying in from California to resume her career in night clubs. She'll break in her singing act at a New Jersey club called "Uncle Milty's." Now go find that ... One of the biggest factors in Eddie Gilbert's decision to throw in the sponge and return home — a scoop here — was the refusal of Brazil to grant him official residency. He was existing on month to month renewals of his visa, and didn't like the idea of being a man without a country.

The whole Roosevelt clan is gathered together here now because of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave illness ... Look for a flurry of stories on the late Mario Lanza — after all these years. Maria Lanza Cocozza, his mother, will tee off with a magazine article titled "Mario Lanza Still Lives." ... The Salesladies at Saks Fifth Avenue certainly lost their composure when Marcello Mastroianni, star of "Divorce, Italian Style," went shopping there. They offered sales slips for his autograph, and there was a general air of madness.

Talk about fast film making: American International, which is now making its top horror movies in Hollywood instead of overseas, completed its scary $1,000,000 shocker, "The Raven," in a record 17 days. Of course, the fact that they had some real horror pros, like Boris Karloff, Vincent Price and Peter Lorre helped considerably ... JKF was within hours of clamping controls on prices, wages, etc. — in short, putting the nation on a wartime emergency basis — if the Khrushchev — Castro crisis hadn't taken a turn for the better ...

Vivien Leigh is so excited about her forthcoming Broadway musical "Tovarich," that she's going about the preparations very ambitiously already. She's taking singing lessons in London now, and as soon as she arrives here she'll start warbling with the esteemed Carnegie Hall coach Carlo Menotti ... That attractive gentleman enjoying lunch and lots of conversation with Greta Garbo at Gatsby's was Shep Miller, who owns a chain of sportswear shops along the eastern seaboard. And what did they talk about? Well, at one point they were overheard bestowing high praise on the President's handling of the Cuban situation, which is standard these days. And what did Garbo eat? A tossed green salad and black coffee — and that's all.

The death of a senior British scientist from pneumonic plague was caused by an accidental infection in his laboratory. This is the hazard of handling virulent bacteria and the chance taken by research workers.

Those who were in contact with this man druing his last few days have reason for concern because this man during his last few days like an ordinary cold. Bubonic plague is conveyed by infected fleas that have fed on rodents such as rats but pneumonic plague is much more serious. To date, none of the victim's colleagues, or members of his family has acquired the disease. Neither have the physicians or nurses who cared for him during his illness.

Both forms of plague are caused by the same organism — Pasteurella pestis. The pneumonic form involves the lungs and symptoms are similar to ordinary pneumonia except in severity.

The bubonic type is much more common and is so named because buboes develop in the lymph glands in the neck, armpits, chest, and groins. The condition begins abruptly with chills, high fever, headache, vomiting, prostration, and delirium. We can do without this disease, considering the pandemics of bygone years that destroyed large segments of the population from time to time.

The disease responds to our modern antibiotics, including streptomycin, provided they are used early. The mortality rate has dropped from 70 per cent to less than 10 per cent with these drugs. I often wonder how many millions of lives would have been spared had these products been available two centuries ago.

But plague continues to be a problem in many parts of the world. There were 808 cases reported to the World Health organization in 1961. These figures do not include those from the mainland of China. Contrast this with the 170,300 deaths that were reported annually from 1919 to 1928.

There were three cases of plague in this country last year but the small number is nothing to brag about. There were only 24 cases in all of Africa, including nine suspected cases. Most of our few cases come from the southwest, indicating that a focus of the disease still exists. Let's hope the situation never gets any worse.

The bubonic type is much more common and is so named because buboes develop in the lymph glands in the neck, armpits, chest, and groins. The condition begins abruptly with chills, high fever, headache, vomiting, prostration, and delirium. We can do without this disease, considering the pandemics of bygone years that destroyed large segments of the population from time to time.

The disease responds to our modern antibiotics, including streptomycin, provided they are used early. The mortality rate has dropped from 70 per cent to less than 10 per cent with these drugs. I often wonder how many millions of lives would have been spared had these products been available two centuris ago.

But plague continues to be a problem in many parts of the world. There were 808 cases reported to the World Health organization in 1961. These figures do not include those from the mainland of China. Contrast this with the 170,300 deaths that were reported annually from 1919 to 1928.

There were three cases of plague in this country last year but this small number is nothing to brag about. There were only 24 cases in all of Africa, including nine suspected cases. Most of our few cases come from the southwest, indicating that a focus of the disease still exists. Let's hope the situation never gets any worse.

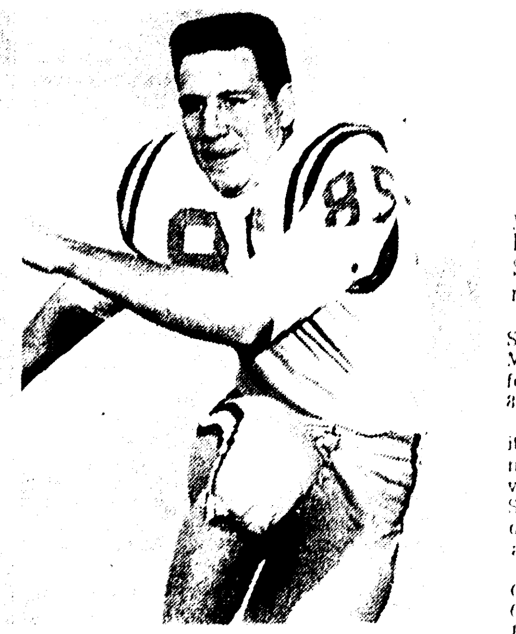
National, SEC Honors At Stake For Bengals



LOUISIANA STATE ends Danny Neumann (left) and Bob Flurry will be trying to defeat Ole Miss one more time when the two teams meet tonight in Tiger stadium. Neumann, a Tallulah High product, has done a fine job punting and in his Go team terminal spot. Flurry, the Homer senior, is a terror at his end spot on the Chinese Bandit unit.

LSU Slim Favorite Over Rebs Tonight

BATON ROUGE (AP)— For the fifth straight year, southeastern Conference and National football honors will be at stake Saturday night when Louisiana State hosts the University of Mississippi in their annual grudge match.

All places in 67,500-seat Tiger Stadium have been sold out since May for the battle of the undefeated titans. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. (CST).

Oddsmakers rate LSU, led by its great All-America and Heisman-Trophy candidate Jerry Stovall, a slim three-point favorite. Stovall leads LSU in virtually all offense categories and has scored a touchdown in every Tiger game.

For the fifth straight season, Ole Miss, led by passing wizard Glynn Griffing, comes into the LSU game with a perfect slate. LSU has whipped Ole Miss three times since 1958 and in 1960, the Rebels had to battle back to gain a 6-6 tie at Oxford, Miss. This year LSU goes against Ole Miss with a 5-0-1 record, having settled for a 6-6 tie with Rice.

As usual, this annual grudge match figures to be a defensive duel. The Rebels, in rolling through their first five games, have allowed only 14 points, both touchdowns coming on punt returns. LSU has given up 16 points in its six games and has shut out its last two opponents.

So far this season, the two teams have used relatively simple offenses, with the Rebels relying more on passing and the Tigers using a punishing ground attack, interspersed with a few passes.

Although quarterback Jimmy Field finally began hitting last week, completing six of seven passes, the Tigers expect to depend on the power running of Stovall, sophomore halfback Danny LeBlanc, halfback Bo Campbell and fullbacks Charles Cranford and Steve Ward.

The Rebels may have something up their sleeves. Coach Johnny Vaught clamped a tight lid on Rebel workouts this week, and told a newsman flatly that his Rebels were working on "a few tricks."

Ole Miss' meal ticket is Griffing, who is rated by Vaught as the best quarterback he's coached. Along with his understudy, soph Jim Weatherly, Griffing has a better-than-50 per cent completion record.

His favorite targets are halfbacks Lou Guy and Chuck Morris, and ends Al Brown and Woody Dabbs. Chief ground threats are fullback Perry Lee Dunn, a converted quarterback who may do some throwing, and his understudy, Buck Randall.

Both coaches have a lot at stake. Charlie McClendon, who succeeded Paul Dietzel when the latter made his switch to Army, would welcome a big game victory to gain his own niche in the heart of Tiger fans.

For Vaught, second winningest coach in collegiate ranks over the past quarter century, the stigma of the past four years hurts. His only success over LSU since 1957 was a 21-0 Sugar Bowl victory in 1960.

For weeks, tension and excitement has been building up at both schools. The rooming and ticket situation here is so bad that Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett could not find a hotel room.

Louisiana Tech Eager For Game With Lions

RUSTON (Special) — Southeastern Louisiana College, unbeaten and with a watchful eye on its national high ranking and lofty perch atop the Gulf States Conference, provides homecoming opposition for ever dangerous Louisiana Tech here at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The pressure is off for the Techmen who are all but mathematically eliminated in the loop race with a 1-2 record and with a 3-2 mark for the campaign. SLC is 5-0 for the year and 2-0 in the league.

Stan Galloway's Lions are favored by as much as two touchdowns in some quarters. They are trying to follow up two consecutive 9-1 seasons with a perfect one.

Tech Coach Joe Aillet said, "We are looking forward to meeting Southeastern. We like to think we play better football against better football teams. We have always especially enjoyed our friendly relations with Southeastern."

Aillet said he is glad to see the Lions rated no. 2 and 3 in the small college polls. "Their high ranking speaks well for the Gulf States Conference. We are also proud Stan Galloway was selected to go to Europe and conduct coaching clinic. We have known for years Galloway is one of the outstanding coaches in the nation," he said.

Tech is the only team having an edge on Galloway - coached Lions teams, with a 7-3-1 margin for 11 years. The two teams have waged many ding - dong battles in the past.

An injury to defensive safety Pat Slowe has caused considerable shifting at Tech this week. Bruce Weaver and Mickey Strother have been moved from offense to defense and Charlie Miller will play both the wing and linebacker. The busiest man will likely be soph halfback Jack Odom, who will play offensive flanker, defensive safety, and offensive left halfback at various times.

About 8,000 are expected to view the loop battle, with the prospects good for cool, fair weather for the various homecoming activities.

Rawls Shoots A Record 68 In Civitan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Betsy Rawls fired a course record 68 Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of San Antonio Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls, the Texas girl now from Spartanburg, S.C., had seven birdies and compiled her 34-34—68 despite three three-putt greens. It was the first time that the former University of Texas student had been in the 60s since spring.

Miss Jessen made a strong run for the top spot. She was 4-under-par over the Canyon Creek Country Club course through 15 holes, an eagle on 11 giving her the fine score. But she overshot the 16th green and took a double bogey 5.

Mrs. Lindstorm, the National Open champion, came to the last green three under par and had a 20-foot birdie putt. She missed it and also missed a 6-footer coming back and wound up with a bogey.

Mickey Wright, the tournament favorite who would like to win the $7,500 event and become the first woman to take 11 championships in a year, soared to a 75.

FOUR GAMES

Arkansas Starts Conference Play

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — With Arkansas there just hasn't been any margin for error in November, not if the Porkers entertain any chance at a SWC championship. That's the situation again in 1962 as the Razorbacks set out on a difficult four-game course that begins at College Station, Texas this Saturday night. Both Arkansas and Texas A & M show 2-1 conference records. The loser retains little opportunity to be a part of that race.

Once again this week the Razorback defense bears the major responsibility for success. That defense has seen a fantastic 137 passes in six games and almost as many offensive formations as plays. The Aggies may top anything the Porkers have witnessed this year. Fully one dozen players have carried the ball 10 or more times for Hank Foldberg's Cadets. "We haven't been able to keep up with their personnel for their plays," said Razorback head coach Frank Broyles.

The Razorbacks need not apologize for their defensive efforts in 1962 — in spite of the fact that the statistics do not match the record - setting pace of last year. Arkansas still leads the conference in both defensive (224.3) and offensive (369.3) statistics.

The 36th meeting between these two schools might be one of the "hidden statistics" that Broyles speaks of so often. He's talking about punt and kickoff returns — an area where Arkansas and A&M excel.

Defensive ace Kenny Hatfield rates with the best in the nation in both departments. He's returned nine punts for 127 yards (a 14.1 average) and six kickoffs for 198 yards (a tremendous 33 yard mark). And — he has help in players like George Walker (three KO returns for a 35.7 average), Billy Moore, Jim Worthington and Mike Parker.

The Cadets can call upon perhaps their most versatile athlete — wingback George Hargett. The 170 - pound junior has returned 15 punts for 148 yards; four kickoffs for 82 yards and is their leading receiver with 11 receptions for 152 yards. Hargett will be tested by the stingiest punt return defense in the nation. Although Arkansas has booted the ball 26 times — only six have been returned for a total yardage of 19 yards.

The Razorbacks, who have hobbled through the last four games with up to four starters out of the lineup at one time, will be in the best physical shape of the year to open their November campaign. End Jim John, injured before the season even got underway, is slated for his first action, while fullbacks Billy Joe Moody and Danny Brabham; tackle Dave Adams; guard Tommy Polk, and tailback Jim Worthington are all expected to be ready for full time duty. A mild scare involving guard Mike Hales and a twisted knee on Wednesday was given the OK.

Foster Pick To Play In Bowl Classic

Billy Foster, Northeast State's stellar guard, has been invited to play in the annual All American Bowl in Tucson, Ariz., Northeast Coach Jack Rowan has announced.

The game, which puts players from major schools against stars from lesser - known colleges, will be played Dec. 29.

Two other Northeast grid stars have played in the All American Bowl. End Joe Driskill played in the 1958 game and Charlie Barnes, another end, played in the game in 1960.

Foster is in the process of earning his fourth Northeast grid letter. An all state lineman at Tallulah High School, the 230 - pounder has been one of Northeast's most outstanding players this fall.

Davis Finally Gets OK For NFL Activity

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ernie Davis now is in condition to play with the Cleveland Browns, but there is a question whether he could help the team more than the player who would have to be cut from the roster, Art Modell, club president, said Friday.

"I feel as good as I ever felt in my life," Davis said during a workout Thursday at League Park. "I'm ready now. It's just up to him," he said, pointing out on the field to Coach Paul Brown.

Brown won't comment about the situation, but it is known he is reluctant to put the 22-year-old All-America halfback on the team at this time.

Willie Mays Found Okay By Check-Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Star center fielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants was pronounced in superior physical condition Friday.

Dr. Harold H. Rosenblum, chief of medicine at Mount Zion Hospital, made the pronouncement at a news conference following three days of tests on baseball's highest paid player.

And Willie said the results were no surprise.

"I know what was wrong," Mays said. "I was just tired. We had a hard season all the way."

His health had been an issue since he collapsed in the dugout in the third inning of a Sept. 12 game in Cincinnati and was out of the line-up until Sept. 16.

Dr. Rosenblum said, "There is no medical problem whatsoever. His condition is superior to other men his age. He is in prime physical condition."

The favorable report on Mays followed by just three days the disclosure that the Giants' other top slugger, Orlando Cepeda, had no eye trouble as previously feared.

Released from the hospital, Willie went into the pediatrics ward where he was the center of attraction for youngsters.

"They just checked me up and checked me out," Mays said.

He hopes to be able to take it somewhat easier in future seasons.

Asked if he would go easier during spring training, Willie replied:

"I may have to with these long seasons."

The National League in 1962 added two new teams, making the season 162 games instead of 154.

Mays indicated he may have some trouble taking things easier when he said, "I play all out, that's the only way I know how to play. It's harder for me to rest when a game is going on than it is to play in it. I get restless."

He added that he will do whatever Manager Alvin Dark asks of him.

Dr. Rosenblum said Mays' collapse at Cincinnati was due simply to exhaustion.

"It was a difficult season, very trying, and he is aware of his responsibility," the physician said of the $90,000 a year outfielder.

"Mays had a comprehensive physical examination that included all the routine tests," the doctor explained. "All yielded normal findings. His condition is perfectly healthy."

The 31-year-old player, who stands 5-foot-11 and weighs 188, has been with the Giants since 1951.

In the past 165-game season, including the playoff with Los Angeles for the National League pennant, he batted .304, led the majors in home runs with 49, and drove in 141 runs, the highest RBI total of his career.

In the World Series, he collected seven hits in 28 appearances, including two doubles.

Then he went on an exhibition tour.

Asked about the Giants chances next year, Mays told the conference of about 20 newsmen, "That question put me on a spot. I will let the club speak for itself when the season comes."

Willie said he plans to visit New York the end of this month and might even take up golf as a hobby when he returns here.

"I never have played golf and I don't know how I'll do," he laughed.

Unbeaten Bama Goes Against State's Maroons

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — Alabama's defending national champions will seek their 24th straight victory Saturday at the expense of Mississippi State, an erratic team that can be troublesome if underestimated.

A near capacity crowd of 34,000 is expected for the 2 p.m. kickoff, which will highlight the Maroons' homecoming celebration.

Oilers Head Rules Out Expansion

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler President K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr. has ruled out any expansion of the American Football League in the near future.

Adams, a member of the three-man league expansion committee, told members of the Ruff-Nek Booster Club Thursday that stabilization of the Oakland and New York franchises would have to come before the league expanded.

The six league members are in sound shape, he said. They are Houston, Dallas, San Diego, Denver, Buffalo and Boston.

Adams said Oakland officials probably would move the Raider franchise after this season because of poor attendance. He said there are three groups in Oakland willing to buy the Raider franchise and move it to another city.

He listed New Orleans, Atlanta, Kansas City and Chicago as possible landing places for the Raiders, who have lost seven in a row this year without a victory.

"I am not in favor of placing an American Football League franchise in a city where there already is pro football, but I think I would go along with Chicago in this case as they would support another team," Adams said.

The Oiler official would not elaborate on the New York situation, where Harry Wismer has just named his wife of three months to the executive board.

Bowl Bids Are Up For Grabs

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

National rankings and juicy bowl plums are the stake in three of the key college football games Saturday—and favored to grab the honors are Southern California, Louisiana State and Missouri.

Missouri meets Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb., for a shot at the Orange Bowl.

Six unbeaten teams and four in the top ten of The Associated Press ratings are involved in these headliners which oddsmakers figure will be close enough to be decided by a field goal.

Two of the games—at Los Angeles and Lincoln—will be on regional television (CBS-TV) while cameras will pick up another traditional and colorful battle in the East—Navy vs. Notre Dame at Philadelphia.

Unbeaten Southern California, ranked third nationally, is rated a 2½ pick over grind-it-out ninth-ranked Washington which has not lost a decision but which has been tied twice.

Far West and Southwest television fans will watch an individual duel between Southern Cal's fine passer, Pete Beathard, and Washington's strong runner, Charlie Mitchell, starting at 4:30 p.m., EST.

At Baton Rouge, LSU, No. 4 nationally, is a three-point favorite over Mississippi, No. 6, but a stirring individual battle is anticipated between LSU's Jerry Stovall and Ole Miss' Glynn Griffing.

Missouri, which has held Nebraska scoreless since 1958, is a three-point choice over the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Nebraska has won its six games with a hard-hitting attack paced by Dennis Claridge. Missouri, unbeaten, has a scoreless tie with Minnesota on its record. The game will be televised in the Middle West (3 p.m., EST kickoff).

Another game which is apt to attract bowl scouts is that at Durham, N.C., between Georgia Tech, featuring the talented Billy Lothridge, and Duke, with a pair of slick quarterbacks in Walt Rappold and Gil Garner. Duke has lost only one game, Georgia Tech two.

Northwestern, newly elevated to the No. 1 spot in the rankings, is expected to win its sixth straight easily against Indiana. Alabama, No. 2 and the defending national champion, has a breather against Mississippi State at Starkville.

Other members of the top ten appear in little danger of having their prestige damaged. Fifth-ranked Texas, eyeing the host position in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, is a 16-point favorite over resurgent Southern Methodist at Austin.

Michigan State, No. 7, is a 10-point pick over Minnesota at East Lansing. Arkansas, No. 8, is figured two touchdowns better than Texas A&M at College Station. Auburn, No. 10, is rated a touchdown over Florida at Gainesville.

The East holds a large part of the nation's football interest, with a rash of topflight games.

Navy, which has suddenly come to life behind the sharp throwing arm of quarterback Roger Staubach, plays Notre Dame at Philadelphia in a renewal of college football's longest consecutive rivalry. The Midshipment are eight-point favorites in a game which is to be beamed to television viewers in the East and South (CBS-TV, kickoff 1:30 p.m., EST).

Unbeaten Dartmouth seeks to cement its Ivly League lead against Yale at New Haven. Maryland is at Penn State, Syracuse at Pittsburgh, Cornell at Columbia, Pennsylvania at Harvard, Army at Boston College and Lehigh at Colgate.

In the Big Ten, where they're waiting for Northwestern and Michigan State to falter, Purdue is favored to hand Illinois its 16th straight setback and Wisconsin is picked over Michigan. Oklahoma plays at Colorado, Kansas at Kansas State and Iowa State at Oklahoma State in Big Eight competition.

The Southeastern Conference is expected to pick up some interconference scalps with Georgia chosen over North Carolina at Athens, Tulane over Virginia Tech at New Orleans and Tennessee over Wake Forest at Knoxville.

The Southwest Conference race remains a wide open affair, even though Texas and Arkansas are concended to have the most strength. Texas Christian, with one of the sport's most effective passers in Sonny Gibbs, can remain in contention by beating Baylor. Rice, which hasn't won a game, is a three-touchdown choice over Texas Tech.

On the Pacific Coast, Stanford, buoyed by its triumph over UCLA, will attempt to beat an Oregon team, favored by two touchdowns. Oregon State is at Washington State, San Jose at the University of Pacific, Idaho at Arizona, New Mexico at Brigham Young, Utah State at Arizona State, Wyoming at Air Force and Utah at Colorado State.

Aillet said he is glad to see the Lions rated no. 2 and 3 in the small college polls. "Their high ranking speaks well for the Gulf States Conference. We are also proud Stan (Galloway) was selected to go to Europe and conduct coaching clinics. We have known for years Galloway is one of the outstanding coaches in the nation," he said.

Tech is the only team having an edge on Galloway - coached Lions teams, with a 7-3-1 margin for 11 years. The two teams have waged many ding - dong battles in the past.

An injury to defensive safety Pat Shows has caused considerable shifting at Tech this week. Bruce Weaver and Mickey Strother have been moved from offense to defense and Charlie Miller will play both the wing and linebacker. The busiest man will likely be soph halfback Jack Odom, who will play offensive flanker, defensive safety, and offensive left halfback at various times.

About 8,000 are expected to view the loop battle, with the prospects good for cool, fair weather for the various homecoming activities.

FOUR GAMES

Arkansas Starts Conference Play

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — With Arkansas — there just hasn't been any margin for error in November, not if the Porkers entertain any chance at a SWC championship. That's the situation again in 1962 as the Razorbacks set out on a difficult four-game course that begins at College Station, Texas this Saturday night. Both Arkansas and Texas A & M show 2-1 conference records. The loser retains little opportunity to be a part of that race.

Once again this week the Razorback defense bears the major responsibility for success. That defense has seen a fantastic 137 passes in six games and almost as many offensive formations as plays. The Aggies may top anything the Porkers have witnessed this year. Fully one dozen players have carried the ball 10 or more times for Hank Foldberg's Cadets. "We haven't been able to keep up with their personnel for their plays," said Razorback head coach Frank Broyles.

The Razorbacks need not apologize for their defensive efforts in 1962 — in spite of the fact that the statistics do not match the record - setting pace of last year. Arkansas still leads the conference in both defensive (224.3) and offensive (369.3) statistics.

The 36th meeting between these two schools might be one of the "hidden statistics" that Broyles speaks of so often. He's talking about punt and kickoff returns — an area where Arkansas and A&M excel.

Defensive ace Kenny Hatfield rates with the best in the nation in both departments. He's returned nine punts for 127 yards (a 14.1 average) and six kickoffs for 198 yards (a tremendous 33-yard mark). And — he has help in players like George Walker (three KO returns for a 35.7 average), Billy Moore, Jim Worthington and Mike Parker.

The Cadets can call upon perhaps their most versatile athlete — wingback George Hargett. The 170 - pound junior has returned 15 punts for 148 yards; four kickoffs for 82 yards and is their leading receiver with 11 receptions for 152 yards. Hargett will be tested by the stingiest punt return defense in the nation. Although Arkansas has booted the ball 26 times — only six have been returned for a total yardage of 19 yards.

The Razorbacks, who have hobbled through the last four games with up to four starters out of the lineup at one time, will be in the best physical shape of the year to open their November campaign. End Jim John, injured before the season even got underway, is slated for his first action; while fullbacks Billy Joe Moody and Danny Brabham; tackle Dave Adams; guard Tommy Polk; and tailback Jim Worthington are all expected to be ready for full - time duty. A mild scare involving guard Mike Hales and a twisted knee on Wednesday was given the OK.

Foster Pick To Play In Bowl Classic

Billy Foster, Northeast State's stellar guard, has been invited to play in the annual All American Bowl in Tucson, Ariz., Northeast Coach Jack Rowan has announced.

The game, which pits players from major schools against stars from lesser - known colleges, will be played Dec. 29.

Two other Northeast grid stars have played in the All American Bowl. End Joe Driskill played in the 1958 game and Charlie Barnes, another end, played in the game in 1960.

Foster is in the process of earning his fourth Northeast grid letter. An all - state lineman at Tallulah High School, the 230 - pounder has been one of Northeast's most outstanding players this fall.

Davis Finally Gets OK For NFL Activity

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ernie Davis now is in condition to play with the Cleveland Browns, but there is a question whether he could help the team more than the player who would have to be cut from the roster, Art Modell, club president, said Friday.

"I feel as good as I ever felt in my life," Davis said during a workout Thursday at League Park. "I'm ready now. It's just up to him," he said, pointing out on the field to Coach Paul Brown.

Brown won't comment about the situation, but it is known he is reluctant to put the 22-year-old All-America halfback on the team at this time.

Willie Mays Found Okay By Check-Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Star center fielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants was pronounced in superior physical condition Friday.

Dr. Harold H. Rosenblum, chief of medicine at Mount Zion Hospital, made the pronouncement at a news conference following three days of tests on baseball's highest paid player.

And Willie said the results were no surprise.

"I know what was wrong," Mays said. "I was just tired. We had a hard season all the way."

His health had been an issue since he collapsed in the dugout in the third inning of a Sept. 12 game in Cincinnati and was out of the line-up until Sept. 16.

Dr. Rosenblum said, "There is no medical problem whatsoever. His condition is superior to other men his age. He is in prime physical condition."

The favorable report on Mays followed by just three days the disclosure that the Giants' other top slugger, Orlando Cepeda, had no eye trouble as previously feared.

Released from the hospital, Willie went into the pediatrics ward where he was the center of attraction for youngsters.

"They just checked me up and checked me out," Mays said.

He hopes to be able to take it somewhat easier in future seasons.

Asked if he would go easier during spring training, Willie replied:

"I may have to with these long seasons."

The National League in 1962 added two new teams, making the season 162 games instead of 154.

Mays indicated he may have some trouble taking things easier when he said, "I play all out, that's the only way I know how to play. It's harder for me to rest when a game is going on than it is to play in it. I get restless."

He added that he will do whatever Manager Alvin Dark asks of him.

Dr. Rosenblum said Mays' collapse at Cincinnati was due simply to exhaustion.

"It was a difficult season, very trying, and he is aware of his responsibility," the physician said of the $90,000 a year outfielder.

"Mays had a comprehensive physical examination that included all the routine tests," the doctor explained. "All yielded normal findings. His condition is perfectly healthy."

The 31-year-old player, who stands 5-foot-11 and weighs 188, has been with the Giants since 1951.

In the past 165-game season, including the playoff with Los Angeles for the National League pennant, he batted .304, led the majors in home runs with 49, and drove in 144 runs, the highest RBI total of his career.

In the World Series, he collected seven hits in 28 appearances, including two doubles.

Then he went on an exhibition tour.

Asked about the Giants chances next year, Mays told the conference of about 20 newsmen, "That question put me on a spot. I will let the club speak for itself when the season comes."

Willie said he plans to visit New York the end of this month and might even take up golf as a hobby when he returns here.

"I never have played golf and I don't know how I'll do," he laughed.

Unbeaten Bama Goes Against State's Maroons

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Alabama's defending national champions will seek their 24th straight victory Saturday at the expense of Mississippi State, an erratic team that can be troublesome if underestimated.

A near capacity crowd of 34,000 is expected for the 2 p.m. kickoff, which will highlight the Maroons' homecoming celebration.

Rawls Shoots A Record 68 In Civitan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Betsy Rawls fired a course record 68 Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of San Antonio Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls, the Texas girl now from Spartanburg, S.C., had seven birdies and compiled her 34-34—68 despite three three-putt greens. It was the first time that the former University of Texas student had been in the 60s since spring.

Miss Jessen made a strong run for the top spot. She was 4-under-par over the Canyon Creek Country Club course through 15 holes, an eagle on 11 giving her the fine score. But she overshot the 16th green and took a double bogey 5.

Mrs. Lindstorm, the National Open champion, came to the last green three under par and had a 20-foot birdie putt. She missed it and also missed a 6-footer coming back and wound up with a bogey.

Mickey Wright, the tournament favorite who would like to win the $7,500 event and become the first woman to take 11 championships in a year, soared to a 75.

Oilers Head Rules Out Expansion

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler President K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr. has ruled out any expansion of the American Football League in the near future.

Adams, a member of the three-man league expansion committee, told members of the Ruff-Nek Booster Club Thursday that stabilization of the Oakland and New York franchises would have to come before the league expanded.

The six league members are in sound shape, he said. They are Houston, Dallas, San Diego, Denver, Buffalo and Boston.

Adams said Oakland officials probably would move the Raider franchise after this season because of poor attendance. He said there are three groups in Oakland willing to buy the Raider franchise and move it to another city.

He listed New Orleans, Atlanta, Kansas City and Chicago as possible landing places for the Raiders, who have lost seven in a row this year without a victory.

"I am not in favor of placing an American Football League franchise in a city where there already is pro football, but I think I would go along with Chicago in this case as they would support another team," Adams said.

The Oiler official would not elaborate on the New York situation, where Harry Wismer has just named his wife of three months to the executive board.

Bowl Bids Are Up For Grabs

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

National rankings and juicy bowl plums are the stake in three of the key college football games Saturday—and favored to grab the honors are Southern California, Louisiana State and Missouri.

Six unbeaten teams and four in the top ten of The Associated Press ratings are involved in these headliners which odds-makers figure will be close enough to be decided by a field goal.

Two of the games—at Los Angeles and Lincoln—will be on regional television (CBS-TV) while cameras will pick up another traditional and colorful battle in the East—Navy vs. Notre Dame at Philadelphia.

Unbeaten Southern California, ranked third nationally, is rated a 2½ pick over grind-it-out ninth-ranked Washington which has not lost a decision but which has been tied twice.

Far West and Southwest television fans will watch an individual duel between Southern Cal's fine passer, Pete Beathard, and Washington's strong runner, Charlie Mitchell, starting at 4:30 p.m., EST.

At Baton Rouge, LSU, No. 4 nationally, is a three-point favorite over Mississippi, No. 6, but a stirring individual battle is anticipated between LSU's Jerry Stovall and Ole Miss' Glynn Griffing.

Missouri, which has held Nebraska scoreless since 1958, is a three-point choice over the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Nebraska has won its six games with a hard-hitting attack paced by Dennis Claridge. Missouri, unbeaten, has a scoreless tie with Minnesota on its record. The game will be televised in the Middle West (3 p.m., EST kickoff).

Another game which is apt to attract bowl scouts is that at Durham, N.C., between Georgia Tech, featuring the talented Billy Lothridge, and Duke, with a pair of slick quarterbacks in Walt Rappold and Gil Garner. Duke has lost only one game, Georgia Tech two.

Northwestern, newly elevated to the No. 1 spot in the rankings, is expected to win its sixth straight easily against Indiana. Alabama, No. 2 and the defending national champion, has a breather against Mississippi State at Starkville.

Other members of the top ten appear in little danger of having their prestige damaged. Fifth-ranked Texas, eyeing the host position in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, is a 16-point favorite over resurgent Southern Methodist at Austin.

Michigan State, No. 7, is a 10-point pick over Minnesota at East Lansing. Arkansas, No. 8, is figured two touchdowns better than Texas A&M at College Station. Auburn, No. 10, is rated a touchdown over Florida at Gainesville.

The East holds a large part of the nation's football interest, with a rash of topflight games.

Navy, which has suddenly come to life behind the sharp throwing arm of quarterback Roger Staubach, plays Notre Dame at Philadelphia in a renewal of college football's longest consecutive rivalry. The Midshipment are eight-point favorites in a game which is to be beamed to television viewers in the East and South (CBS-TV, kickoff 1:30 p.m., EST).

Unbeaten Dartmouth seeks to cement its Ivly League lead against Yale at New Haven. Maryland is at Penn State, Syracuse at Pittsburgh, Cornell at Columbia, Pennsylvania at Harvard, Army at Boston College and Lehigh at Colgate.

In the Big Ten, where they're waiting for Northwestern and Michigan State to falter, Purdue is favored to hand Illinois its 16th straight setback and Wisconsin is picked over Michigan. Oklahoma plays at Colorado, Kansas at Kansas State and Iowa State at Oklahoma State in Big Eight competition.

The Southeastern Conference is expected to pick up some inter-conference scalps with Georgia chosen over North Carolina at Athens, Tulane over Virginia Tech at New Orleans and Tennessee over Wake Forest at Knoxville.

The Southwest Conference race remains a wide open affair, even though Texas and Arkansas are concended to have the most strength. Texas Christian, with one of the sport's most effective passers in Sonny Gibbs, can remain in contention by beating Baylor. Rice, which hasn't won a game, is a three-touchdown choice over Texas Tech.

On the Pacific Coast, Stanford, buoyed by its triumph over UCLA, will attempt to beat an Oregon team, favored by two touchdowns. Oregon State is at Washington State, San Jose at the University of Pacific, Idaho at Arizona, New Mexico at Brigham Young, Utah State at Arizona State, Wyoming at Air Force and Utah at Colorado State.

EDGE NEAR 1-AAA CROWN

Jackets Sting Ouachita With 27-0 Shutout Win

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

The Byrd High Yellow Jackets edged one step closer to a District 1-AAA championship here Friday night with a convincing 27-0 victory over Ouachita's Lions.

The Jackets of Coach J. D. Cox bulled their way for four touchdowns in the first three periods against Ouachita to rack up their fourth straight conference win. It was the fifth district loss of the season for Coach Bob Ellen's Lions.

Byrd finished with 320 yards rushing for the night and 18 first downs while holding Ouachita to 58 yards on the ground and three first downs.

It was evident from Harold Mayes' eight yard run for the first score, to Roby Odom's five yard plunge for the final tally, that Byrd's 24 pound weight advantage would prevail.

The Jackets added two other scores, one by John Smith on a four yard run and the other by David Porter from the one, to rack up their victory.

Halfback Jim Ryan, who does all of Byrd's extra point and field goal kicking, was also in top form as he placed three of four attempts squarely through the uprights.

Ouachita could only muster one drive across the visitors' 50 yard [illegible] and it came early in the fourth quarter. The Lions took over on their own 22, following a Byrd punt, and on a fine 22 yard scamper by halfback Donnie Powell quickly had the ball out to the 44.

Ronnie Hamilton then picked up seven to Byrd's 49 and it looked as if the Lions might be on their way. Hamilton carried the ball again for one and little Freddie Monroe added two more for a first down.

But The Jackets would yield no more and after three tries for a minus-4, zero, and minus-8 the Lions were forced to punt.

Byrd's first touchdown capped a deliberate and precise 11-play drive which covered 73 yards.

In the second period, Byrd got possession on their own 32 following a Jack Trimble punt and this time put together a 12-play scoring drive.

Ouachita halfback Randy Bowles made several fine defensive plays but it was not enough to stop the Jackets. Smith and Porter once again alternated lugging the ball most of the time. Smith finally plunged over on a fourth and goal situation from the four. Ryan failed to convert the point after and when the halftime buzzer sounded Byrd led 13-0.

The third period was Byrd's [illegible] quarter and it wasted no time getting started.

After holding Ouachita to eight yards on three plays, Trimble punted and the Jackets set up operations on their own 2[illegible].

From here Byrd streaked for five quick first downs and [illegible] tally. The big play of the drive was a 21 yard pass from quarterback Sammy Nader to end Dale Schall which gave Byrd a first and ten at the Lion 21. Fullback Porter then raced for 10 more to the 11 and two plays later he dived over from the one.

The win increased Bossier's district 1-AAA record to 3-1 while the Rebels fell to a 2-3 district standing with one more conferenced contest remaining. The Bearkats, currently rated number seven in the Associated Press poll, still have Ouachita and Woodlawn, of Shreveport on their slate.

West Monroe's Charlie Van Zile managed both of the Rebel tallies. The first score for the Rebs came in the second quarter while trailing 7-0. Van Zile broke for a five - yard scoring spring around right end after converted tackle Mike Shepherd hauled in a 28 - yard pass from quarterback Dickie Worthey and carried the ball to the five.

Van Zile broke loose again in the final period for he finest run of the night and turned in a 51 - yard scoring run or the Rebels. The play came in the opening minute of the fourth quarter. The fleet halfback gave the Rebs a chance to even the score at 14-14 with 11:20 remaining in the game.

However on the extra point try, fullback Bobby Brice met a host of Bearkat defenders short of the goal and left the Rebels trailing, 14-13.

In a action packed fourth quarter, the Bearkat defense and the Rebel defense tightened their lines and made traveling difficult. While the Bearkats found weakness in the right side of the West Monroe line which allowed two sustained drives in the final period, the Rebels were able to move around ends.

West Monroe's passing attack proved to be more effective against the Bearkats than against any other opponent. Worthey tossed a total of 11 times and completed five for 90-yards, including the pass to Shepherd which set up the first Rebel score.

After Van Zile's 51 - yard scoring run, the defensive battle of the two AAA schools intensified. The Bearkats were forced to punt after four plays following the kickoff and the Rebels took over on their own 43. West Monroe moved to the visitor's 25-yard line in nine plays before giving up the ball on downs. During the drive Bossier's Parther slipped through the Rebel defense in a first and 10 situation and caught Van Zile for a seven-yard loss.

Bossier gained control of the ball with only four - minutes remaining. The Bearkats moved from their 25 to the Rebel 44-yard line before punting with only 29 seconds remaining.

In a do - or - die effort, with 16 seconds left in the game Worthey threw three passes. The first was a 24 - yarder to Van Zile which carried the ball from the four to the 28 - yard line. The second came with eight seconds left and fell incomplete. The third pass ended the game as Worthey hit freshman end Chuck Crawford who carried to the 40 - yard line.

Bossier's first tally came less than two minuts after the opening kickoff. West Monroe's sophomore halfback Ray Alexander took the initial boot on his ten and moved to the 25 - yard line where he fumbled and an alert Bossier defense recovered.

Bossier's defense thwarted a strong bid to even the score in the first quarter after West Monroe's Jerry Compton recovered a Bearkat fumble on the Bossier 22 - yard line, and the Rebels moved to the Bearkat eight-yard line. A fast charging defense caught Worthey back to pass on the 20 - yard line for a 12-yard loss and then blocked the next attempted pass in a fourth and goal situation to give the Bearkats the ball.

West Monroe put an end to a Bossier bid to increase the score in the third quarter after the Bearkats had driven 51 - yards in 16 plays and consumed 7:25 of the third quarter, with quarterback Mike White at the helm.

The Bearkats found themselves on fourth down with very short yardage to go three times during the drive and went for the first every time except one. After moving from their own 35 to the Rebels' 14, West Monroe tightened its belt — and defense — and White's second pass of the night fell incomplete on a fourth and eight situation.

Alexander, Compton, Ricky Riser and Bubba Jones combined for the bulk of West Monroe's defensive play, while Van Zile, Shepherd and Brice dominated the Rebels' offensive movements.

Harvill and Prather gained the majority of Bossier's 242 - yards and combined with Robert Hamlett and Curtin Marsh on the defensive.

EDGE NEAR 1-AAA CROWN

Jackets Sting Ouachita With 27-0 Shutout Win

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

The Byrd High Yellow Jackets edged one step closer to a District 1-AAA championship here Friday night with a convincing 27-0 victory over Ouachita's Lions.

The Jackets of Coach J. D. Cox bulled their way for four touchdowns in the first three periods against Ouachita to rack up their fourth straight conference win. It was the fifth district loss of the season for Coach Bob Ellen's Lions.

Byrd finished with 320 yards rushing for the night and 18 first downs while holding Ouachita to 58 yards on the ground and three first downs.

It was evident from Harold Mayes' eight yard run for the first score, to Roby Odom's five yard plunge for the final tally, that Byrd's 24 pound weight advantage would prevail.

The Jackets added two other scores, one by John Smith on a four yard run and the other by David Porter from the one, to rack up their victory.

Halfback Jim Ryan, who does all of Byrd's extra point and field goal kicking, was also in top form as he placed three of four attempts squarely through the uprights.

Ouachita could only muster one drive across the visitors' 50 yard stripe and it came early in the fourth quarter. The Lions took over on their own 22, following a Byrd punt, and on a fine 22 yard scamper by halfback Donnie Powell quickly had the ball out to the 44.

Ronnie Hamilton then picked up seven to Byrd's 49 and it looked as if the Lions might be on their way. Hamilton carried the ball again for one and little Freddie Monroe added two more for a first down.

But The Jackets would yield no more and after three tries for a minus-4, zero, and minus-8 the Lions were forced to punt.

Byrd's first touchdown capped a deliberate and precise 11-play drive which covered 73-yards.

Smith and Porter each chipped in 22 yards during the drive before Mayes carried over with 7:40 remaining in the first quarter.

In the second period, Byrd got possession on their own 32 following a Jack Trimble punt and this time put together a 12-play scoring drive.

Ouachita halfback Randy Bowles made several fine defensive plays but it was not enough to stop the Jackets. Smith and Porter once again alternated lugging the ball most of the time. Smith finally plunged over on a first and goal situation from the four. Ryan failed to convert the point-after and when the halftime buzzer sounded Byrd led 13-0.

The third period was Byrd's two TD quarter and it wasted no time getting started.

After holding Ouachita to eight yards on three plays, Trimble punted and the Jackets set up operations of their own 25.

From here Byrd streaked for five quick first downs and its third tally. The big play of the drive was a 21-yard pass from quarterback Sammy Nader to end Doug Schill which gave Byrd a first and ten at the Lion 21. Fullback Porter then raced for 10 more to the 11 and two plays later he dived over from the one.

After forcing Byrd to punt, Ouachita took over the ball at its own 28. But on first down halfback Ronnie Walling was hit hard at the 36, causing him to fumble. Junior Joe Ward alertly picked off the ball in mid-air and raced to the five yard-line before being hauled down.

Odom scored on the next play.

The fourth period was all defense. Byrd could manage only one first down in the quarter. Ouachita picked up two of its three first downs in the final period, but could never get a serious drive mounted.

Once again end Jack Trimble gave Ouachita fans plenty to yell about with his sensational punting. The slender senior punted nine times for 338 yards and a 37.5 average.

Once he punted from his own 34 into Byrd's end zone for 66 yards but of course the ball was brought out to the 20, knocking off 20 yards.

His last kick of the night was also a beauty. Kicking from his own 15, he booted the ball to Byrd's 35 which was 50 yards away.

Kenney broke the ice with a 90 - yard dash in the initial period and galloped 40 yards for the second six - pointer in the second stanza. Duff ran the PAT following the second score to run the Tide's margin to 13-0.

Duff scored his three TD's on scampers of 29, 28, and 84 yards before climaxing the scoring with a 42 - yard aerial to Fox McKeithen.

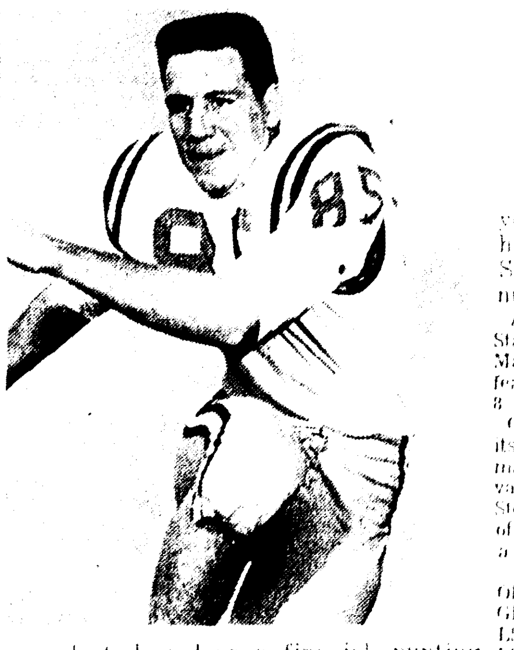
National, SEC Honors At Stake For Bengals



LOUISIANA STATE ends Danny Neumann (left) and Bob Flurry will be trying to defeat Ole Miss one more time when the two teams meet tonight in Tiger stadium. Neumann, a Tallulah High product, has done a fine job punting and in his Go team terminal spot. Flurry, the Homer senior, is a terror at his end spot on the Chinese Bandit unit.

LSU Slim Favorite Over Rebs Tonight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — For the fifth straight year, southeastern Conference and National football honors will be at stake Saturday night when Louisiana State hosts the University of Mississippi in their annual grudge match.

All places in 67,500-seat Tiger Stadium have been sold out since May for the battle of the undefeated titans. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. (CST).

Oddsmakers rate LSU, led by its great All-America and Heisman Trophy candidate Jerry Stovall, a slim three-point favorite. Stovall leads LSU in virtually all offense categories and has scored a touchdown in every Tiger game.

For the fifth straight season, Ole Miss, led by passing wizard Glynn Griffing, comes into the LSU game with a perfect slate. LSU has whipped Ole Miss three times since 1958 and in 1960, the Rebels had to battle back to gain a 6-6 tie at Oxford, Miss. This year LSU goes against Ole Miss with a 5-0-1 record, having settled for a 6-6 tie with Rice.

As usual this annual grudge match figures to be a defensive duel. The Rebels, in rolling through their first five games, have allowed only 14 points, both touchdowns coming on punt returns. LSU has given up 16 points in its six games and has shut out its last two opponents.

So far this season, the two teams have used relatively simple offenses, with the Rebels relying more on passing and the Tigers using a punishing ground attack, interspersed with a few passes.

Although quarterback Jimmy Field finally began hitting last week, completing six of seven passes, the Tigers expect to depend on the power running of Stovall, sophomore halfback Danny LeBlanc, halfback Bo Campbell and fullbacks Charles Cranford and Steve Ward.

The Rebels may have something up their sleeves. Coach Johnny Vaught clamped a tight lid on Rebel workouts this week, and told a newsman flatly that his Rebels were working on "a few tricks."

Ole Miss' meal ticket is Griffing, who is rated by Vaught as the best quarterback he's coached. Along with his understudy, soph Jim Weatherly, Griffing has a better-than-50 per cent completion record.

His favorite targets are halfbacks Lou Guy and Chuck Morris, and ends Al Brown and Woody Dabbs. Chief ground threats are fullback Perry Lee Dunn, a converted quarterback who may do some throwing, and his understudy, Buck Randall.

Both coaches have a lot at stake. Charlie McClendon, who succeeded Paul Dietzel when the latter made his switch to Army, would welcome a big-game victory to gain his own niche in the heart of Tiger fans.

For Vaught, second winningest coach in collegiate ranks over the past quarter century, the stigma of the past four years hurts. His only success over LSU since 1957 was a 21-0 Sugar Bowl victory in 1960.

For weeks, tension and excitement has been building up at both schools. The rooming and ticket situation here is so bad that Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett could not find a hotel room.

Rawls Shoots A Record 68 In Civitan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Betsy Rawls fired a course record 68 Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of San Antonio Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls, the Texas girl now from Spartanburg, S.C., had seven birdies and compiled her 34-34—68 despite three three-putt greens. It was the first time that the former University of Texas student had been in the 60s since spring.

Miss Jessen made a strong run for the top spot. She was 4-under-par over the Canyon Creek Country Club course through 15 holes, an eagle on 11 giving her the fine score. But she overshot the 16th green and took a double bogey 5.

Mrs. Lindstorm, the National Open champion, came to the last green three under par and had a 20-foot birdie putt. She missed it and also missed a 6-footer coming back and wound up with a bogey.

Mickey Wright, the tournament favorite who would like to win the $7,500 event and become the first woman to take 11 championships in a year, soared to a 75.

FOUR GAMES

Arkansas Starts Conference Play

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — With Arkansas there just hasn't been any margin for error in November, not if the Porkers entertain any chance at a SWC championship. That's the situation again in 1962 as the Razorbacks set out on a difficult four-game course that begins at College Station, Texas this Saturday night. Both Arkansas and Texas A & M show 2-1 conference records. The loser retains little opportunity to be a part of that race.

Once again this week the Razorback defense bears the major responsibility for success. That defense has seen a fantastic 137 passes in six games and almost as many offensive formations as plays. The Aggies may top anything the Porkers have witnessed this year. Fully one dozen players have carried the ball 10 or more times for Hank Foldberg's Cadets. "We haven't been able to keep up with their personnel for their plays," said Razorback head coach Frank Broyles.

The Razorbacks need not apologize for their defensive efforts in 1962 — in spite of the fact that the statistics do not match the record - setting pace of last year. Arkansas still leads the conference in both defensive (224.3) and offensive (369.3) statistics.

The 36th meeting between these two schools might be one of the "hidden statistics" that Broyles speaks of so often. He's talking about punt and kickoff returns — an area where Arkansas and A&M excel.

Defensive ace Kenny Hatfield rates with the best in the nation in both departments. He's returned nine punts for 127 yards (a 14.1 average) and six kickoffs for 198 yards (a tremendous 33 yard mark). And — he has help in players like George Walker (three KO returns for a 35.7 average), Billy Moore, Jim Worthington and Mike Parker.

The Cadets can call upon perhaps their most versatile athlete — wingback George Hargett. The 170 - pound junior has returned 15 punts for 148 yards, four kickoffs for 82 yards and is their leading receiver with 11 receptions for 152 yards. Hargett will be tested by the stingiest punt return defense in the nation. Although Arkansas has booted the ball 26 times — only six have been returned for a total yardage of 19 yards.

The Razorbacks, who have hobbled through the last four games with up to four starters out of the lineup at one time, will be in the best physical shape of the year to open their November campaign. End Jim John, injured before the season even got underway, is slated for his first action, while fullbacks Billy Joe Moody and Danny Brabham, tackle Dave Adams, guard Tommy Polk, and tailback Jim Worthington are all expected to be ready for full time duty. A mild scare involving guard Mike Hales and a twisted knee on Wednesday was given the OK.

Foster Pick To Play In Bowl Classic

Billy Foster, Northeast State's stellar guard, has been invited to play in the annual All American Bowl in Tucson, Ariz., Northeast Coach Jack Rowan has announced.

The game, which pits players from major schools against stars from lesser known colleges, will be played Dec. 29.

Two other Northeast grid stars have played in the All American Bowl. End Joe Driskill played in the 1958 game and Charlie Barnes, another end, played in the game in 1960.

Foster is in the process of earning his fourth Northeast grid letter. An all - state lineman at Tallulah High School, the 230 - pounder has been one of Northeast's most outstanding players this fall.

Davis Finally Gets OK For NFL Activity

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ernie Davis now is in condition to play with the Cleveland Browns, but there is a question whether he could help the team more than the player who would have to be cut from the roster, Art Modell, club president, said Friday.

"I feel as good as I ever felt in my life," Davis said during a workout Thursday at League Park. "I'm ready now. It's just up to him," he said, pointing out on the field to Coach Paul Brown.

Brown won't comment about the situation, but it is known he is reluctant to put the 22-year-old All-America halfback on the team at this time.

Oilers Head Rules Out Expansion

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler President K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr. has ruled out any expansion of the American Football League in the near future.

Adams, a member of the three-man league expansion committee, told members of the Ruff-Nek Booster Club Thursday that stabilization of the Oakland and New York franchises would have to come before the league expanded.

The six league members are in sound shape, he said. They are Houston, Dallas, San Diego, Denver, Buffalo and Boston.

Adams said Oakland officials probably would move the Raider franchise after this season because of poor attendance. He said there are three groups in Oakland willing to buy the Raider franchise and move it to another city.

He listed New Orleans, Atlanta, Kansas City and Chicago as possible landing places for the Raiders, who have lost seven in a row this year without a victory.

"I am not in favor of placing an American Football League franchise in a city where there already is pro football, but I think I would go along with Chicago in this case as they would support another team," Adams said.

The Oiler official would not elaborate on the New York situation, where Harry Wismer has just named his wife of three months to the executive board.

Bowl Bids Are Up For Grabs

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

National rankings and juicy bowl plums are the stake in three of the key college football games Saturday—and favored to grab the honors are Southern California, Louisiana State and Missouri.

Six unbeaten teams and four in the top ten of The Associated Press ratings are involved in these headliners which odds-makers figure will be close enough to be decided by a field goal.

Two of the games—at Los Angeles and Lincoln—will be on regional television (CBS-TV) while cameras will pick up another traditional and colorful battle in the East—Navy vs. Notre Dame at Philadelphia.

Unbeaten Southern California, ranked third nationally, is rated a 2½ pick over grind-it-out ninth-ranked Washington which has not lost a decision but which has been tied twice.

Far West and Southwest television fans will watch an individual duel between Southern Cal's fine passer, Pete Beathard, and Washington's strong runner, Charlie Mitchell, starting at 4:30 p.m., EST.

At Baton Rouge, LSU, No. 4 nationally, is a three-point favorite over Mississippi, No. 6, but a stirring individual battle is anticipated between LSU's Jerry Stovall and Ole Miss' Glynn Griffing.

Missouri, which has held Nebraska scoreless since 1958, is a three-point choice over the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Nebraska has won its six games with a hard-hitting attack paced by Dennis Claridge. Missouri, unbeaten, has a scoreless tie with Minnesota on its record. The game will be televised in the Middle West (3 p.m., EST kickoff).

Another game which is apt to attract bowl scouts is that at Durham, N.C., between Georgia Tech, featuring the talented Billy Lothridge, and Duke, with a pair of slick quarterbacks in Walt Rappold and Gil Garner. Duke has lost only one game, Georgia Tech two.

Northwestern, newly elevated to the No. 1 spot in the rankings, is expected to win its sixth straight easily against Indiana. Alabama, No. 2 and the defending national champion, has a breather against Mississippi State at Starkville.

Other members of the top ten appear in little danger of having their prestige damaged. Fifth-ranked Texas, eyeing the host position in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, is a 16-point favorite over resurgent Southern Methodist at Austin.

Michigan State, No. 7, is a 10-point pick over Minnesota at East Lansing. Arkansas, No. 8, is figured two touchdowns better than Texas A&M at College Station. Auburn, No. 10, is rated a touchdown over Florida at Gainesville.

The East holds a large part of the nation's football interest, with a rash of topflight games.

Navy, which has suddenly come to life behind the sharp throwing arm of quarterback Roger Staubach, plays Notre Dame at Philadelphia in a renewal of college football's longest consecutive rivalry. The Midshipment are eight-point favorites in a game which is to be beamed to television viewers in the East and South (CBS-TV, kickoff 1:30 p.m., EST).

Unbeaten Dartmouth seeks to cement its Ivy League lead against Yale at New Haven. Maryland is at Penn State, Syracuse at Pittsburgh, Cornell at Columbia, Pennsylvania at Harvard, Army at Boston College and Lehigh at Colgate.

In the Big Ten, where they're waiting for Northwestern and Michigan State to falter, Purdue is favored to hand Illinois its 16th straight setback and Wisconsin is picked over Michigan. Oklahoma plays at Colorado, Kansas at Kansas State and Iowa State at Oklahoma State in Big Eight competition.

The Southeastern Conference is expected to pick up some inter-conference scalps with Georgia chosen over North Carolina at Athens, Tulane over Virginia Tech at New Orleans and Tennessee over Wake Forest at Knoxville.

The Southwest Conference race remains a wide open affair, even though Texas and Arkansas are concended to have the most strength. Texas Christian, with one of the sport's most effective passers in Sonny Gibbs, can remain in contention by beating Baylor. Rice, which hasn't won a game, is a three-touchdown choice over Texas Tech.

On the Pacific Coast, Stanford, buoyed by its triumph over UCLA, will attempt to beat an Oregon team, favored by two touchdowns. Oregon State is at Washington State, San Jose at the University of Pacific, Idaho at Arizona, New Mexico at Brigham Young, Utah State at Arizona State, Wyoming at Air Force and Utah at Colorado State.

Louisiana Tech Eager For Game With Lions

RUSTON (Special) — Southeastern Louisiana College, unbeaten and with a watchful eye on its national high ranking and lofty perch atop the Gulf States Conference, provides homecoming opposition for every daring [illegible] Louisiana Tech here at 2 p.m., Saturday.

The pressure is off for the Techmen, who are all but mathematically eliminated in the conference race with a 1-2 record and with a 3-2 mark for the campaign. SLC is 5-0 for the year and 2-0 in the league.

Stan Galloway's Lions are favored by as much as two touchdowns in some quarters. They are trying to follow up two consecutive 9-1 seasons with a perfect one.

Tech Coach Joe Aillet said, "We are looking forward to meeting Southeastern. We like to think we play better football against better football teams. We have always especially enjoyed our friendly relations with Southeastern."

Aillet said he is glad to see the Lions rated no. 2 and [illegible] in the small college polls. "Their high ranking speaks well for the Gulf States Conference. We are also proud Stan Galloway was selected to go to [illegible] and conduct coaching [illegible]. We have known for years Galloway is one of the outstanding coaches in the nation," he said.

Tech is the only team having an edge on Galloway - coached Lions teams, with a 7-3-1 margin for 11 years. The two teams have waged many ding - dong battles in the past.

An injury to defensive safety Pat Shows has caused considerable shifting at Tech this week. Bruce Weaver and Mickey Strother have been moved from offense to defense and Charlie Miller will play both the wing and linebacker. The busiest man will likely be soph halfback Jack Odom, who will play offensive flanker, defensive safety, and offensive left halfback at various times.

About 8,000 are expected to view the loop battle with the prospects good for cool, fair weather for the various homecoming activities.

Willie Mays Found Okay By Check-Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Star center fielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants was pronounced in superior physical condition Friday.

Dr. Harold H. Rosenblum, chief of medicine at Mount Zion Hospital, made the pronouncement at a news conference following three days of tests on baseball's highest paid player.

And Willie said the results were no surprise.

"I know what was wrong," Mays said. "I was just tired. We had a hard season all the way."

His health had been an issue since he collapsed in the dugout in the third inning of a Sept. 12 game in Cincinnati and was out of the line-up until Sept. 16.

Dr. Rosenblum said, "There is no medical problem whatsoever. His condition is superior to other men his age. He is in prime physical condition."

The favorable report on Mays followed by just three days the disclosure that the Giants' other top slugger, Orlando Cepeda, had no eye trouble as previously feared.

Released from the hospital, Willie went into the pediatrics ward where he was the center of attraction for youngsters.

"They just checked me up and checked me out," Mays said.

He hopes to be able to take it somewhat easier in future seasons.

Asked if he would go easier during spring training, Willie replied, "I may have to with these long seasons."

The National League in 1962 added two new teams, making the season 162 games instead of 154.

Mays indicated he may have some trouble taking things easier when he said, "I play all out, that's the only way I know how to play. It's harder for me to rest when a game is going on than it is to play in it. I get restless."

He added that he will do whatever Manager Alvin Dark asks of him.

Dr. Rosenblum said Mays' collapse at Cincinnati was due simply to exhaustion.

"It was a difficult season, very trying, and he is aware of his responsibility," the physician said of the $90,000 a year outfielder.

"Mays had a comprehensive physical examination that included all the routine tests," the doctor explained. "All yielded normal findings. His condition is perfectly healthy."

The 31-year-old player, who stands 5-foot-11 and weighs 188, has been with the Giants since 1951.

In the past 165-game season, including the playoff with Los Angeles for the National League pennant, he batted .304, led the majors in home runs with 49, and drove in 141 runs, the highest RBI total of his career.

In the World Series, he collected seven hits in 28 appearances, including two doubles.

Then he went on an exhibition tour.

Asked about the Giants chances next year, Mays told the conference of about 20 newsmen, "That question put me on a spot. I will let the club speak for itself when the season comes."

Willie said he plans to visit New York the end of this month and might even take up golf as a hobby when he returns here.

"I never have played golf and I don't know how I'll do," he laughed.

Unbeaten Bama Goes Against State's Maroons

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — Alabama's defending national champions will seek their 25th straight victory Saturday at the expense of Mississippi State, an erratic team that can be troublesome if underestimated.

A near capacity crowd of 34,000 is expected for the 2 p.m. kickoff, which will highlight the Maroons' homecoming celebration.

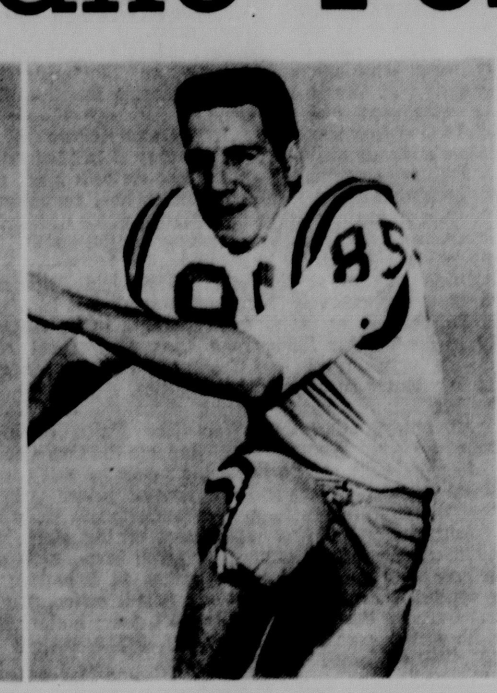
National, SEC Honors At Stake For Bengals



LOUISIANA STATE ends Danny Neumann (left) and Bob Flurry will be trying to defeat Ole Miss one more time when the two teams meet tonight in Tiger stadium. Neumann, a Tallulah High product, has done a fine job punting and in his Go team terminal spot. Flurry, the Homer senior, is a terror at his end spot on the Chinese Bandit unit.

LSU Slim Favorite Over Rebs Tonight

BATON ROUGE (AP)— For the fifth straight year, southeastern Conference and National football honors will be at stake Saturday night when Louisiana State hosts the University of Mississippi in their annual grudge match.

All places in 67,500-seat Tiger Stadium have been sold out since May for the battle of the undefeated titans. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. (CST).

Oddsmakers rate LSU, led by its great All-America and Heisman Trophy candidate Jerry Stovall, a slim three-point favorite. Stovall leads LSU in virtually all offense categories and has scored a touchdown in every Tiger game.

For the fifth straight season, Ole Miss, led by passing wizard Glynn Griffing, comes into the LSU game with a perfect slate. LSU has whipped Ole Miss three times since 1958 and in 1960, the Rebels had to battle back to gain a 6-6 tie at Oxford, Miss. This year LSU goes against Ole Miss with a 5-0-1 record, having settled for a 6-6 tie with Rice.

As usual, this annual grudge match figures to be a defensive duel. The Rebels, in rolling through their first five games, have allowed only 14 points, both touchdowns coming on punt returns. LSU has given up 16 points in its six games and has shut out its last two opponents.

So far this season, the two teams have used relatively simple offenses, with the Rebels relying more on passing and the Tigers using a punishing ground attack, interspersed with a few passes.

Although quarterback Jimmy Field finally began hitting last week, completing six of seven passes, the Tigers expect to depend on the power running of Stovall, sophomore halfback Danny LeBlanc, halfback Bo Campbell and fullbacks Charles Cranford and Steve Ward.

The Rebels may have something up their sleeves. Coach Johnny Vaught clamped a tight lid on Rebel workouts this week, and told a newsman flatly that his Rebels were working on "a few tricks."

Ole Miss' meal ticket is Griffing, who is rated by Vaught as the best quarterback he's coached. Along with his understudy, soph Jim Weatherly, Griffing has a better-than-50 per cent completion record.

His favorite targets are halfbacks Lou Guy and Chuck Morris, and ends Al Brown and Woody Dabbs. Chief ground threats are fullback Perry Lee Dunn, a converted quarterback who may do some throwing, and his understudy, Buck Randall.

Both coaches have a lot at stake. Charlie McClendon, who succeeded Paul Dietzel when the latter made his switch to Army, would welcome a big-game victory to gain his own niche in the heart of Tiger fans.

For Vaught, second winningest coach in collegiate ranks over the past quarter century, the stigma of the past four years hurts. His only success over LSU since 1957 was a 21-0 Sugar Bowl victory in 1960.

For weeks, tension and excitement has been building up at both schools. The rooming and ticket situation here is so bad that Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett could not find a hotel room.

FOUR GAMES

Arkansas Starts Conference Play

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — With Arkansas — there just hasn't been any margin for error in November, not if the Porkers entertain any chance at a SWC championship. That's the situation again in 1962 as the Razorbacks set out on a difficult four-game course that begins at College Station, Texas this Saturday night. Rawls Shoots A Record 68 In Civitan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Betsy Rawls fired a course record 68 Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of San Antonio Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls, the Texas girl now from Spartanburg, S.C., had seven birdies and compiled her 34-34—68 despite three three-putt greens. It was the first time that the former University of Texas student had been in the 60s since spring.

Miss Jessen made a strong run for the top spot. She was 4-under-par over the Canyon Creek Country Club course through 15 holes, an eagle on 11 giving her the fine score. But she overshot the 16th green and took a double bogey 5.

Mrs. Lindstorm, the National Open champion, came to the last green three under par and had a 20-foot birdie putt. She missed it and also missed a 6-footer coming back and wound up with a bogey.

Mickey Wright, the tournament favorite who would like to win the $7,500 event and become the first woman to take 11 championships in a year, soared to a 75.

Oilers Head Rules Out Expansion

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler President K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr. has ruled out any expansion of the American Football League in the near future.

Adams, a member of the three-man league expansion committee, told members of the Ruff-Nek Booster Club Thursday that stabilization of the Oakland and New York franchises would have to come before the league expanded.

The six league members are in sound shape, he said. They are Houston, Dallas, San Diego, Denver, Buffalo and Boston.

Adams said Oakland officials probably would move the Raider franchise after this season because of poor attendance. He said there are three groups in Oakland willing to buy the Raider franchise and move it to another city.

He listed New Orleans, Atlanta, Kansas City and Chicago as possible landing places for the Raiders, who have lost seven in a row this year without a victory.

"I am not in favor of placing an American Football League franchise in a city where there already is pro football, but I think I would go along with Chicago in this case as they would support another team," Adams said.

The Oiler official would not elaborate on the New York situation, where Harry Wismer has just named his wife of three months to the executive board.

Bowl Bids Are Up For Grabs

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

National rankings and juicy bowl plums are the stake in three of the key college football games Saturday—and favored to grab the honors are Southern California, Louisiana State and Missouri.

Six unbeaten teams and four in the top ten of The Associated Press ratings are involved in these headliners which odds-makers figure will be close enough to be decided by a field goal.

Two of the games—at Los Angeles and Lincoln—will be on regional television (CBS-TV) while cameras will pick up another traditional and colorful battle in the East—Navy vs. Notre Dame at Philadelphia.

Unbeaten Southern California, ranked third nationally, is rated a 2½ pick over grind-it-out ninth-ranked Washington which has not lost a decision but which has been tied twice.

Far West and Southwest television fans will watch an individual duel between Southern Cal's fine passer, Pete Beathard, and Washington's strong runner, Charlie Mitchell, starting at 4:30 p.m., EST.

At Baton Rouge, LSU, No. 4 nationally, is a three-point favorite over Mississippi, No. 6, but a stirring individual battle is anticipated between LSU's Jerry Stovall and Ole Miss' Glynn Griffing.

Missouri, which has held Nebraska scoreless since 1958, is a three-point choice over the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Nebraska has won its six games with a hard-hitting attack paced by Dennis Claridge. Missouri, unbeaten, has a scoreless tie with Minnesota on its record. The game will be televised in the Middle West (3 p.m., EST kickoff).

Another game which is apt to attract bowl scouts is that at Durham, N.C., between Georgia Tech, featuring the talented Billy Lothridge, and Duke, with a pair of slick quarterbacks in Walt Rappold and Gil Garner. Duke has lost only one game, Georgia Tech two.

Northwestern, newly elevated to the No. 1 spot in the rankings, is expected to win its sixth straight easily against Indiana. Alabama, No. 2 and the defending national champion, has a breather against Mississippi State at Starkville.

Other members of the top ten appear in little danger of having their prestige damaged. Fifth-ranked Texas, eyeing the host position in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, is a 16-point favorite over resurgent Southern Methodist at Austin.

Michigan State, No. 7, is a 10-point pick over Minnesota at East Lansing. Arkansas, No. 8, is figured two touchdowns better than Texas A&M at College Station. Auburn, No. 10, is rated a touchdown over Florida at Gainesville.

The East holds a large part of the nation's football interest, with a rash of topflight games.

Navy, which has suddenly come to life behind the sharp throwing arm of quarterback Roger Staubach, plays Notre Dame at Philadelphia in a renewal of college football's longest consecutive rivalry. The Midshipment are eight-point favorites in a game which is to be beamed to television viewers in the East and South (CBS-TV, kickoff 1:30 p.m., EST).

Unbeaten Dartmouth seeks to cement its Ivly League lead against Yale at New Haven. Maryland is at Penn State, Syracuse at Pittsburgh, Cornell at Columbia, Pennsylvania at Harvard, Army at Boston College and Lehigh at Colgate.

In the Big Ten, where they're waiting for Northwestern and Michigan State to falter, Purdue is favored to hand Illinois its 16th straight setback and Wisconsin is picked over Michigan. Oklahoma plays at Colorado, Kansas at Kansas State and Iowa State at Oklahoma State in Big Eight competition.

The Southeastern Conference is expected to pick up some inter-conference scalps with Georgia chosen over North Carolina at Athens, Tulane over Virginia Tech at New Orleans and Tennessee over Wake Forest at Knoxville.

The Southwest Conference race remains a wide open affair, even though Texas and Arkansas are concended to have the most strength. Texas Christian, with one of the sport's most effective passers in Sonny Gibbs, can remain in contention by beating Baylor. Rice, which hasn't won a game, is a three-touchdown choice over Texas Tech.

On the Pacific Coast, Stanford, buoyed by its triumph over UCLA, will attempt to beat an Oregon team, favored by two touchdowns. Oregon State is at Washington State, San Jose at the University of Pacific, Idaho at Arizona, New Mexico at Brigham Young, Utah State at Arizona State, Wyoming at Air Force and Utah at Colorado State.

EDGE NEAR 1-AAA CROWN

Jackets Sting Ouachita With 27-0 Shutout Win

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

The Byrd High Yellow Jackets edged one step closer to a District 1-AAA championship here Friday night with a convincing 27-0 victory over Ouachita's Lions.

The Jackets of Coach J. D. Cox bulled their way for four touchdowns in the first three periods against Ouachita to rack up their fourth straight conference win. It was the fifth district loss of the season for Coach Bob Ellen's Lions.

Byrd finished with 320 yards rushing for the night and 18 first downs while holding Ouachita to 58 yards on the ground and three first downs.

It was evident from Harold Mayes' eight yard run for the first score, to Roby Odom's five yard plunge for the final tally, that Byrd's 24 pound weight advantage would prevail.

The Jackets added two other scores, one by John Smith on a four yard run and the other by David Porter from the one, to rack up their victory.

Halfback Jim Ryan, who does all of Byrd's extra point and field goal kicking, was also in top form as he placed three of four attempts squarely through the uprights.

Ouachita could only muster one drive across the visitors' 50 yard stripe and it came early in the fourth quarter. The Lions took over on their own 22, following a Byrd punt, and on a fine 22 yard scamper by halfback Donnie Powell quickly had the ball out to the 44.

Ronnie Hamilton then picked up seven to Byrd's 49 and it looked as if the Lions might be on their way. Hamilton carried the ball again for one and little Freddie Monroe added two more for a first down.

But The Jackets would yield no more and after three tries for a minus-4, zero, and minus-8 the Lions were forced to punt.

Byrd's first touchdown capped a deliberate and precise 11-play drive which covered 73 yards.

Smith and Porter each chipped in 22 yards during the drive before Mayes carried over with 1:40 remaining in the first quarter.

In the second period, Byrd got possession on their own 32 following a Jack Trimble punt and this time put together a 12-play scoring drive.

Ouachita halfback Randy Bowles made several fine defensive plays but it was not enough to stop the Jackets. Smith and Porter once again alternated lugging the ball most of the time. Smith finally plunged over on a first and goal situation from the four. Ryan failed to convert the point after and when the halftime buzzer sounded Byrd led 13-0.

The third period was Byrd's big TD quarter and it wasted no time getting started.

After holding Ouachita to eight yards on three plays, Trimble punted and the Jackets set up operations of their own 25.

From here Byrd streaked for five quick first downs and its third tally. The key play of the drive was a 21 yard pass from quarterback Sammy Nader to end Dave Schill which gave Byrd a first and ten at the Lion 21. Fullback Porter then raced for 10 more to the 11 and two plays later he dived over from the one.

After forcing Byrd to punt, Ouachita took over the ball at its own 28. But on first down halfback Ronnie Walling was hit hard at the 26, causing him to fumble. Jimmy Joe Ward alertly picked off the ball in midair and raced to the five yard line before being hauled down.

Odom scored on the next play.

The fourth period was all defense. Byrd could manage only one first down in the quarter. Ouachita picked up two of its three first downs in the final period but could never get a serious drive mounted.

Bossier City Topples West Monroe By 14-13

by Lee Harvill, who pounded the concentrated on defense in the final half to take a slim, but important 14-13 Triple A victory over West Monroe's Rebels.

The Bearkats scored in the first quarter on a 21 - yard run Rebel line for impressive gains throughout the night, and again later in the second period on a sparkling 35 - yard sprint by Neal Prather. Bobbie New connected each time.

The win increased Bossier's district 1-AAA record to 3-1 while the Rebels fell to a 2-3 district standing with one more conferenced contest remaining. The Bearkats, currently rated number seven in the Associated Press poll, still have Ouachita and Woodlawn, of Shreveport on their slate.

West Monroe's Charlie Van Zile managed both of the Rebel tallies. The first score for the Rebs came in the second quarter while trailing 7-0. Van Zile broke for a five - yard scoring spring around right end after converted tackle Mike Shepherd hauled in a 28 - yard pass from quarterback Dickie Worthey and carried the ball to the five.

Van Zile broke loose again in the final period for he finest run of the night and turned in a 51 - yard scoring run or the Rebels. The play came in the opening minute of the fourth quarter. The fleet halfback gave the Rebs a chance to even the score at 14-14 with 11:20 remaining in the game.

In a action packed fourth quarter, the Bearkat defense and the Rebel defense tightened their lines and made traveling difficult. While the Bearkats found weakness in the right side of the West Monroe line which allowed two sustained drives in the final period, the Rebels were able to move around ends.

West Monroe's passing attack proved to be more effective against the Bearkats than against any other opponent. Worthey tossed a total of 11 times and completed five for 90-yards, including the pass to Shepherd which set up the first Rebel score.

After Van Zile's 51 - yard scoring run, the defensive battle of the two AAA schools intensified. The Bearkats were forced to punt after four plays following the kickoff and the Rebels took over on their own 43. West Monroe moved to the visitor's 25-yard line in nine plays before giving up the ball on downs. During the drive Bossier's Parther slipped through the Rebel defense in a first and 10 situation and caught Van Zile for a seven-yard loss.

Bossier gained control of the ball with only four - minutes remaining. The Bearkats moved from their 25 to the Rebel 44-yard line before punting with only 29 seconds remaining.

Bossier's first tally came less than two minuts after the opening kickoff. West Monroe's sophomore halfback Ray Alexander took the initial boot on his ten and moved to the 25 - yard line where he fumbled and an alert Bossier defense recovered.

Bossier's defense thwarted a strong bid to even the score in the first quarter after West Monroe's Jerry Compton recovered a Bearkat fumble on the Bossier 22 - yard line, and the Rebels moved to the Bearkat eight-yard line. A fast charging defense caught Worthey back to pass on the 20 - yard line for a 12-yard loss and then blocked the next attempted pass in a fourth and goal situation to give the Bearkats the ball.

West Monroe put an end to a Bossier bid to increase the score in the third quarter after the Bearkats had driven 51 - yards in 16 plays and consumed 7:25 of the third quarter, with quarterback Mike White at the helm.

The Bearkats found themselves on fourth down with very short yardage to go three times during the drive and went for the first every time except one. After moving from their own 35 to the Rebels' 14, West Monroe tightened its belt — and defense — and White's second pass of the night fell incomplete on a fourth and eight situation.

Alexander, Compton, Ricky Riser and Bubba Jones combined for the bulk of West Monroe's defensive play, while Van Zile, Shepherd and Brice dominated the Rebels' offensive movements.

After holding Ouachita to eight yards on three plays, Trimble punted and the Jackets set up operations of their own 25.

The fourth period was all defense. Byrd could manage only one first down in the quarter. Ouachita picked up two of its three first downs in the final period, but could never get a serious drive mounted.

Once again end Jack Trimble gave Ouachita fans plenty to yell about with his sensational punting. The slender senior punted nine times for 338 yards and a 37.5 average.

Once he punted from his own 34 into Byrd's end zone for 66 yards but of course the ball was brought out to the 20, knocking off 20 yards.

Miami Defeats Kentucky, 25-17

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The once-beaten Miami Hurricanes, trailing 17-6 early in the second half, stormed from behind on the passing of wiry George Mira Friday night for a 25-17 football victory over Kentucky.

Although Mira hit only 9 of 17 passes for 93 yards, he was accurate in the clutch—passing for two touchdowns, scoring one on a quarterback sneak and setting up the eventual winner—counted by John Bennett on a one-yard plunge early in the fourth quarter.

With an 18-17 lead after Bennett's TD, the Hurricanes, now 6-1, finally sewed up the triumph against the tiring, but stubborn Wildcats with a final touchdown just 31 seconds before the end.

Jerry Woolum, who completed 18 of 31 passes for 274 yards and one touchdown, built a 17-6 lead for Kentucky with a 60-yard march after receiving the kickoff opening the second half.

Mira got Miami back into the game with an 80-yard drive, climaxed bp a three-yard scoring pass to Nick Spinelli, who had grabbed a 16-yard toss from Mira for the first Hurricane TD. When the Wildcats couldn't gain after the kickoff, Mira moved Miami on the go-ahead drive that ended with Bennett's plunge.

Thompson With 'Mostest' May Decide Outcome

It's not poetical, or even grammatical, but this paraphrased ditty may prove less nonsensical than first glance indicates when McNeese State and Northwestern State hook up in their important Gulf States Conference football battle here Saturday night.

It just so happens that both the homestanding Cowboys and visiting Demons have outstanding young men in their backfields named Thompson.

Richmond Roars Back For Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richmond roared back on the passing of Mel Rideout for two fourth quarter touchdowns Friday night and a 17-14 Southern Conference football victory over George Washington.

Neville Sweeps Past Lake Charles 20 To 0

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Neville's splendid Tigers roared to their ninth straight victory of the season here Friday night as they downed the AAA Lake Charles Wildcats 20-0.

	Neville	Lake Charles
FD	15	11
Rushing	204	89
Passing	119	78
Passes (A&C)	5-9	4-10
Int. by	2	0
Punts	3-32.6	4-24
Fumbles	0	0
Penalties	80	35

Apparently held on a fourth and six situation, Neville was forced to punt, but got another chance and a first down when Lake Charles was detected offsides.

From there Neville really got going. Jimmy Howard rammed for 13, and two plays later quarterback Don Saget uncorked the big play of the march, a 26-yard aerial to Gary Hart which carried to the Lake Charles 30.

From there it took but seven plays, with halfback Gary Pappas plowing the final yard over left guard. The score came with 10:08 remaining in the period. Howard kicked the conversion.

Lake Charles then came back to mount a drive which carried to the Tiger 29, but the Neville defense stiffened at this point and the Tigers took over and marched to their second score.

With time running out, it appeared as if the clock might beat Neville to the punch, particularly when the Tigers faced with a fourth and eight from their own 40 with but 44 seconds remaining in the half.

Pappas, taking over as the bell-weather of the rushing corps, when the Wildcats keyed on Howard, reeled off several nifty gainers during the march and also gathered in Saget's 27-yard aerial and legged it to the Lake Charles 39.

After Saget ran for eight-yards and a first down on the Lake Charles eight, Johnson carried two straight times for another score.

The final attempt came from five-yards out. Howard again made the kick good to end the scoring.

It appeared however that Lake Charles might break into the scoring column midway in the final period as the Wildcats rode behind the passing of Buddy Micelle to a first down on the Neville seven, but the Tiger defense rose up again to spill the Wildcats for two straight losses. Howard speared Delman McNabb's pass in the end zone to kill the threat.

Pappas netted 85-yards on 18-carries to lead all rushers. Howard added 73, also on 18-attempts.

Miami Defeats Kentucky, 25-17

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The once-beaten Miami Hurricanes, trailing 17-6 early in the second half, stormed from behind on the passing of wiry George Mira Friday night for a 25-17 football victory over Kentucky.

Although Mira hit only 9 of 17 passes for 93 yards, he was accurate in the clutch—passing for two touchdowns, scoring one on a quarterback sneak and setting up the eventual winner—counted by John Bennett on a one-yard plunge early in the fourth quarter.

With an 18-17 lead after Bennett's TD, the Hurricanes, now 6-1, finally sewed up the triumph against the tiring, but stubborn Wildcats with a final touchdown just 31 seconds before the end.

Jerry Woolum, who completed 18 of 31 passes for 274 yards and one touchdown, built a 17-6 lead for Kentucky with a 60-yard march after receiving the kickoff opening the second half.

Mira got Miami back into the game with an 80-yard drive, climaxed bp a three-yard scoring pass to Nick Spinelli, who had grabbed a 16-yard toss from Mira for the first Hurricane TD. When the Wildcats couldn't gain after the kickoff, Mira moved Miami on the go-ahead drive that ended with Bennett's plunge.

Thompson With 'Mostest' May Decide Outcome

It's not poetical, or even grammatical, but this paraphrased ditty may prove less nonsensical than first glance indicates when McNeese State and Northwestern State hook up in their important Gulf States Conference football battle here Saturday night.

It just so happens that both the homestanding Cowboys and visiting Demons have outstanding young men in their backfields named Thompson.

Richmond Roars Back For Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richmond roared back on the passing of Mel Rideout for two fourth-quarter touchdowns Friday night and a 17-14 Southern Conference football victory over George Washington.

Neville Sweeps Past Lake Charles 20 To 0

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Neville's splendid Tigers roared to their ninth straight victory of the season here Friday night as they downed the AAA Lake Charles Wildcats 20-0.

The Tigers, fleet of foot, showed a versatile attack which proved too much for the Wildcats to contain throughout.

	Neville	Lake Charles
FD	15	11
Rushing	204	89
Passing	119	78
Passes (A&C)	5-9	4-10
Int. by	2	0
Punts	3-32.6	4-24
Penalties	80	35

Apparently held on a fourth and six situation, Neville was forced to punt, but got another chance and a first down when Lake Charles was detected offsides.

From there Neville really got going. Jimmy Howard rammed for 13, and two plays later quarterback Don Saget uncorked the big play of the march, a 26-yard aerial to Gary Hart which carried to the Lake Charles 30.

From there it took but seven plays, with halfback Gary Pappas plowing the final yard over left guard. The score came with 10:08 remaining in the period. Howard kicked the conversion.

Lake Charles then came back to mount a drive which carried to the Tiger 29, but the Neville defense stiffened at this point and the Tigers took over and marched to their second score.

With time running out, it appeared as if the clock might beat Neville to the punch, particularly when the Tigers faced with a fourth and eight from their own 40 with but 44 seconds remaining in the half.

The Tigers didn't line up in punt formation, however, and Saget promptly threw to fullback Don Johnson, who picked his way through the onrushing secondary for the touchdown.

Neville mounted a sustained march of 69-yards in the third period with Saget and Pappas leading the way.

Pappas, taking over as the bellweather of the rushing corps, when the Wildcats keyed on Howard, reeled off several nifty gainers during the march and also gathered in Saget's 27-yard aerial and legged it to the Lake Charles 39.

After Saget ran for eight-yards and a first down on the Lake Charles eight, Johnson carried two straight times for another score.

The final attempt came from five-yards out. Howard again made the kick good to end the scoring.

It appeared however that Lake Charles might break into the scoring column midway in the final period as the Wildcats rode behind the passing of Buddy Micelle to a first down on the Neville seven, but the Tiger defense rose up again to spill the Wildcats for two straight losses. Howard speared Delman McNabb's pass in the end zone to kill the threat.

Pappas netted 85-yards on 18-carries to lead all rushers. Howard added 73, also on 18-attempts.

Election Rule Permits Voting Outside Party

Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter has advised the Board of Supervisors of Elections that any registered Democrat can vote for any candidate in the November 6th general election without losing his party affiliation.

Charles G. Wall Jr., board president, requested Lassiter for an opinion, explaining that numerous voters have raised this question: "May a voter who is a registered Democrat legally vote for any candidate he wishes in the general election, November 6th?

Lassiter replied:

"Answering, therefore, your questions, it is our opinion that in a general election a registered voter may vote for any candidate he desires, whether Democrat, Republican, or Independent, without regard to the voter's party affiliation, otherwise, a general election would be a vain and useless gesture."

Marion Garden Club Has Hawaiian Party Thursday

Among the thousands of tourists who enjoyed the beautiful scenery, brilliantly colored flowers and graceful palm trees of Hawaii were Mrs. A. L. Phillips and Mrs. C. W. Sehon, Marion Garden Club members, who shared their trip with others in a typical Hawaiian setting.

The room was decorated with flowers and products of Hawaii. Mrs. Dan Green had an arrangement of roses; Mrs. Robert Tucker, Pineapple lily leaves and other tropical foilage arranged in an old fashioned sugar bucket. Mrs. Clinton Allen and Mrs. E. H. Maroney had a dried arrangement of wood roses in a sandalwood container. Other decorations representing the natural resources were sugar cane, a huge fish net covering one wall, coconuts in the hull, bond carved wooden plates, banana leaves, and pineapple. The sweet pineapple came to Hawaii from Jamaica. Scenes from Jamaica were also a part of the program.

After a few "aloha", the Hawaiian word for greetings, Mrs. A. L. Phillips, Jr. introduced the first speaker, Mrs. A. L. Phillips who with her granddaughter, visited the big blue isle. She shared with the members her experiences and gave much information on the life, customs, flowers, food and clothing of our fiftieth state.

Mrs. C. W. Sehon assisted by Mrs. Otha Brown, narrated a film that she and Mr. Sehon made on the islands last year.

Mrs. Phillips then introduced Misses Judy McKennie and Peggy Hicks seniors of Marion High school. As Peggy showed slides, Judy narrated her sister's trip to Jamacia. Mrs. Hattie Weir of West Monroe was unable to attend the meeting. Calypso music enhanced this narrative.

Before the "luau" Mrs. E. H. Maroney, Mrs. J. O. Smith, Mrs. D. H. Green, Mrs. R. S. Thompson, Mrs. C. D. Sehon, Mrs. Fay Phillips and Mrs. A. L. Phillips, Jr. modeled traditional and modern versions of Hawaiian dresses. These were of exquisite color and material brought from Hawaii by Mrs. Ivy Jordan of Monroe.

The hostesses had arranged the table with a cover of giant banana leaves and centered it with fruits, nuts and flowers characteristic of the island. From a pineapple crystal punch bowl Mrs. J. O. Smith served Hawaiian punch and Mrs. E. H. Maroney served coconut cake.

Those attending the festive party were Mrs. W. P. McKinnie, Mrs. Ruby Edwards, Miss Bess Tucker, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. John Burgess, Mrs. Emmett Taylor, Mrs. Roy Bird, Mrs. C. W. Sehon, Mrs. J. B. Oliver, Mrs. H. D. Green, Mrs. J. C. Boyd, Mrs. J. C. Allen, Mrs. David Bowen, Mrs. John Bird, Mrs. T. H. Gibson, Mrs. Loula Tucker, Mrs. L. L. Maroney, Mrs. Jimmie Allen, Mrs. J. E. Marion Garden Club Has Hawaiian Party Thursday

Among the thousands of tourists who enjoyed the beautiful scenery, brilliantly colored flowers and graceful palm trees of Hawaii were Mrs. A. L. Phillips and Mrs. C. W. Sehon, Marion Garden Club members, who shared their trip with others in a typical Hawaiian setting.

On their imaginary tour the members entered "gate 2" of the recreation room of the Methodist church which had the atmosphere of "the Aloha State."

The room was decorated with flowers and products of Hawaii. Mrs. Dan Green had an arrangement of roses; Mrs. Robert Tucker, Pineapple lily leaves and other tropical foilage arranged in an old fashioned sugar bucket. Mrs. Clinton Allen and Mrs. E. H. Maroney had a dried arrangement of wood roses in a sandalwood container. Other decorations representing the natural resources were sugar cane, a huge fish net covering one wall, coconuts in the hull, bond carved wooden plates, banana leaves, and pineapple. The sweet pineapple came to Hawaii from Jamaica. Scenes from Jamaica were also a part of the program.

After a few "aloha", the Hawaiian word for greetings, Mrs. A. L. Phillips, Jr. introduced the first speaker, Mrs. A. L. Phillips who with her granddaughter, visited the big blue isle. She shared with the members her experiences and gave much information on the life, customs, flowers, food and clothing of our fiftieth state.

Mrs. C. W. Sehon assisted by Mrs. Otha Brown, narrated a film that she and Mr. Sehon made on the islands last year.

Mrs. Phillips then introduced Misses Judy McKennie and Peggy Hicks seniors of Marion High school. As Peggy showed slides, Judy narrated her sister's trip to Jamacia. Mrs. Hattie Weir of West Monroe was unable to attend the meeting. Calypso music enhanced this narrative.

Before the "luau" Mrs. E. H. Maroney, Mrs. J. O. Smith, Mrs. D. H. Green, Mrs. R. S. Thompson, Mrs. C. D. Sehon, Mrs. Fay Phillips and Mrs. A. L. Phillips, Jr. modeled traditional and modern versions of Hawaiian dresses. These were of exquisite color and material brought from Hawaii by Mrs. Ivy Jordan of Monroe.

Misses Denise Dugas and Diedre McKinnie wore hula skirts and did one of the variations of the hula. They also helped extend courtesies.

The hostesses had arranged the table with a cover of giant banana leaves and centered it with fruits, nuts and flowers characteristic of the island. From a pineapple crystal punch bowl Mrs. J. O. Smith served Hawaiian punch and Mrs. E. H. Maroney served coconut cake.

Those attending the festive party were: Mrs. W. P. McKinnie, Mrs. Ruby Edwards, Miss Bess Tucker, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. John Burgess, Mrs. Emmett Taylor, Mrs. Roy Bird, Mrs. C. W. Sehon, Mrs. J. B. Oliver, Mrs. H. D. Green, Mrs. J. C. Boyd, Mrs. J. C. Allen, Mrs. David Bowen, Mrs. John Bird, Mrs. T. H. Gibson, Mrs. Loula Tucker, Mrs. L. L. Maroney, Mrs. Jimmie Allen, Mrs. J. E. Roark, Mrs. Robert Tucker, Mrs. Allie Taunton, Mrs. A. L. Phillips, Jr. and guest, Mrs. A. L. McKinnie, Mrs. Otha Brown, Mrs. Allie Smith, Misses Judy McKinnie, Dredre McKinnie, Denise Dugas and Peggy Hicks and Hostesses, Mrs. D. H. Phillips, Mrs. J. O. Smith, Mrs. E. H. Maroney, Mrs. K. S. Thompson, and Mrs. A. L. Phillips.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You're a great one sticking up for children who claim they are abused by clerks who wait on adults first. You even agree that some kids steal because "it's easier to walk out with something than to get a cashier to wait on them!"

Abby, have you ever seen some kids in a grocery store running down the aisle with carts, knocking over displays and bumping into customers? Their mothers sit in the car and half the time the kids get the wrong things, don't have enough money or they lose their change. If parents want to teach Junior how to handle money and shop, they should do it on their own time and not during the rush hour.

BEAT CHASHIER

DEAR ABBY: This is for merchants who forget that children one day grow up to be customers. I still live in the town where I grew up, and I make it a policy never to trade at the stores where I was pushed aside by the clerks while adults who came in after I did were waited on ahead of me. They say elephants never forget. A child's memory is sometimes better.

GOOD MEMORY

DEAR ABBY: If a husband dies shortly after a divorce, is the ex-wife considered a widow just as though there had been no divorce?

SATCH

DEAR SATCH: NO! A widow is considered a widow only when her HUSBAND passed away.

INSPIRATION FROM the fabric inspired the designer of this costume. Skimming the body, the Rajah coat covers a sleeveless dress with a matched cowled top, then falls to knee-deep fullness from a small fitted waistline. An extraordinary combination of subdued reds and rosy corals form a surrealistic design, with metallic threads gracefully lending richness to the souffle-light coat.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the woman who says child support laws are a big joke. I say she isn't really trying. Some women don't have any backbone and their husbands know it. She signed her letter, "Been Through It." Well, I've Been Through It, too and she's way off base.

First, there is the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Law. It REALLY works. But it can't work by itself. Someone must invoke it. Then, there's her foolish attitude — "What good is he to me in jail?" Only the threat of jail makes a dent on some scoundrels. I say if a man would rather sit in jail than support his children, then that's the place for him.

This jazz about "no money" is easy to check. A wife can go to any establishment where her husband has been employed and get his social security number. She can then find out exactly how much he makes. Social Security boards are very cooperative.

My own husband covered half the states trying to avoid support payments but he learned there was no place to hide so he quit trying.

For nine years now that support check has been in my hands on the first day of the month.

My advice to women who aren't getting support money is to keep at it. It's worth the effort. — MRS. PERSISTENT

DEAR MRS. PERSISTENT: I agree a positive approach gets you half way home. I fear, however, if you lived in Chicago you'd have no luck getting any information out of the Social Security officials. The records here, we are told, are strictly confidential.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was particularly interested in the letter from Tulsa Mother who thought sororities were so great. I liked your answer, too, although I'm sure SHE didn't.

Tulsa Mother mentioned a slumber party which is why I'm writing. We had an experience which taught us a lesson. Teenagers should sleep at home.

At 1:30 a.m. we were awakened by sounds under our window. I went outside to check. I saw three cars parked by the curb. There were couples in all three cars — the girls were in their pajamas. They had apparently told the fellows about the slumber party and sneaked out the back door to meet them.

We insisted the girls come into the house at once but of course we had no way of knowing how long they'd been out there. Naturally, we were heartsick. Their parents had trusted them to our care assuming they were well chaperoned. Needless to say that put an end to slumber parties at our house. — G.R.

DEAR G.R.: I would not go so far as to say slumber parties should be abolished. I feel strongly, however, that parents should check periodically to see what's going on.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

[Look for Answers Monday]

DEAR FRIENDS:

We have already told you about making little, individual meat loaves (especially for your freezer) which you want to thaw quickly for proper baking, and about how to put them in muffin tins for freezing or cooking. Now, we want to tell you what a wonderful friend wrote in to share with all of us.

She suggested cutting the tops out of fruit juice cans and using them for baking our meat loaves. When these were cold, she said they slice beautifully! Also, it eliminated having to wash a greasy roaster!

I tried it. It is fantastic!

I do not know whether this woman made her meat loaves in regular fruit juice cans or those tiny little frozen juice cans . . . which I found absolutely adorable.

These small frozen fruit juice cans make precious, little, tiny meat loaves, which I cooked, let cool, and later froze. These are darling when company drops in for canapes. Just cut the bottom of the can out with your opener and push the small frozen meat loaves out. Cut in thin slices. These can either be served cold or heated, and laid on a platter as the main dish for a meal, or laid on crackers for snacks, etc.

After these individual meat loaves have been cooked in the tins in your oven, and cooled thoroughly, wrap them in foil and put them in your deep freeze.

Now . . . whenever unexpected guests come in, remove the little cans of your good, homecooked meat from your freezer, use your can opener to cut out the bottom, and push the meat loaf out while it is still frozen. Slice in thin slices with your sharpest butcher knife. (If your husband has sharpened them in the last year!) either very thin or pretty thick. These may either be laid around the hors d'oeuvre tray and served like this, or . . . placed on crackers and put under your broiler for a few minutes! Mmm, ladies, this is delicious, and if you want to be real fancy, sliced stuffed olives too and lay right on the top of this little, tiny slices of meat loaf!

One more little tip is: If you are going to serve these at a buffet party, try putting some chili powder in the meat loaf mixture before baking. This gives a tang all its own. Better yet, when making those meat loaves, put chili powder in only half of the meat before you cook them, and you will have two kinds of party foods!

Here's another tip if you want to be real fancy and different: After the tiny meat loaves thaw slightly . . . take a piece of waxed paper and sprinkle paprika on it. Roll the meat loaves in this before cutting! It's a knockout! Not only will it bowl over your family but your friends will swoon!

When you cut the slices . . . you will have a thin red edge around your miniature meat loaf! On one can I mixed a dab of chili powder in the paprika. Made it really hot!

Be sure to pack your little cans pretty full, because if your hamburger meat is very fat, it will shrink slightly. Happy eating.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:

I suggest that the girls do not throw away the outside leaves of cabbage or the tops of celery. I use them for wrapping my oven cooked meat, especially the cabbage leaves.

I find that these leaves keep moisture in the meat and add a bit of flavor. I dredge my meat in flour, season it, and lay the cabbage leaves and a sprig of celery on top. Add water and cook covered in your oven. The result is wonderfully tender meat and yummy tasting drippings for gravy.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You're a great one sticking up for children who claim they are abused by clerks who wait on adults first. You even agree that some kids steal because "it's easier to walk out with something than to get a cashier to wait on them!"

Abby, have you ever seen some kids in a grocery store running down the aisle with carts, knocking over displays and bumping into customers? Their mothers sit in the car and half the time the kids get the wrong things, don't have enough money or they lose their change. If parents want to teach Junior how to handle money and shop, they should do it on their own time and not during the rush hours.

BEAT CHASHIER

DEAR ABBY: This is for merchants who forget that children one day grow up to be customers. I still live in the town where I grew up, and I make it a policy never to trade at the stores where I was pushed aside by the clerks while adults who came in after I did were waited on ahead of me. They say elephants never forget. A child's memory is sometimes better.

GOOD MEMORY

DEAR ABBY: If a husband dies shortly after a divorce, is the ex - wife considered a widow just as though there had been no divorce?

SATCH

DEAR SATCH: NO! A widow is considered a widow only when her HUSBAND passed away.

INSPIRATION FROM the fabric inspired the designer of this costume. Skimming the body, the Rajah coat covers a sleeveless dress with a matched cowled top, then falls to knee-deep fullness from a small fitted waistline. An extraordinary combination of subdued reds and rosy corals form a surrealistic design, with metallic threads gracefully lending richness to the souffle-light coat.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the woman who says child support laws are a big joke. I say she isn't really trying. Some women don't have any backbone and their husbands know it. She signed her letter, "Been Through It." Well, I've Been Through It, too and she's way off base.

First, there is the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Law. It REALLY works. But it can't work by itself. Someone must invoke it. Then, there's her foolish attitude — "What good is he to me in jail?" Only the threat of jail makes a dent on some scoundrels. I say if a man would rather sit in jail than support his children, then that's the place for him.

This jazz about "no money" is easy to check. A wife can go to any establishment where her husband has been employed and get his social security number. She can then find out exactly how much he makes. Social Security boards are very cooperative.

My own husband covered half the states trying to avoid support payments but he learned there was no place to hide so he quit trying.

For nine years now that support check has been in my hands on the first day of the month.

My advice to women who aren't getting support money is to keep at it. It's worth the effort. — MRS. PERSISTENT

DEAR MRS. PERSISTENT: I agree a positive approach gets you half way home. I fear, however, if you lived in Chicago you'd have no luck getting any information out of the Social Security officials. The records here, we are told, are stricly confidential.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was particularly interested in the letter from Tulsa Mother who thought sororities were so great. I liked your answer, too, although I'm sure SHE didn't.

Tulsa Mother mentioned a slumber party which is why I'm writing. We had an experience which taught us a lesson: Teenagers should sleep at home.

Our daughter gave a slumber party for 14 girls to celebrate her 16th birthday. My husband and I were both at home.

At 1:30 a.m. we were awakened by sounds under our window. I went outside to check. I saw three cars parked by the curb. There were couples in all three cars — the girls were in their pajamas. They had apparently told the fellows about the slumber party and sneaked out the back door to meet them.

We insisted the girls come into the house at once but of course we had no way of knowing how long they'd been out there. Naturally, we were heartsick. Their parents had trusted them to our care assuming they were well-chaperoned. Needless to say that put an end to slumber parties at our house. — G.R.

DEAR G.R.: I would not go so far as to say slumber parties should be abolished. I feel strongly, however, that parents should check periodically to see what's going on.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM Heloise

DEAR FRIENDS:

We have already told you about making little, individual meat loaves (especially for your freezer) which you want to thaw quickly for proper baking, and about how to put them in muffin tins for freezing or cooking. Now, we want to tell you what a wonderful friend wrote in to share with all of us.

She suggested cutting the tops out of fruit juice cans and using them for baking our meat loaves. When these were cold, she said they slice beautifully! Also, it eliminated having to wash a greasy roaster!

I tried it. It is fantastic!

I do not know whether this woman made her meat loaves in regular fruit juice cans or those tiny little frozen juice cans . . . which I found absolutely adorable.

These small frozen fruit juice cans make precious, little, tiny meat loaves, which I cooked, let cool, and later froze. These are darling when company drops in for canapes. Just cut the bottom of the can out with your opener and push the small frozen meat loaves out. Cut in thin slices. These can either be served cold or heated, and laid on a platter as the main dish for a meal, or laid on crackers for snacks, etc.

After these individual meat loaves have been cooked in the tins in your oven, and cooled thoroughly, wrap them in foil and put them in your deep freeze.

Now . . . whenever unexpected guests come in, remove the little cans of your good, homecooked meat from your freezer, use your can opener to cut out the bottom, and push the meat loaf out while it is still frozen. Slice in thin slices with your sharpest butcher knife, (if your husband has sharpened them in the last year!) either very thin or pretty thick. These may either be laid around the hors d'oeuvre tray and served like this, or . . . . . placed on crackers and put under your broiler for a few minutes! Mmm, ladies, this is delicious, and if you want to be real fancy, sliced stuffed olives too and lay right on the top of this little, tiny slices of meat loaf!

One more little tip is: If you are going to serve these at a buffet party, try putting some chili powder in the meat loaf mixture before baking. This gives a tang all its own. Better yet, when making those meat loaves, put chili powder in oly half of the meat before you cook them, and you will have two kinds of party foods!

Here's another tip if you want to be real fancy and different: After the tiny meat loaves thaw slightly . . . take a piece of waxed paper and sprinkle paprika on it. Roll the meat loaves in this before cutting! It's a knockout! Not only will it bowl over your family but your friends will swoon!

When you cut the slices . . . you will have a thin red edge around your miniature meat loaf! On one can I mixed a dab of chili powder in the paprika. Made it really hot!

Be sure to pack your little cans pretty full, because if your hamburger meat is very fat, it will shrink slightly. Happy eating.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:

I suggest that the girls do not throw away the outside leaves of cabbage or the tops of celery. I use them for wrapping my oven cooked meat, especially the cabbage leaves.

I find that these leaves keep moisture in the meat and add a bit of flavor. I dredge my meat in flour, season it, and lay the cabbage leaves and a sprig of celery on top. Add water and cook covered in your oven. The result is wonderfully tender meat and yummy tasting drippings for gravy.

Voters To Decide Control Of U.S. House On Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 50 million voters will decide Tuesday on control of the U.S. House of Representatives for the next two years in an election that will determine the political future of some of the biggest names in American government.

The mid-term balloting will decide the extent of President Kennedy's influence in Congress until 1964. Also at stake, in greater or lesser degree, are the careers of such men as Richard M. Nixon, Nelson A. Rockefeller, Edmund G. Brown and GOP newcomer George Romney.

And, of course, the immediate future of two young Senate aspirants from Massachusetts — Edward M. Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President, and George Cabot Lodge, 35-year-old scion of another political dynasty.

When the returns are in, Republicans may have a little better indication of their White House chances two years hence and the kind of man — liberal or conservative — that they will pick to run against President Kennedy.

There has been no real battle for the GOP presidential nomination since 1952. The Tuesday results could draw the line for a Republican family fight like the Eisenhower-Taft battle that had scorched Chicago a decade ago.

Republicans have little hope of picking up the 44 seats they need to wrest control of the House from the Democrats. They also stand practically no chance of taking over the Senate. But their prospects are very bright in five big governors' races.

The GOP hopes — and cautiously expects — to re-elect Rockefeller in New York, put Nixon in the California state house, and take over the governorships in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan. Romney would be considered a presidential possibility if he defeats Democrat John B. Swainson in Michigan.

Nixon has laid his political career on the line. If he loses to Brown, the narrowly defeated 1960 presidential candidate probably will spend the rest of his career in a lawyer's office or a business executive's chair.

Deciding these and other questions will be an estimated 50 million voters, less than half the number of people of voting age. Still 50 million would be a record for a mid-term election. About 48 million voted in 1958. A record 68,833,341 votes were cast in the 1960 presidential election.

While the Democrats are expected to retain control of the House, history says they must lose some of their present 263 to 174 edge. A Republican gain of just a few votes could determine the fate of such measures as the President's "Medicare" plan by strengthening the power of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats.

In all the voters will elect 35 governors, 39 U.S. senators and all 435 House members, plus thousands of state and local officials.

U.S. RUSHING AID

Airlift Of Arms To India Begins

With the launching of the American arms airlift, U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith pointedly told Prime Minister Nehru's government "the great task remains with the Indian army."

Indian forces along the Himalayan frontier were digging in and checked—at least temporaily—the Chinese drive. But the Communists appeared massing to resume their offensive

An Indian defense ministry spokesman reported the front quiet for 24 hours, with the only shooting "some exchange of fire in the vicinity of Walong, two miles west of the Burma border."

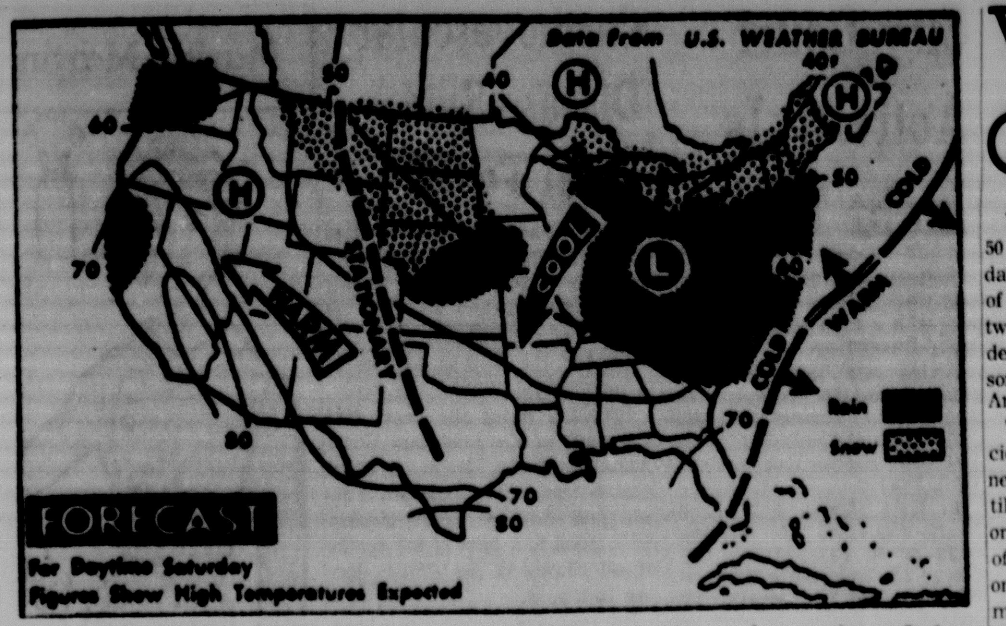
The other major Communist stab into northeastern India near the captured monastery town of Towang stalled as Indian troops prepared a defense line behind the fallen outposts.

The United States made it crystal clear the military aid being rushed to India is confined to arms; no men.

Galbraith cautioned the Indians, whose defenses were neglected in pursuance of a passive, neutralist policy, against expecting American weapons alone to "work magic." Speaking to newsmen, he added:

"We are happy to help with equipment to stop aggression but equipment is only part of the problem."

The first U.S. Air Force C135 jet transport took off from Frankfurt, Germany, under security precautions, with photographers barred from taking pictures of the loading. An announcement in Washington, however, said initial aid would include light infantry weapons, artillery and communications and transportation equipment.



THE NORTHERN TIER of states and the eastern third of the country will have cloudy skies on Saturday. Partly cloudy to clear skies should prevail elsewhere. Occasional rain is forecast for Atlantic coast from Maine to South Carolina and in northern Florida and the Tennessee and Ohio valleys. Snow flurries are due in the northern Lakes region and northern Great Plains. Pacific northwest will have some drizzle. Tech Curricula Re-Accredited, Bogard Reports

RUSTON (Special) — Engineering curricula at Louisiana Tech have been re-accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development (ECPD), the national accrediting agency for engineering schools, Ben T. Bogard, dean of the School of Engineering here, has announced.

During the spring semesters of 1961 and 1962, Tech's School of Engineering and the department of agricultural engineering of the school of Agriculture and Forestry were inspected by teams from the ECPD.

As a result of these inspections, re-accreditation of engineering curricula was granted to the departments of civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering in 1961, and to the departments of agricultural, chemical, geological, and petroleum engineering in 1962.

The inspection teams and the council offered several criticisms for strengthening of the engineering programs at Tech.

They indicated that "the salary scale for the staff is acutely low" but that they found "a dedicated faculty with good evidences of self-improvement and an alert, aggressive student body with good academic performance."

Dean Bogard said the accreditation of engineering curricula by the ECPD "is of great importance to engineering students and to the college in that a graduate of an accredited curriculum is in a better position to be licensed under state laws for practice of the engineering profession."

EXTEND BARRICADES

Key West Military Buildup Continues

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Troops working in a tropical rain shower doubled and extended the barbed wire barricades Friday on the Key West beach facing Cuba 90 miles away as the American military posture remained alert.

Soldiers also solidified positions at Opa-locka, near Miami, where a hospital has been stocked for use and emergency field hospitals and ambulances are standing by.

Armed fighter jets raised an aerial shield over the straits separating Florida and Cuba, many operating from behind the tightly guarded gates of Boca Chica Naval Air Station near Key West.

An aide of Florida Gov. Farris Bryant said after the chief executive toured the naval station that the party got the impression he Navy and Marine fliers there are ready for any action "either coming this way or going the other way."

In Key West, closest U.S. territory to Havana, the work of stretching barbed wire and sandbagging machine gun positions was pressed forward.

A few soldiers ignored the tropical showers to fish off the end of the pier stretching to sea behind the luxury hotel where many are quartered. The hotel entrance is ringed with barbed wire and the soldiers have not been allowed out on the streets since they arrived at the height of the Cuban crisis.

Even a few comely young ladies who have ventured through the barricades have had difficulty making conversation. The soldiers are under orders to be polite but say nothing.

The big Navy base here was deserted with almost all the ships at sea. The submarine station, which normally relays information to Navy families and residents on sub movements via telephone was playing a recorded voice that repeated, to callers: "We are sorry to report that no information on submarine movements is being given at this time."

Negro Jurors Basis Of Plea

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Attorneys for Woodman J. Collins, 30, Iowa, La., Negro sentenced to death for aggravated rape, filed a habeas corpus plea in U. S. District Court Friday.

Counsel said his constitutional rights were violated because the grand jury which indicted him had too many Negroes serving on the jury.

The argument was that the special grand jury contained a "disproportionate amount of Negro representation," and the petition said "this conduct violates the 14th amendment to the constitution in that constitutional provisions prohibit systematic inclusion as well as systematic exclusion of Negro jurors."

Collins was sentenced in Jefferson Davis Parish June 21, 1961.

The petition urged a stay of execution and asked the court to relieve the prisoner of "unconstitutional detention, imprisonment and sentence of death."

Soviets Report Space Shot On Mars Course

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's big unmanned space laboratory Mars-1 sped Friday toward a rendezvous with the planet Mars with all systems working normally, Soviet reports said.

The 1,970-pound space vehicle, packed with photographic and other scientific equipment, was the heaviest ever sent on an interplanetary flight.

It was launched Thursday from a space platform orbiting the earth. The platform, believed to be similar to one that sent a similar vehicle toward Venus Feb. 12, 1961, was estimated to weigh about six tons.

Soviet commentators carefully pointed out that the Americans don't plan to try a Mars shot until 1964.

The Soviet reports have not indicated whether Mars-1 is intended to hit the planet. Indications are that it will photograph Mars without striking its surface.

Voters To Decide Control Of U.S. House On Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 50 million voters will decide Tuesday on control of the U.S. House of Representatives for the next two years in an election that will determine the political future of some of the biggest names in American government.

The mid-term balloting will decide the extent of President Kennedy's influence in Congress until 1964. Also at stake, in greater or lesser degree, are the careers of such men as Richard M. Nixon, Nelson A. Rockefeller, Edmund G. Brown and GOP newcomer George Romney.

And, of course, the immediate future of two young Senate aspirants from Massachusetts — Edward M. Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President, and George Cabot Lodge, 35-year-old scion of another political dynasty.

When the returns are in, Republicans may have a little better indication of their White House chances two years hence and the kind of man — liberal or conservative — that they will pick to run against President Kennedy.

There has been no real battle for the GOP presidential nomination since 1952. The Tuesday results could draw the lines for a Republican family fight like the Eisenhower-Taft battle that had scorched Chicago a decade ago.

Republicans have little hope of picking up the 44 seats they need to wrest control of the House from the Democrats. They also stand practically no chance of taking over the Senate. But their prospects are very bright in five big governors' races.

The GOP hopes — and cautiously expects — to re-elect Rockefeller in New York, put Nixon in the California state house, and take over the governorships in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan. Romney would be considered a presidential possibility if he defeats Democrat John B. Swainson in Michigan.

Nixon has laid his political career on the line. If he loses to Brown, the narrowly defeated 1960 presidential candidate probably will spend the rest of his career in a lawyer's office or a business executive's chair.

Deciding these and other questions will be an estimated 50 million voters, less than half the number of people of voting age. Still 50 million would be a record for a mid-term election. About 48 million voted in 1958. A record 68,883,341 votes were cast in the 1960 presidential election.

While the Democrats are expected to retain control of the House, history says they must lose some of their present 263 to 174 edge. A Republican gain of just a few votes could determine the fate of such measures as the President's "Medicare" plan by strengthening the power of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats.

In all the voters will elect 35 governors, 39 U.S. senators and all 435 House members, plus thousands of state and local officials.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Activity in the grain futures market suddenly speeded up shortly after noon Friday on a surge of buying and prices moved up a cent or so within a few minutes but the advances failed to hold. Prices were mostly mixed at the close.

The demand burst quickly after circulation in the pits that Russia would back Premier Castro's demand that the United States abandon its naval base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

It sent speculators scrambling hard to cover short commitments and some to establish long positions. Trade had been mixed and draggy until the report came.

The runup quickly hit accumulations of profit selling and some of the advance was lost. Selling was heaviest in corn and that grain closed easier on all contracts.

Wheat was ½ cent a bushel higher to ½ lower at the close, December $2.07⅞-08; corn ⅛-⅜ lower, December $1.07½-¼; oats ⅛ higher to ⅛ lower, December 64⅝-½ cents; rye ⅜-1¾ higher, December $1.22⅜-½; soybeans ½ higher to ¾ lower, November $2.42½-⅝.

WINNSBORO (Special) —Mrs. W. A. Hatton, Franklin parish registrar of voters, said that 5,078 persons in Franklin parish are eligible to vote in the general election Tuesday.

In addition to the general election, the Franklin parish school board has called a $950,000 bond election for ward seven (Winnsboro) for the same date. According to Mrs. Hatton, there are 869 eligible property owning voters registered in ward seven.

HAND PROTECTION

NEW YORK (UPI) — Use of liquidproof neoprene household gloves is suggested by medical researchers to protect women's hands from eczema flareups that are especially common in the first two months after the birth of a child.

Psychosomatic factors and the excessive amount of "wet work" a new mother must do often trigger an eczema condition in water - logged hands, the researchers say.

Cardiovascular Disease Said Fatal To 500

"More than 500 people died of cardiovascular disease in Ouachita Parish last year," Dr. August G. Danti, associate professor of pharmacy at Northeast State College, told the Monroe Jaycees in a meeting this week.

Speaking about the heart and the work of the Louisiana Heart Association, Dr. Danti stressed that 503 people in Ouachita Parish had died of heart disease in relation to a total of 960 deaths of all causes in the Parish during last year.

He said that there have been 921,540 deaths in the United States due to cardiovascular disease and emphasized that this was three times more deaths than caused by cancer.

"It is the continued interest of the Heart Volunteer, the contributions of the lay public, which make heart research a reality and which gives heart - troubled patients an opportunity for a normal life," he added. "Heart disease is the number one killer of today."

Tech Installing Lamps At Four Building Fronts

The building to be bathed in light are Kenny Hall, Prescott Memorial Library, Bogard Hall and Howard Auditorium.

The flood lights, being installed under the direction of H. C. Pyburn, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Tech are 1,500 watt cobalt lamps. They will be placed and adjusted to light up the entire fronts of the buildings. This decorative approach follows a trend which is becoming widespread, Dr. Taylor pointed out.

Funds for the lighting program are being provided by the Circle K club, Associated Women Students and other campus organizations.

Another lighting plan in the offing is one to have the towers on top of Keeny and Bogard Halls repainted and the present lights on them replaced with flood lights.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Activity in the grain futures market suddenly speeded up shortly after noon Friday on a surge of buying and prices moved up a cent or so within a few minutes but the advances failed to hold. Prices were mostly mixed at the close.

The demand burst quickly after circulation in the pits that Russia would back Premier Castro's demand that the United States abandon its naval base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

It sent speculators scrambling hard to cover short commitments and some to establish long positions. Trade had been mixed and draggy until the report came.

The runup quickly hit accumulations of profit selling and some of the advance was lost. Selling was heaviest in corn and that grain closed easier on all contracts.

Wheat was ½ cent a bushel higher to ½ lower at the close, December $2.07⅞-08; corn ⅛-⅝ lower, December $1.07½-¼; oats ¼ higher to ⅛ lower, December 64⅝-½ cents; rye ⅜-1¾ higher, December $1.22⅜-½; soybeans ½ higher to ¾ lower, November $2.42½-⅝.

WINNSBORO (Special) —Mrs. W. A. Hatton, Franklin parish registrar of voters, said yesterday that 5,078 persons in Franklin parish are eligible to vote in the general election Tuesday.

In addition to the general election, the Franklin parish school board has called a $950,000 bond election for ward seven (Winnsboro) for the same date. According to Mrs. Hatton, there are 869 eligible property owning voters registered in ward seven.

HAND PROTECTION

NEW YORK (UPI) — Use of liquidproof neoprene household gloves is suggested by medical researchers to protect women's hands from eczema flareups that are especially common in the first two months after the birth of a child.

Psychosomatic factors and "the excessive amount of 'wet' work" a new mother must do often trigger an eczema condition in water - logged hands, the researchers say.

Cardiovascular Disease Said Fatal To 500

"More than 500 people died of cardiovascular disease in Ouachita Parish last year," Dr. August G. Danti, associate professor of pharmacy at Northeast State College, told the Monroe Jaycees in a meeting this week.

Speaking about the heart and the work of the Louisiana Heart Association, Dr. Danti stressed that 503 people in Ouachita Parish died of heart disease in relation to a total of 960 deaths of all causes in the Parish during last year.

He said that there have been 921,540 deaths in the United States due to cardiovascular disease and emphasized that this was three times more deaths than caused by cancer.

"It is the continued interest of the Heart Volunteer, the contributions of the lay public, which make heart research a reality and which gives heart - troubled patients an opportunity for a normal life," he added. "Heart disease is the number one killer of today."

Tech Installing Lamps At Four Building Fronts

The building to be bathed in light are Kenny Hall, Prescott Memorial Library, Bogard Hall and Howard Auditorium.

The flood lights, being installed under the direction of H. C. Pyburn, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Tech are 1,500 watt cobalt lamps. They will be placed and adjusted to light up the entire fronts of the buildings.

This approach to the project follows a trend that has become wide-spread, Dr. Taylor pointed out.

Funds for the lighting program are being provided by the Circle K club, Associated Women Students and other campus organizations.

Another lighting plan in the offing is one to have Keeny and Bogard Halls repainted and the present lights on them replaced with flood lights.

Other beautification projects being planned or carried out include the following:

Work is now in progress on a rose garden to be planted between the Lady of the Mist fountain and Howard Auditorium.

West Monroe Is Warned On Salesmen

West Monroe residents were warned Friday to be on guard against solicitations by representatives of insulating firms misrepresenting themselves as having been sent by the Federal Housing Administration or with the endorsement of the city Fire Department.

Sounding the first alarm was the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, whose manager, Eugene Smith, urged residents to notify either the Chamber or the police if visited by one of the parties.

He said with cooperation "these questionable characters" could be "run out of town in no time."

The insulating salesmen, said to be representing five or six firms, use one of two approaches, according to Smith.

They claim either to have been sent by the FHA or the Fire Department, complete an inspection, then tell homeowners to sign a paper and "necessary" insulation will be done.

Smith said all door to door salesmen must have a solicitation permit issued by the Chamber, "or else they are liable to arrest by the Police Department."

NLSC Student Is Homemaker Contest Winner

A Northeast Louisiana State College student from Zachary has won the second highest rating in the 1962 search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow in Louisiana.

She is Keith Adair Sigrest, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burton Sigrest of Zachary. She is a freshman pharmacy major at NLSC.

The announcement of Miss Sigrest's award came from A. Louis Champlin Jr., assistant to the vice - president of General Mills, Inc., which conducted the contest.

As the winner she received a $500 scholarship to be administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. She elected to attend Northeast State.

She was an outstanding student in high school, where she was a member of FHA, Mu Sigma, a cheerleader, 4H Club treasurer, and a class officer.

West Monroe Is Warned On Salesmen

West Monroe residents were warned Friday to be on guard against solicitations by representatives of insulating firms misrepresenting themselves as having been sent by the Federal Housing Administration or with the endorsement of the city Fire Department.

Police by Friday night had made no apprehensions in connection with several reported incidents.

Sounding the first alarm was the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, whose manager, Eugene Smith, urged residents to notify either the Chamber or the police if visited by one of the parties.

He said with cooperation "these questionable characters" could be "run out of town in no time."

The insulating salesmen, said to be representing five or six firms, use one of two approaches, according to Smith.

They claim either to have been sent by the FHA or the Fire Department, complete an inspection, then tell homeowners to sign a paper and "necessary" insulation will be done.

Smith said all door to door salesmen must have a solicitation permit issued by the Chamber, "or else they are liable to arrest by the Police Department."

NLSC Student Is Homemaker Contest Winner

A Northeast Louisiana State College student from Zachary has won the second highest rating in the 1962 search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow in Louisiana.

She is Keith Adair Sigrest, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burton Sigrest of Zachary. She is a freshman pharmacy major at NLSC.

The announcement of Miss Sigrest's award came from A. Louis Champlin Jr., assistant to the vice - president of General Mills, Inc., which conducted the contest.

As the winner she received a $500 scholarship to be administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. She elected to attend Northeast State.

She was an outstanding student in high school, where she was a member of FHA, Mu Sigma, a cheerleader, 4H Club treasurer, and a class officer.
